BOARD'SFINANCE

Charge That $10,000 is Lost on Bond Deal Disproved by Managers.

PACIFIC CITIES FAVORED

Convention Urges Head Officers to Invest in Western Securities in Preference to Those of Other Parts of Country.

Practically all of the business seasions of the Woodmen of the World were taken up yesterday in listening to the report of the committee on receipts and disbursements and an explanation by its members of the nature of investment of the order's funds.
The charge that $10,000 had been lost in the investment of $60,000 in Canton, N. C., bonds, fell flat when E. E. Carrington, chairman of the committee and an expert accountant, and C. W. Casler, a prominent banker and financier of Seattle and a member of the committee, showed that on the contrary it had been a very profitable investment, insuring an income of 4.75 per cent annually on the amount for 30 years.
It was also shown that the premium of $9902.50 paid for the bonds not only comes back to the order intact when the bonds mature but bears 4.75 per cent interest in the meantime. At the close of the discussion the convention heartify indorsed the action of the board of head managers in the purchase of the Canton bonds.

Pacific Cities Preferred.

Pacific Cities Preferred.

The recommendation that, all things being equal, preference be given cities in the Pacific jurisdiction in the pur-chase of bonds, was approved, but the purchase of bonds of other cities is not precluded by the action of the convention.

In the afternoon, Chairman W. C. Hawley, of the board of head managers, discussed at length the practice of the board in investing funds of the order. He went into minute detail, showing the careful investigation that is made of all securities offered for sale and the discrimination that is used by the board in selecting the most profitable and safest investments. The convention listened attentively to the profitable and safest investments. The convention listened attentively to the address, and when he had finished approved of the system employed by the board of head managers.

Mrs. Carrie C. Van Orsdall, grand guardian of the Women of Woodcraft, asked the convention in the forenoon to modify the agreement entered into 12 years ago between the women's auxiliary and the Woodmen, so that married men whose wives or daughters are members of the order may also join, even if they do not belong to the Woodmen. The present agreement prevents men who are not members of the Woodmen from joining the Women of Woodcraft.

Co-operation Is Urged.

Mrs. Van Orsdall also asked that the Woodmen join with the Women of Woodcraft in installations, memorials and funeral ecremonies. All the recommendations of Mrs. Van

GRAND JURY MAY

Fitzgerald Thinks Charge of Manslaughter Should Be Made Against Doctor.

CARELESSNESS IS ALLEGED

Authorities Are of Opinion Rosenberg Did Not Exercise Due Diligence in Administering Anesthetic to Young Woman.

"If Dr. J. J. Rosenberg administered chloroform to Vera Hall under the conditions stated by the various witnesses, even dismissing the theory that a criminal act was contemplated, I believe that an information charging manslaughter should be filed, and I shall present the care to the grand jury." said Deputy District Attorney Fitzgerald yesterday.

While still unconvinced that the act by which the Oregon City girl came to her death on Dr. Rosenberg's operating table was not a prellminary to a more serious offense, the authorities are inclined to place carelessness in the fore-ground and proceed against the physi-cian on the assumption that he did not use due diligence in preventing untoward effects from the administration of the Conferences with leading physicians will be held by Fitzgerald, to inform simself of the proper procedure in such asses, and if the facts are as have been Assistant Is Inexperienced.

From the assertions of witnesses it is shown that Dr. Rosenberg, after making an examination which should have re-vealed the weakness of the girl's heart, f such a condition, as is alleged, really existed, undertook the use of chloroform without any expert assistance, and used the inexperienced assistant he had only to attempt to resuscitate the girl after the drug had taken its fatal effect.

The Coroner's men who took charge of the body at Oregon City declare that the light collar and close-fitting corset which the girl wore had not been loosened in the least, even though Rosenberg and Richard Graysen say that they attempted for 15 minutes to induce respiration.

