Sims was timing another automobile which was exceeding the speed limit. He was following close behind it and was going at the rate of 25 miles an hour when, at Union avenue and Sacra-mento street, the car driven by Cole cut between him and his quarry. Sims had his eye on the car ahead and had not time to swerve. He crashed into Cole's car, smashing the front wheel of his motorcycle, and was himself thrown heavily to the ground. He suffered a hadly wrenched arm and a severely bruised face, but congratulates himself that he escaped alive. The motorcycle was so badly damaged that the police patrol wagon was sent out after it. The damage to the motorcycle will be a severe blow to the work of the de-partment, until it can be replaced. Since pariment, until it can be replaced. Since the introduction of the machines, about a week ago, a tight rein has been kept on automobile speeders and it has been possible to divert the activity of the regular patrolmen to other matters. The motorcycles have been used to an-swer hurry calls and complaints from remote districts, and have been a great help to the officers. Repairs will be made to the machine as soon as possi-ble. ble.

ble. Fewer violations of the speed regula-tions than usual were reported yester-day. Walter Curren was arrested by Patrolman Evans, of the motorcycle squad, at Eighteenth and Belmont streets, and was charged with exceed-ing the speed limit. her name was crossing the Burnside bridge Saturday evening, out of the line. Patroluman Johnson signaled to her to get into line and she compiled at once, too readily. Turning shortly, she collided with a streetcar, scratching the paint and damaging the mudguards on her machine, but doing no serious damage. "Of course I thought I had to turn when he told me to." she said.

Liquor Found by Wholesale.

Hansen, who is the proprietor of the rooming-house, requested that he be allowed to go upstairs after his hat. Wanless accompanied him and found eight men, a small boy and Hansen's wife, in a room with 13 cases of beer, a dozen bottles of champagne and eight pints of whisky. The refresha dozen bottles of champagne and eight pints of whisky. The refresh-ments were covered with blankets and clothing. The entire supply was con-fiscated and graced a corner in the police station yesterday, along with a lot of gambling paraphernalia captured at another place. The first alleged violator of the Sun-day ordinance caught during the closed day ordinance, caught during the closed period, was arrested by Patrolmen Courtney and Pryke, who found Ar-thur Baldwin, a saloonkeeper at Third and Glisan streets, selling liquor at 12:05 o'clock yesterday morning. The front door was closed, but the officers entered by another way and found the bar lived with more when were defined bar lined with men who were drink ing. Baldwin was arrested and released on ball.

Anderson Is Sympathetic.

James Anderson was arrested yester-day afternoon at Sixth and Everett streets by Patroimen Taft and Neison, after he had sold one of them a bottle of beer. Anderson said he had the of beer. Anderson said he had made the sale only because the boys appeared to be dry and he thought it an outrage that one should be arrested for being sympathetic. He has been before the courts on previous occasions for the same offense. Tom Ellerby was seen coming out of his saloon and was placed under ar-rest by Patrolman Humphries. Ellerby said that he had dust rone in to cet rest by Patrolman Humphries. Ellerby said that he had just gone in to get some clothing, but he was required to put up $50 ball. Paul D. Whetzel, a druggist whose place of business is at 275 Russell street, was arrested by Patrolmen Taft and Neison, charged with selling liquor on Sunday. He was released on bail. Second-hand dealers who have made a practice of keeping their places of business open on Sunday in the face of an ordinance forbidding it, met an unexpected reverse yesterday. Frank Rosewing, of Front and Madison streets; Max Goldberg, of Front and Columbia streets, and William Snider, of 203 First street, were arrested by of 203 First street, were arrested by Patrolman Welch and released on ball taining the casket, and the casket itself, were remarkably well preserved. The face of the corpse retained every characteristic feature of the living boy, while the hair remained parted and held its color. While the body had slightly withered, the ficeh was firm and clung fast to the bones as in life. The skin had dried, and stretching over the joints, made them quite visible. The body was transferred to a newly-made grave in St. Mary's Cemetery. The dry soil and the absence of vege-table matter are given as the causes for this strange preservation of human bodies at Mount Calvary. C
