Oregon City Man Won't Enter Race for Senator.

YOUNG MEN ARE AVAILABLE

Walter A. Dimick, Member of Lower House in Last Legislature, Declares Himself Aspirant for Vacant Seat in Senate.

OREGON CITY, Or., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—George C. Brownell this afternoon refused to make the race for the Republican nomination for Sigte Senator from Clackamas County, and left the way open for younger blood. His decision to stay out of the fight was reached only after mature deliberation and a realization that his entrance would be only at a great sacrifice to his health and to his large law practice.

a great sacrifice to his health and to his large law practice.

Mr. Brownell was State Senator from Clackamas County for 12 years, but four years ago, with an indictment hanging over his head, he was defeated by Joseph E. Hedges, a Democrat. Since then he has devoted nearly all his time to his law business.

he has devoted hearly air his time to his law business.

Walter A. Dimick, who was a member of the lower house at the last session of the Legislature, and who has nursed an ambition to succeed Mr. Brownell, filled his declaration for the nomination late this afternoon.

Brownell Makes Statement.

In deciding to remain out of the fight, ment:

"For the last two or three years great many people from all over Clack-amas County, belonging to the different political parties, have frequently offered me their support in case I should be-come a candidate for State Senator, in come a candidate for State Senator. In harmony with permitting the people to make their own nominations and to uphold the primary law and particularly Statement No. I. I have feit that I would like to be a candidate, not because of any political ambitions of my own, but more on account of my views upon these great questions, and I have given many of my friends to understand that I probably would be a candidate, but I have looked the county over with care, and I believe I know the political pulse and believe I know the political pulse and conditions in this county, and I have no doubt at all, but what I would be elected by probably the largest vote I ever received. If I can be elected by a large vote as I am confident that I can be. then I cannot see why there is any need of my sacrificing my law business, which I certainly would do if I entered into this fight or a good part of it, simply for the honor of being elected

State Senator, which pays the magnifi-cent salary of $120 a year.

"I am confident that any other good Republican can be elected on Statement No. I and the strict enforcement of the primary law and in opposition to the asprimary law and in opposition to the assembly organized ring boss proposition, which has been put up in this county as well as in the state by the state assembly. Then, again, I have been elected to the Senate three different times in this county and I cannot see what special advantage it would be to me at my age and time of life, in my financial condition, for me to make the sacrifice that I would have to make in order to spend the Winter in Salem.

"If I thought I was the only Republican who could be elected in this county, or if I thought I would endanger the cause in any way. I would go into the fight and make the battle in behalf of what I believe to be the greatest principle towards popular government that has developed in our politics since the foundation of the American Republic, but I am satisfied, as above stated, that there are young men, active and more ambitious than I am, who should be enlisted to make this fight and who should have the heaver of winner this actives.

Crowd Greets With Applause Speaker's Stand on Graduated Income Tax--Candidate Will Talk at Goldendale Tonight.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—Miles Poindexter, of Spekane, Republican candidate for United States Senator, delivered an address to 400 people tonight, in the auditorium.

He was given a hearty welcome by many of his admirers and the following vice-presidents of the meeting sates the states with the speaker and ing vice-presidents of the meeting sat on the stage with the speaker and chairman, Glen N. Ranek; Fred W. Bler, A. Burnham, F. M. Butterfield, Charles Jenkins, A. J. Mills, C. W. Hall, Wesley Powell and Abe Axtell.

Mr. Poindexter in his speech, arrayed labor against capital, telling how the "vested interests" had during the past decades, wrongfully acquired great wealth by private use of public interests and rights. He said that because he would not submit to the rule of Aldrich and Cannon he has been called an insurgent, an anarchist, and other names not compilmentary. He other names not compilmentary. He said he was in favor of a grandated insaid he was in ravor of a granuaci in-come tax, which statement was heartily applauded. He mentioned the fact that he had been charged with supplying no remedy for the evils he was ex-posing and fighting.

Poindexter Is Optimist.

Poindexter Is Optimist.

