In a ninth-inning batting rally Buddy Ryan, Ivan Olson and Bill Rapps made Portland victor in the second game of the series with Los Angeles yesterday. after the Angels had tied up a one-run lead acquired by the Beavers in the first inning. The final score was 2 to 1. and if was a pitchers' duel between George Boice, for Portland, who won his first game, and Bill Tozer, one of the Angel stars.

Portland's first run came in the first inning, and once more it was due di-rectly to the pinch-hitting ability of Captain Casey, of the McCredie squad. Buddy Ryan was the first man up, and worked Tozer for a pass. Olson's hitand-run play got Ryan at second because Delmas outguessed the batter.

Rapps' Single Counts.

Bill Rapps singled to right field, or which Olson took occasion to go all the way to third, and when Bernard tossed to the difficult corner to get the runner, Rapps continued to second. This put it up to Casey, who once more made good with a single, scoring Olson. Sheehan hit a line drive to Torqr. and Rapps was doubled at third before he could get back safely.

This lone are looked decidedly mountainous for eight innings, as the Angels were utterly unable to connect with the offerings of George Bolce with any degree of certainty. The former Cleveland twirler pitched elegant ball all the way, and until the ninth inning he was

In the final inning he made the mis take, wise or otherwise, of passing Frank Dillon to get at George Wheeler, with two men out and a man on second, and Wheeler popped a measly fittle Sheehan's reach and the Angels tied up the score. It was a hard-luck incident, and made it necessary for Portland to bat in the ninth.

Buddy Ryan was the first Beaver up in the last half of the ninth, and he laced a single to center field. Olsen secrificed neatly, and Rapps spanked one to left field, which traveled clear to the fence, and Ryan chased over the plate, while Rapps, carrying his matran straight to the clubhouse after touching first at his leisure, for Ryan's score ended the game, and gave Portland the second successive contest of Boice Steady Throughout.

George Boke pitched a steady, con-sistent game throughout, and had he not been advised to walk Dillon in the ninth, he might have avoided the score made by Curtis Bernard when Wheeler made the Texas Leaguer. At any rate Portland won, so regrets

Boice broke into the win column after several starts, and he can now be depended upon to come through similarly in the future.

McCredie had intended to use Vean Gregg against the Angels yesterday, but while the southpaw was in uni-form, he had not entirely recovered from his cold and "Mac" decided to depend upon Bolce. Gregg may do the honors today for Portland, while Dillon will use Walter Nagle. Yesterday's LOS ANGELES.

He had just finished a final conference with the volunteer committee of 15 bustwith the volunteer committee of 15 business men, led by Julius Meler, and after arranging with the operating department of the road, was able to give details.

"We will run one train daily, consisting of 20 coaches, to leave Fourth and Stark streets at 1:30 P. M. and leave the fairgrounds on the raturn at 5:30," continued the official. "We are dolors that tinued the official. "We are doing this to obviate and possible congestion of traffic and insure everyone being able to attend who desires. We will sell round-trip tickets for 30 cents. No passenger not holding a round-trip ticket will be permitted to return on the train from the fairgrounds as it is the pur-poss to make it a round-trip affair."

Great Attendance Wanted.

"We hope to get 75,000 people to attend he big fair and livestock exposition this year," said an official of the association yeaterday afternoon. "It will require that many to meet the expenses of the event and to put us on a sound footing, so that we can provide for the next year. Every inducement that could be provided to make a fair a great success has been secured. We are holding the fair on the outskirts of the greatest city of the en-SPORANS, wasn, Aug or secured. We are housing to society invincible today. Vancouver's outskirts of the greatest city of the entire Northwest, which is also the center tire Northwest, which is also the comof the livestock industry. In estimating what Portland should do, very low averages are taken. In Vancouver, B. C., there was an average at-tendance of 18,000 daily for the week, and one day the total ran up to 30,000. Vancouver is much smaller than Portland. At Spokane the average attendance for the week of the fair and livestock show there is said to be 12,000 to 15,000. At Salem the attendance is reported to range from $500 to 25,000 daily. The managerom $000 to 25,000 daily. The management of the big fair here believes that Portland will best all these records, giving an average of about 20,000 daily, with records of perhaps 30,000 or 40,000 for La-bor day and Portland day.

Hunt Club to Have Races. In addition to the aeroplane flights, which first could be definitely announced last evening, the Portland Hunt Club will have three big races on the grounds. President Ambrose Cronin agreed with the fair management yesterday afternoon to have a Hunt Club three-eighths-mile race Monday afternoon, free for all club entries; a one-half-mile Hunt Club race entries; a one-half-mile Hunt Club race Wednesday, free for all club entries, and a color relay race Saturday, which will be one of the most thrilling events of the week. In this relay race there will be eight riders and eight horses, divided into two sets of four each, each set carrying its distinctive colors. Riders will be stationed at regular intervals and as one rider dashes up the colors will be passed to the other and borne with all possible speed to the next relay. announced daily. The total now established is sufficient for a great fair and will embrace the best stock of the entire West. Judges are chosen from the entire country, insuring the best and fairest talent that can be procured for the respective classes. Big prizes, the finest stock that can be gathered, and fair judges are bringing to the fair the best breeders of the Northwest and are expected to bring all fanciers of blooded animals to the dally events.

Transportation Facilities Good.

With all transportation facilities the best, the fair the greatest and the special features the most attractive that have ever been prepared here, a heavy attendance is assured. The double-tracking of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company line from the heart of the city to the O. R. & N. intersection and the large double equipment that is to be used by the company will enable it to handle almost solid streams of traffic. The automobiles, of which 100 are engaged in the livery business, will be able to handle 1200 persons to and from the fair. The steam railway could take a maximum of steam railway could take a maximum of 2000. All facilities considered together, the management estimates that the transportation is 100 per cent better this year than in 1909.

Parade Precedes Opening.

The parade on Labor day, the opening day of the Harvest Fesival, will include carriages conveying Mayor Simon and the city officials, and it is also hoped to have Acting Governor Bowerman and his staff participate. Dr. James Withycombe and W. J. Kerr, of the Oregon Agricultural College, will be smong the prominent authorities on livestock matters in attendance at the Portland fair and their presence will add to the interest in the livestock exhibits. stock exhibits.
