RESIDENCENOBAR TO DEPORTATION

United States Court Upholds Legality of Amended Alien Law.

DECISION IS SIGNIFICANT

Immoral Aliens Can Be Deported at Any Time, No Matter How Long in Country, by Terms of Act. Japanese Makes Test Case.

SEATTLE, Aug. 4-United States District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford today upheld the constitutionality of the amended Federal immigration act, passed at the last session of Congress, ordering that all allens engaged in immoral occu-pations are subject to deportation, re-gardless of the length of time they have been residents.

In giving his decision Judge Hanford denied the petition for a writ of bebeas corpus by Umi Yoshida, a Japanese woman arrested May 10 on a charge of being an alien engaged in an immoral cocupation.

The woman's attorney maintained that Congress had exceeded its authority in amending the immigration act so as to remove the time limit during which allens might be deported and that the old law, which set a limit of three years, with in force. The Yoshida woman, old law, which set a limit of three years, was still in force. The Yoshida woman, it was set forth, has lived in the United States six years and she had been here three years before she began an immoral life. She sought refuge under the terms of the three-year clause and demanded that she be released.

In his decision Judge Hanford said that all eliens reside here by permission of the Government and that Congress has power to expel them with or without cause.

"In the law of 1997 there was a termination of time in which allens might be arrested and deported," said the court. "The amendatory act of 1910 has made a change whereby allens engaged in an immoral occupation, and all connected with it, are subject to deportation. The contention that the three-year clause is still to affect in pre-wall taken. That still in effect is not well taken. To clause was evidently so obnoxious that law that its force is removed necessary implication."

Lee Edwards Meets Horrible Fate Near Burns.

BURNS, Or., Aug. 4.—(Special.)—Lee Edwards, a young man 20 years of age, met a horrible death at the Island ranch of the Pacific Livestock Com-pany on Saturday about noon. He had been driving a team at the hay-stacker and at the dinner hour started for the house, riding one of the horses. While he was crossing a small bridge, a loose board flew up as the horse stopped on it and scared the animals, stepped on it and scarce the animals, which began jumping and bucking until the young man was thrown, his feet becoming entangied in the harness, and he was dragged nearly half a mile, the frightened horse kicking and trampling him at every jump. Edwards legs were broken, his body was a mass of bruises and his face was terribly Seattle Man Is Held Responsible for ex-Wife's Death.

CORONER'S JURY REPORTS

Despite Declarations of Charles Lyts and 12-Year-old Son, Shooting Is Not Thought to SEATTLE. Wash. Aug. 4.—The Coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Florence Handley Lyts, aged 37, who was shot and killed with a rifle last Sunday night in the home of her divorced husband. Charles Lyts, aged 40, real estate salesman, recommended today that Lyts be held responsible. Lyts was remanded to the County Jall.

The Prosecuting Attorney announced that he would file at once a complaint charging Lyts with murder. Two brothers and a sister of Mrs. Lyts testified against the prisoner. Walter Lyts, the 12-year-the prisoner. Walter Lyts, the 12-year-old son of the couple, testified that the shooting was accidental, and took upon himself the blame for the accident.

Woman Calls on ex-Husband.

Mrs. Lyts obtained a divorce from her husband two years ago. Lately, Lyts says, the couple had opened negotiations for remarriage, and Sunday night the woman called at Lyts home to make final arrangements. There she was shot and killed while her ex-husband and her young son were in the room.

The boy had been cleaning a rifle, which lay on a table, and while the boy was under the table searching for an article on the floor the weapon was discharged and Mrs. Lyis was shot in the Accident, Is Asserted.

The father said that the boy accidentally pulled the rifle from the table, and a builet was discharged in the fall, and the boy confirmed this statement, evidently believing it.

The Coroner found that the builet ranged downward, whereas a shot from a falling rifle would have taken an upward course. Mrs. Lyts had lately come into possession of $2300 from the sale of two lets, and the police assign the desire of Lyts to get this money as a motive for murder.

It was proposed that any violator should be subjected to a fine of from $50 to $100 or imprisonment of from $50 to $100 or imprisonment of from 25 to 50 days, or by both. The ordinance is an exact copy of the one that is in force in Albany and Eugene, Or. Mayor McEwen attacked the ordinance on the ground that the farmers who were advocating the ordinance had no right to attempt to dictate the laws of the town. Some of the Council stood with the Mayor, while others held the near beer saloon was a menace to the mear beer saloon was a menace to the community and increased the business interests in no way. The opponents of the measure averred that to remove the near beer saloon was to give business a hard knock.
