

BOAT ADOPTS RUSE

Water Stored to Permit Steamer to Cross Rapids.

STREAM IS NOW VERY LOW

Representatives of Army Engineering Office Inspect Clackamas Rapids With View of Relieving River Transportation.

Storing water upstream so as to create a miniature freshet, on which to float vessels over a bar is a ruse in steamboating to defeat nature's pranks in diminishing the depth of the Willamette, and it was on such a flow, which Dick O'Reilly says was about as deep as a heavy dew, that the Diamond O was able to cross the Clackamas Rapids yesterday.

The Diamond O interests haul fuel oil to manufacturing plants at Oregon City in the barge Bonanza, but for two weeks they have been prevented from reaching the Willamette Falls because of low water at the mouth of the Clackamas. In view of the fact that, as some of the plants are not accessible to rail transportation, drastic measures were decided on.

The mills were shut down Saturday night and their wheels did not revolve again until 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Promptly at that time, the Diamond O was at Clackamas Rapids, towing the Bonanza with a cargo of 1100 barrels of oil. The mill force released superfluous water from the basin and as it raced downstream, the depth at the Clackamas was sufficiently increased to permit the steamer to haul the barge over the shoal, though both bounded on the bottom.

The manager of the Oregon City Transportation Company's fleet, did not leave for Newberg yesterday, but will make an attempt today to pass through the locks, where there is reported to be 26 inches of water above the sills. Between them are said to be a number of rocks, some of which have sharp edges, and as they are not slightly higher than the sills, the Pomona will take only 40 tons of freight, though she has a capacity of 150 tons.

Today, representatives of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., will make an inspection of the Clackamas Rapids with a view of ascertaining if conditions can be remedied by dredging, which, it is anticipated, will be assisted by the Corps of Engineers in the same past the shoal until Fall rains increase the stage.

The O. R. & N. has temporarily discontinued its steamer service to Oregon City, but will resume as soon as conditions warrant.

WOOD'S DEATH DISCUSSED

Murdered Master of Buckman Formerly Sailed From This Port.

Chief of yesterday's topics in local steamship circles was the murder of Captain Ben Wood, master of the Alaska-Pacific Steamship Company's liner Buckman, off Eureka, Sunday, when the slayer, Fred Thomas, leaped over the side in a life-preserver and his companion was quipped in the engine-room.

Tillamook Shooting Beats Africa.

That Captain McCully's marksmanship is as true as his ability to follow a course from the pilot house of the steamer Lurline, was yesterday attested to by him on his recent trip to the outlying islands in the Tillamook, which territory he depopulated of a ferocious bear, a vicious wildcat, innumerable species of small game and strings of trout. The crew expect to hear many nimrod stories during the winter, as the "skipper" will join the Lurline Thursday.

Extra Work to Be Done on Clatsop.

After bids are opened Thursday for installing new stern bearings in the Government dredge Clatsop, which is to be brought here from the Lower Columbia, tender will be asked for docking, cleaning and painting the digger.

Loss of Wynnstay Heard Of.

Local shipping men were yesterday interested in reports in Lloyd's latest supplement of the disaster that befell the British ship Wynnstay, which was wrecked at Iquique recently. She is reported a total loss, also the cargo. The vessel is lying in 20 feet of water and has been abandoned. All of the crew escaped. The Wynnstay loaded here last year at the Portland Flouring Mills.

Lightship Repairs Held Up.

Pending advices from Washington, work has not been resumed on the Columbia River lightship, which is lying at the Willamette Iron and Steel Works. Under first authority received changes were made on the vessel and she was given a slight overhauling, but new bids will be advertised for on the additional contracts to be let.

FIGHTER'S WEAPON CRUEL Brass Knuckles With Spikes Found on Man Arrested in Brawl.

When officers at the police station searched Teddy Schallenger, one of the participants in a saloon fight at Front and Yamhill streets, yesterday, in one of his pockets they found a set of brass knuckles studded with heavy spikes half an inch long. A blow from the weapon would be almost certain to produce disfigurement for life and might result in death.

Schallenger was getting all the worst of the fight when Patrolman Barzee took a hand, and had not brought his weapon into play. Barzee arrived in time to see Gottlieb Schartz, a saloonkeeper, and Albert Tammann beating and kicking Schallenger about the head as he lay on the ground. At that time Schallenger was taken to the station only as an injured witness, but when the knuckles were found a charge of carrying concealed weapons was placed against him.

SEEKING THE ROOT OF DISORDERS

Dr. Taylor Cures Men's Ailments by Original, Scientific and Thorough Methods

Ailments may be likened to a noxious plant strongly rooted in rich soil. Cut it down and it springs up anew. Destroy the main root and a tiny root sends up a shoot. Search out every living fiber and the plant will grow no more.

My cures are complete. My patients have no relapses. I will not discuss a patient as long as the slightest possibility of relapse remains. Thoroughness marks all my work. I believe that thoroughness must be back of every worthy success. I know that it has given me my success. Thoroughness in preparation for my chosen field, and thoroughness in the treatment of every case since beginning my practice, has placed me foremost among specialists treating men's ailments. By laying aside all theories and ascertaining for myself the scientific truths regarding men's ailments, I have been able to develop and perfect methods of treatment that cure those ailments of men that other physicians cure only in part. This is a truth fully demonstrated. It is a truth that doctors must admit to themselves, and it is a truth that more and more men are appreciating, and that makes my practice thrive.

There is one reason above all others which makes S. S. S. the greatest of all tonics, and that is because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, which possess no strengthening properties, but at the same time this combination of botanical juices and extracts is the most potent of all medicines for removing every impurity, poison or taint from the blood circulation. S. S. S. improves the appetite and digestion, corrects stomach disturbances and steadily and surely tones and builds the system up to perfect health. It adds to the blood the rich, healthful properties it needs, and in every way enables the system to stand the strain of the long, hot summer months. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other diseases or disorders due to impure or poisoned blood.
