Owner of Horse Denies Crutery.-Police Sergeant Crate's knowledge of torses was attacked in Municipal Court horses was attacked in Municipal Court resterday by W. C. Alderson, a drayman, whom the veteran humane officer had arrested for driving a crippled horse. Alderson sought to prove on the stand that, when the euffering animal was flow in starting with Crate at the reins, t was because the driver was inexperienced. The imputation caused a smile among those who knew the old sergeant's reputation as a horseman. Several police officers testified that the horse was unfit to work. Alderson and his driver contended that the animal halted because one of its legs was shorter than contended that the animal haited be-cause one of its legs was shorter than it ought to be. Judge Bennett suspended sentence until today, when the horse will be brought to the police station for expert veterinary examination by the Noist Couple Arrested George Simpson, proprietor of the Eagle Rooming-House and of an automobile stand on Sixth street, had not been home for four days, says Mrs. Simpson, when she encountered him at his automobile station yesterday afternoon and seated herself in the machine. Prospective farge came and went, and still the trate wife held her place, meanwhile telling Simpson and the bystanders various things about his private life and characteristics. To avoid the notoriety, Simpson started the machine, and the flow of talk kept on. The car was driven past the police station and Patrolman Bales took a hand in the family controvers, arresting both Mrs. Simpson and her husband, on charges of being drunk and disorderly. Mrs. Simpson was sent upstairs to the women's ward, while Simpson was given quarters in the main corridor.

West is looked for by W. W. Broughton, of St. Paul, general traffic manager of the Great Northern, who arrived in Portland yesterday.

"Crop conditions in North and South Dakots, Minnesota and Montana are much better than the reports indicated a few weeks ago," he said yesterday, "and the general situation is improving daily.

"I am informed that the lumbermen on the Coast are having a dull season, but I am certain that the market has now reached its lowest stage. When the reports came of partial crop failures in the Middle West, the lumber buyers, of course, anticipated a reduction in building operations and the demand for lum-ber fell off very suddenly. Authorities May Regulate Traffic Over Bridges.

MACHINES GO BEFORE CARS

Bridge Tenders Believe River Traffic Has Begun to Adjust Itself to Closing of Draws, Save in Few Stubborn Cases.

Regulation of automobile traffic over the Morrison-street and Burnside-street bridges may result from the recent efforts of the authorities to adopt sched-ules for the opening and closing of the bridge draws.

While the danger from this source is no greater now than before the regula-tions went into effect, it has been more noticeable in the past few weeks, mere-iy because the bridge tenders have been observing all kinds of traffic conditions more closer than before. It is the invariable practice of auto It is the invariable practice of automobilists to line up on the cartrack to the left of the bridge during the opening of a draw and then shoot in ahead of the cars as soon as the bridge closes. When a dozen or more automobiles are waiting for the draw to close, it sometimes takes them to the middle of the bridge before the last one passes the bridge before the last one passes the first car. By this time the cars coming from the opposite direction are approaching and collisions are oftentimes narrowly averted. The space between the sets of tracks is not wide enough to per-mit an automobile to travel between two cars when they are meeting.

A few days ago a machine was thus caught between the tracks and only the alertness of the motormen in bringing their cars to a standstill prevented it #### from being crushed Autoists Are Endangered.

Bridge tenders say that the greatest to the motorists themselves as the streetcars are not likely to suffer. While bridge tenders do not suggest that the automobiles shall all line up back of the streetcars, they think some reguof the streetcars, they think some regu-lation of the traffic should be provided. The present careless methods are sure to result disastrously, they predict. Commissioner Goddard discussed this phase of the situation yesterday and ad-mitted that there was element of dan-ger in it, but inasmuch as he had not thoroughly considered the matter he was not prepared to suggest a way by which it might be remedied.

He says the county has full authority to regulate this traffic and does not think the Federal authorities will insist on jurisdiction so long as such auto-mobile regulation does not interfere with the river traffic.

River men continue to be held up at either bridge, but on recent occasions ione but tugs, schooners and general towboats have been delayed. While the towboats have been delayed. While the County Court's orders with reference to holding up all kinds of river traffic during the closed periods have not been suspended, it is tacitly understood among the bridge tenders that passenger and ocean-going vessels be excepted in this rule. With permission of the court the bridge tenders have been following this practice.

Boatmen Annoy Tenders.

The belief that some vessel men approach the bridges during the closed periods for the sole purpose of disturb-ing the tenders grows stronger among the men in the towers every day. They have made note of several of these, but declare that the Ottawa is among the principal offenders, as several times this vessel has remained along the docks in apparent idleness for fully 20 minutes before the start of the closed period, after which she approached and signals. for the draw. Upon being refused, the captain of the Ottawa on one or two occasions attempted to start an argument with one of the tenders. After being allowed to pass through when the closed period ended, the boat did not seem to be the theory of the contraction.