"I am an optimist," he said, "and we are dealing to a great extent, with problems of the future. I am not a pessimist, and I believe that these things are going to right themselves—when the people become aroused as they are becoming aroused."

He added that he would vote against the Rockefeller foundation act if he is in Congress when it comes up. He did not address his remarks to the Republicans, but said he was out for the votes of the people.

When speaking of the sugar scandal, and the sugar trust paying back to the Government $2,000,000, which it had stolen in a petty way, he added, "and they went right back, I presume, to steal $2,000,000 more."

Continuing his speech, Mr. Poindexter

Continuing his speech, Mr. Poindexter said, in part:

American Ideal Portrayed.

"The question which has aroused an unusual interest in the Nation today is whether we shall preserve the American ideal of the equal operation of the law upon all citizens and the equal oppor-tunity for all classes, or whether cartain private interests shall be allowed to selze and control public agencies for privat and selfish purposes.

"Within a comparatively recent period there have grown up in this country private fortunes of such collossal magnitude as to put into the hands of certain individuals a greater control of the industries and financial power of the Nation than was ever exercised by private parties in any age or in any country.

Private individuals in the United States have a greater influence than any of the privileged classes of medieval or modern Europe. The point is, that this power and these consolidations of financial inand these consolidations of financial in-terests have not been acquired by pri-vate means nor in the ordinary com-petition of trade or business, but have been built up upon the wrecks of com-petitors by the use, for private pur-poses, of Governmental functions which should be kept sacred for the public benefit only.

"In the recent session of Congress, a measure was proposed for the estab-

sought to enlist the aid of the Government in the collossal problem of the control and disposition of the monster of a private fortune of $800,000,000. It is sought by this measure to establish an educational foundation to render financial aid to educational institutions. The danger from it is that it to the rower of private would put into the power of private parties who control this vast fund to influence public opinion in its fountain sources.

Crisis Point Arrives.

"There is no objection to legitimate accumulation of wealth, but we have arrived at a crisis in the contest to prevent the accumulation of inordinate wealth by the use of the Government. The Standard Oil fortunes were built up by the private control of the public agency of railroads, whereby rebates and special favors and discriminations of all kinds were given to the Standard Oil cial favors and discriminations of all kinds were given to the Standard Oil and denied to its competitors; the sugar trust and steel trust monopolies were constructed by use for private purposes of the Governmental agency of lancases customs solely in constructed by use for private purposes of the Governmental agency of levying customs solely in the interests of private purses and not for the public good; the Harriman estate was created largely by reckless stock jobbing and watering of stocks of the public highways of the Nation; the Weyerhauser and Guggenheim estates, rivaling those of the Rockefellers, were made possible by the unlawful acquisition and control of certain portions of the public domain, while the sugar trust, under the protection of the obsolete Dutch Standard, which compels all imported sugars to pass through its refineries, has taxed the American people for the amount of the tariff, it has at the same time been robbing the Government of the same by a system of false weights.

city is a natural distributing point for a large territory.

In response to a complaint from the Johes Milling Company, of St. Johns, that the rate on flour from Portland to San Jose and California points had been raised from $5 to $5.50, attorneys for the road invite action, as they declare the new rate reagonable.

"Ninety-Three" The Story of a Famous Name and How It Originated

The foremost dermatologist in France, Dr. Sabourand, of Paris, and Professor Unna, Hamburg, Germany, discovered that a microbe caused baldness. To prove their theory, Dr. Sabourand infected a guinea pig with some of these microbes and in a comparatively short tipe the animal was denuded of every hair that was on its body.

Some eminent histologists and chemists were employed by the United Drug Co., Boston, Mass., to find the means of destroying these microbes and a remedy that would create a new growth of hair where the hair roots had not been entirely destroyed. Dr. Sabourand, of Paris, and Professor

After months of study, experimenting and research work, they discovered what they claimed would do what was demanded. To unquestionably prove their theory, 100 leading druggists, lo-cated in as many different cities, were cated in as many different cities, were requested to each furnish the name of a responsible person suffering from falling hair and baldness. Each of these 100 persons was furnished three bottles of the preparation with a request to give it a thorough trial and report results.