Whether these things fall under the han of medical jurisprudence is the question upon which Fitzgerald will seek expert medical advice. He will also inquire whether the explanation of Dr. Rosenberg that he gave the chlorotorm simply to ease the pain of an ocular examination is plausible, or whether the administering of the drug should not be assumed to be a preliminary to an operation. te girl wore had not been loosened in

That the Oregon statutes present no That the Oregon statutes present no method of taking from a physician his license to practice, in a case where death occurs without moral turpitude, was a discovery made by Fitzgerald, after a search of the code yesterday. DECLARATION IS HELD UP ON TECHNICAL GROUND.

County Court Machine Opposed by Candidate, Who States Position Clearly on Ballot.

Municipal Judge Frank S. Dennett, recommended by the recent county as-sembly for County Judge, declared war on the County Court machine yes-terday by directing County Clerk Fields to announce on the official bailot his intention of breaking up the ring. County Clerk Fields, commonly reported to be one of the ring, imme-diately retaliated by holding up Judge Bennett's request on the assumption that it was not technically in accordance with the election law. The ques-tion was referred by Fields to the At-torney-General for an opinion.

Having thrown down the gauntiet, Judge Bennett said later that he in-tended going ahead with his fight on the Courthouse organization. Accord-ing to Judge Bennett's definition of the ring, it comprises substantially all the officers about the Courthouse, excepting the Judges, and also takes in District Attorney Cameron. The official last named has been seeking to injure Judge Bennett's campaign for County Judge ever since the assembly, so Judge Bennett says by referrice of injure Judge Bennett's campaign for County Judge ever since the assembly, so Judge Bennett snys, by referring all labor disputes to the Municipal Court, instead of to the Justice Courts, where they may be said properly to belong.

"What I had partice ar reference to, however," said Judge Bennett. "was the organization of county employes, working directly under the control of the County Court. There are bridgemen, ferry employes, road supervisors and laborers to the number of several hundred, and all these men are working in the interest of Judge Cleeton.

"No, I haven't any plans for cleaning out the County Court gang. I have felt, however, that the force is not used fairly or in the best interests of the taxpayers always. As to the Courthouse gang, that is another matter, and even if elected County Judge I could so nothing there. I am consident the whole county assembly ticket will win. Then there will be new faces at the heads of departments and beneficial changes for the good of the county service can be made generally."

The declaration for the official ballot, in which Judge Pennett brought his intentions to public notice, read: "If I am nominated and elected I will, during my term of office, endeavor to break up what is commonly known as name on the ballot. Judge Bennett sub-mitted: "Regular Republican, indorsed by the open assembly."

It was to this catch-line that County Clerk Fields first took umbrage, and in substantiation of his objections pro-duced section 23 of the election laws, which reads. chich reads:

The name of each person for whom as a candidate for nomination a valid petition has been duly filed, shall be printed on the ballot in out one place, but there shall be added opposite thereto the measure he especially advocates, expressed in not more than 12 words, as specified in the petition for nomination maining him for office.

Section 12, which Mr. Fields also produced, gives the form of the candidates' declaration, the last part of which must read; "If I am nominated and elected I will, during my term of office" (here the candidate, in not exceeding 100 words, may state any measure or principles he especially advocates, and the form in which he wishes it printed after his name on the nominating ballot, in not exceeding 12 words."

All Republicans who have filed are "regular" Republicans, contends ounty Clerk Fields. Hence, he avers, this term cannot be put forth as a measure or a principle especially advocated by the candidate. Further than that, he argues that Judge Bennett's declaration of principles does not conform to what he asks to have placed on the ballot.

That Judge Cleeton will sim to support the support of the supering the supering to supering the supering to supering the supering to the supering to what he asks to have placed on the ballot.

That Judge Cleeton will aim to succeed himself as County Judge is now certain, although he has not announced the fact. It is learned that he now avers that he did not seek the assembly recommendation and that the presentation of his name was unauthorized. However, close friends and associates worked hard for him, his law partner, W. M. Davis, among them, during the assembly. On the first ballot, he received one vote more than did Judge Bennett, but on the second ballot John C. Shillock withdrew in favor of Judge Bennett, who then won by a narrow margin. by a narrow margin.
