It is known that he handled considerable rums of money for his clients, but no complaint of shortage on that account has been officially made except in the suit of the telephone company.

PANIC-STRICKEN JAPS FLEE

Flames Wipe Out Lodgers in Early Morning Hours.

Japanese lodgers to the number of about 40 had narrow escapes from death when a nest of wooden buildings at First and Couch streets caught fire at $1.00 o'clock yesterday, morning. Many of the men, panic-stricken, leaped from second-story windows. One, giving the name Leo Kutani, had his hair singed before he arose from his bed. M. Hachiya, proprietor of the place, escaped by sliding down a water pipe.

The fire started from a kitchen in the rear of a store occupied by M. Hachiya & Co., dealers in Japanese goods. It at once developed threatening proportions and additional alarms were sent in until nearly all the fire apparatus in the city was in service. Two frame dwellings were destroyed and the upper story of a Japanese temple at 48 North First street was burned away, though the temple on the ground floor was not damaged.
