PARKER CASE HEARD

Police Sergeant Admits Error of Judgment Only.

NO OFFENSE INTENDED

Commission Delays Finding—Two Men Accused of Extortion by Hotelkeeper Discharged as Identification Fails.

That he had committed an error of judgment in invading the flat of Andrew Zeller and wife, was the confession of Police Sergeant Harry Parker, who was before the police commission yesterday afternoon on charges brought by Zeller. Aside from that admission, however, Parker made a vehement denial of the charges and defended himself in a manly and straightforward manner.

The offense against Zeller is alleged to have been committed at Russell street and Williams avenue on May 8, when Parker and Patrolman Stewart entered the apartments of the Zellers, in the early hours of the morning.

Parker Denies Animus.
Parker told the commission that Patrolman Stewart had informed him that improper persons were consorting in that neighborhood. He watched and said that on two successive nights he saw persons of dubious character enter the building in which the Zellers lived. A young man who had frequented the place told the officers that the first door on the right led to the room which they wanted. Acting on that information they went up and knocked. Zeller opened the door and Parker walked in. He denies Zeller's charge that he pushed his way in. Upon seeing that he had made a mistake Parker apologized and withdrew. He denied any animus against Zeller. The case was held under advisement by the commission.

Charges of extorting $150 from Mrs. Ward, proprietress of the Plaza Hotel, brought by Police Captain Bailey against Patrolmen H. L. Coulter and B. D. Hutchings, fell flat, when heard by the commission yesterday, through the failure of the prosecuting witness to support her statements previously made to the police officials.

Woman Changes Mind.
Captain Bailey related that he had sent out a number of plain-clothes policemen, including Coulter and Hutchings, one Sunday recently to look for violations of the Sunday law. The officers reported failure to get evidence at the Plaza Hotel. Later Captain Bailey heard that someone had collected fines of $150 from this place. The witnesses were called to the station and picked Coulter and Hutchings from among a number of men, identifying them as the two who had received the money.

Yesterday when placed on the witness stand, Mrs. Ward, who conducts the place, said that they looked a little like the men, but she would not identify them positively and showed a great unwillingness to testify. Police officials testified that both men had excellent records. The charges were dismissed. Chief of Police Cox had told Coulter and Hutchings that they were lucky to escape and that they must prove their innocence by immaculate conduct in the future.

CITY PLANS DOCK

Mayor Assents to Appropriation of $15,000 for Work.

CONCRETE WILL BE USED

Half of Necessary Money to Be Expended in Each of Two Years. Architecture Will Be Creditable to City.

Mayor Simon has given hearty assent to the proposal of Councilman Annand for an appropriation of $15,000 for the purpose of beginning construction of a concrete dock at the foot of Stark street and at the session of the Council next Wednesday an ordinance will be introduced to this effect.

City Attorney Grant has given an opinion addressed to Councilman Annand, in which he holds that the Council, under the charter, may appropriate $15,000 to begin construction and that it then may make a second appropriation next year of an equal sum to complete the dock.

The legal phase of the case having been settled, the Council will now proceed to enact the necessary legislation to the end that a concrete dock, the first to be built in Portland, shall be constructed. It will be on property owned by the municipality at the foot of Stark street.

Harbormaster Speler long has urged the city to construct a public dock and landing place at the foot of Stark street and the Mayor has been impressed with the plan. Mr. Annand recently became interested in the subject and took up with Mr. Grant the legal financial phases of the project.

The general fund has been pretty well exhausted this year, owing to the many things for which money has been used since the levy was made. Therefore it is the purpose of Mr. Annand and of the Mayor to appropriate half of the sum necessary for the construction of the dock, the remainder to be appropriated next year. There is urgent need for such a dock.

Mr. Speler has a set of plans for the proposed dock and after the ordinance appropriating the money has been passed, these will be presented to the Executive Board for approval and the work will be ordered. The plans contemplate a dock built out even with Front street, with a stairway leading from the upper to the lower floors, and with ornamentation that will make it a credit to the city.

VALLEY HAS GREAT CROPS

Farmers Are Prosperous and Bring Prosperity to Towns.

D. C. Freeman, publicity manager of the Eugene Commercial Club, who was in the city yesterday, says it is a great crop year throughout the Willamette Valley.

"Enormous yields of all products and practically no untoward conditions," he said, "are reported in all sections. I have recently been on a trip through the remoter parts of Lane and Linn Counties and the farmers are all talking about additions to their barns and new houses. Fruit crops are normally heavy around Eugene and the Fruitgrowers' Association is doing a record business. Newcomers are arriving in our city daily by the dozen and every week a carload or two of household effects of settlers are unloaded.

"Dairymen from the Lake Creek district are hauling cream 30 miles to the railroad and netting 28 cents for butterfat. That makes 'the independent man.' All other farm products are selling well. Eugene, too, is prospering and is rounding out a new building record of $900,000 for the year. We have done a great deal of road improvement and this has brought to the delightful McKenzie region hundreds of recreationists in autos.

"Eugene will soon be a busy transportation and traffic distributing center as quickly as the Oregon Electric and the Klamath Falls roads reach the town."

OPTIMISM LANDS IN JAIL

John Burrows Gets Chance to Practice His "Don't Worry" Slogan.

"Don't worry about that," was the slogan that John Burrows took with him when he went celebrating Thursday night. He had imbibed much hilarity when he appeared at the Willamette rooming-house at Sixth and Stark streets, about 9:30 o'clock and said that he "guessed he would take a flop." "You can't lie down here," the landlady told him. "Don't worry about that," said Burrows. Patrolman Grism was called and told Burrows he would have to go to the station.

"Don't worry about that," said Burrows.

"How old are you?" asked Desk Officer Flack.

"Don't worry about that," said Burrows, smilingly.

"Do you mean to say that I have to lie down among those fellows," said Burrows to Jailer Jeff Thompson when he was ushered into the corridor.

"No," replied Thompson. "You can stand up if you wish."

"Don't worry about that," said Burrows.

The cheerful one would tell nothing of himself, but papers in his pockets showed that he was a solicitor for a publishing firm. He was given five days by Judge Bennett yesterday. But he didn't worry.
