Arrival of a portion of the Washington National Guard and assurance that other Washington troops will be on hand to-morrow, served today to reassure the officers who have feared that forest fires would necessitate bringing the field exercises to a close. No further troopswere sent out today to fight fires, although the regulars are all being held bough the regulars are all being held a readiness. If the situation as to fires becomes more grave the militia regi-ments will have to be utilized scortly, as there are comparatively few regulars yet available.

Regulars Ready for Fires.

Today was an exceedingly quiet one in camp, most of the troops going to Tacoma or Seattle in the afternoon. Leaves were not given to regulars because of the fire situation, but the guardenen left camp almost to a man. Combined services were held in the early forenoon by Chaplains Gilbert and Elkins.

Chaplain Gilbert sounded a warning to be on guard against encroachment from foreign marauders. He averred that the Nation is only in its making and that its greatness is to surpass the fondest dreams of all patriots.
"A country of such wealth and opportunity and with such small military force is always in immediate danger," he said. "America's greatest crisis has never yet been reached. Things are occurring rapidly and, as soldiers, we are not detending a finished work, for the country's greatest advancement is yet to come. 27 TILLAMOOK MEN DENY PRO-HIBITION IS FAILURE.

They Declare There Is Not So Much Drunkenness in City Since Saloons Were Closed.

TILLAMOOK, Or., Aug. 14.—(To the Editor.)—There appeared in your issue of August 6 a column under the head-lines "Prohibition for Counties Is a Farce." Inasmuch as Tillamook is cited as an example of this feature, and her officials and people implicated in said failure, there is a widespread feeling here that the situation was not fairly dealt with in the above-mentioned column by Mayor Coates and the high-titled "Greater Oregon Home Rule Association." Therefore, we, the undersigned business men and citizens of Tillamook, respectfully request the publication of this further word in your valuable medium of intelligence.

Second, while the finances of the city are not in as good shape at present as they were in just prior to the taking effect of local option, this is accounted for to a considerable extent by the fact that the city had to repay a large sum to saloon-keepers who had renewed their licenses shortly prior to January 1, 1994, putting the city immediately in debt, and the further fact that last year and this, under Mr. Coates' administration, the city practically threw away, so far as the use of the money by the city was concerned, $3000 of road tax money, by upsetting an arrangement with the upsetting an arrangement with the County Court of long standing by which one-haif of the county roud tax collected in the city was being turned over to the city. But our records show that, instead, some of our local officials have done their best to violate the law themdone their best to violate the law them-selves, and have had to plead guilty and pay fines for such violations. The drummer came into camp for the purpose of trying to get a stock of wet goods installed at the officer's mess, regardless of the orders against such a practice. He inquired for the mess officer, and without suspecting that official of being a minister, talked at great length upon the alleged superiority of his goods and asked the chaplain at least to sample a few quarts.

The chaplain listened patiently until the drummer was through, then handed him a programme for the religious services that are to be held in the Oregon camp tomorrow. The drummer withdrew from camp in great confusion.

OREGON CITY, Or., Mg 14.—(Special.)—Three hundred and fifty men and a few women heard a denunciation of the saloon this afternoon from the lips of Evangelist "Bilip" Sunday at the Shively Theater. Sunday was introduced by W. S. U'Ren, who condemned the traffic more than he did the men who sell liquor to the consumers. After talking a few minutes, Sunday peeled off his coat and said he might as well get down to business, and in the middle of his to business, and in the middle of his speech he rushed from the platform, re-turning with a handbag from which he extracted an American flag that he waved before the audience.

"While I might be called crude, illiterate and jabbering," exclaimed the exbaseball player, "I am first and last against the liquor traffic. The newspapers are subsidized by the liquor traffic and whenever an editor favors this nefarlows business be ding his nen in farious business, he dips his pen in vitriolic sewage. You might as well try to regulate a powder mill in hell, as to try to regulate a salcon by high license. The only way to stop the liquor traffic absolutely is to stop the manufacture. I would rather be a man in hell than to be a manufacture of the course ways on the church record and have my name on the church record and vote for saloons.