That the delays suffered by the river men is not causing them serious disturbance is the opinion of Federal Prosecutor John McCourt, who has received the protests of vessel owners in 16 separate cases. These were filed during the first few days of regulated traffic. None have come in since. The river men seem to have admirably adapted themselves to the situation, Mr. McCourt says, and so long as they are not complaining he does not regard the situation so scriously as long as they are not complaining he does not regard the situation so seriously as officials of the War Department at Washington first did.

"One or two of the cases before me may justify criminal proceedings," said Mr. McCourt yesterday. "All of them may, but I am not prepared to give an opinion. It is only six weeks now until the grand jury convenes. The matter will be entirely disposed of then, it will be determined as to whether the courts. be determined as to whether the courts will be called upon to settle the con-troversy. Maybe the jury won't consider the cases sufficiently serious to bring troversy. Maybe the jury won't consider the cases sufficiently serious to bring action. In that event it is probable that the present schedule will be allowed to

Evening Schedule Remains

Further steps to secure an immediate Further steps to secure an immediate suspension of the evening rules on the ground that they conflicted with the War Department's schedules have not been taken up by Major J. F. McIndoe, representing the War Department in this city. He says he is waiting to hear from the District Attorney's office on the question of legality in starting civil action against the county to compel a suspension of the schedule. The District Attorney says he has been busy with other official matters.

RUNAWAY BOY ARRESTED

Youth Fired by Deadwood Dick Literature Comes to City.

Lost boys were made a specialty at the police station yesterday, three cases being handled. With his pockets crammed with booklets relating the wonderful adventures of Deadwood Dick, Dick Coryca, 15 years old, a runaway from The Dalles, was picked up on lower Russell street by Detective Hawley and taken to the police station. Dick said that The Dalles was not hig enough for him, but dented that he contemplated following the footsteps of his hero. His parents were notified of his arrest.

Mrs. Jacobsen, 128 Mill street, reported that he 4-year-old boy was lost from his home at 9:30 yesterday morning. Neighbors reported seeing him going south in company with an old man. He was dressed in a blue "Buster" suit.

Mrs. H. E. Reeves reported from the Hood Hotel that she had lost her boy, 2½ years old, on the street.

NEW DISPLAY PLANNED

UNION PACIFIC TO SHOW RE-SOURCES OF OREGON.

Exhibition of Oregon products in Eastern towns and cities by Western railoads will do much to advertise this state and its resources during the coming

The Northern Pacific and Great North-The Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads have aiready provided for displays of this kind and the Union Pacific is negotiating for a similar exhibit. Officials of the road have asked H. B. Wight, the process expert of the Chamber of Commerce, to prepare estimates of the cost, of collecting a quantity of truit, grain and vegetable specimens from all parts of the state sufficient to fill a car. They are eager to have the exhibit prepared and purpose having the car ready for Eastern and Southern tours early in the Winter. The Union Pacific car ready for Eastern and Southern tours early in the Winter. The Union Pacific will follow the usual practice of convert-ing a Pullman sleeper into a traveling display room by taking out the berths and seats. Competent lecturers will accompany the car and will also distribute Oregon literature.

While the railroads aim primarily to attract settlers and homeseekers to this portion of the country. Portland and the entire state will benefit from their enterprise. Hundreds of people are annually brought to the state through the induc-ments presented by the railroad display-cars. Many of the inquiries are directed to the Chamber of Commerce and Comercial Club. Officials and clerks those bodies declare that the number those bodies declare that the number of persons asking for Oregon Information as the result of their visits to one of these cars is surprising.

"This activity on the part of the railroads is one of the best forms of advertising that we can have," said M. Mossacohn, acting secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday.

"While we spend much time and effort in mailing literature to people who want in mailing literature to people who wan to learn about Oregon, the printed facts can in no way convince them of the agricultural and horticultural possibilities of the state in the way that can be done through presenting them the actual products of the soil themselves." Officers of the Chamber are co-oper ating with the railroads in their efforts thus to advertise Oregon and are urging commercial bodies at other places to assist them. Sometimes the greatest difficulty attends the collection of sultab displays, as the fruitgrowers and farmers do not seem to realize how important it is that they send representative specimens of their products. With the continuance of this practice by the railroads the outlying communities have been more eager to contribute. Mr. Wight has already started work on the Great Northern display and expects to begin preparing the Union Pacific specimens in the next few weeks.
