

SOLDIERS PURSUE REBELS

Governor Deposed for Murder Leads Uprising; Takes to Mountains.

NEWS OF BATTLE AWAITED

Outlaws Cut Telegraph Wires and Details Are Meager—Disturbance, However, Believed to Be Merely Local.

MANILA, Sept. 1.—With several detachments of constabulary pressing hot his heels, Simons Mandac, the fugitive ex-governor of the Province of Ilocos Norte, with a motley following of native followers armed with guns of ancient pattern, old cannon bolts, and a few modern rifles, has fled into the mountains near Salano, in the Province of Nueva Vizcaya about five miles north of Bayanong, and news of a clash is momentarily expected.

Meager details of the uprising were received here today, but the rebels have cut the telegraph wires north of Bayanong and it is impossible to learn the number of Mandac's followers. It is believed here, however, that the uprising is local in character, involving a few hundred natives at most, and that it will be quickly suppressed.

Nueva Vizcaya is the central province of Luzon, and Bayanong is its capital. Salano, which the rebels hold until the near approach of the constabulary, is a town of about 5,000 persons.

Colonel Taylor, at the head of the constabulary in Bayanong, has thrown every available man into the field in pursuit of the outlaw and reinforcements are being rushed to him from other points in the island. Thus far the troops have not been able to get close enough to the rebels to exchange shots.

Mandac, the leader of the uprising, has been a fugitive from justice for several months. Shortly after his election as governor of Ilocos Norte province last January, he was deposed on a charge of murdering Don Graciano Agacanas, at Laosaga, the capital of the province. Agacanas and several others had been arrested for killing a horse, but after investigation by a local official were released. According to the charges brought against Mandac, he caused Agacanas to be arrested and put him through a severe "third degree" in the effort to make him confess to the crime that the man died next day.

At the trial of Mandac it was brought out that he had struck and otherwise maltreated the prisoner, and finally kicked him in the stomach, causing fatal injuries. Mandac was convicted of murder and sentenced to 14 years imprisonment, but pending an appeal to the Supreme Court was released on $2,000 bond. He disappeared immediately thereafter and all efforts to capture him have been unavailing.

Corps to Be United.

MANILA, Sept. 1.—Secretary of War Dickinson has given his approval of the project to unite the constabulary and the scouts. He plans to appoint a board of officers consisting of two scouts and two members of the constabulary, under the presidency of Major-General Duval, commanding the Department of the Philippines, will work out the details and submit a plan which is hoped may be placed before Congress in December.

JURY'S VERDICT A RIDDLE

Investigation of Jorgensen's Death at Astoria Completed.

ASTORIA, Or., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—A Coroner's inquest was held this afternoon to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of the late Hans Jorgensen, son of J. N. Jorgensen, who died here yesterday as the result of a blow in the face struck by Bertie Bennett.

After hearing the evidence the jury returned a verdict as follows: "We, the undersigned jurors impelled to make investigation of the cause of the death; but that the death of the deceased was a condition of the disease known as a bleeder, as shown by the autopsy of the attending physician."

TARIFF UP TO CONGRESS

A whole, is not satisfactory and that further adjustments are demanded by the people. President Taft, who declared the new law to be the best tariff act ever passed by Congress, has had his ear to the ground and has given heed to the popular clamor. It is presumed that other Republican politicians in Congress will be equally prompt to recognize the necessity for further revision.

Work May Wait Until 1911.

There is little likelihood of further revision in the short session next Winter, for at that time the tariff experts will not have concluded their investigations and, moreover, the short session will not afford adequate time to consider a schedule as thoroughly as fair treatment would demand.

GETTING RID OF THEM QUICKLY

Here Are Some More Good Used Pianos at Big Reduction in Price.

There aren't many of these pianos left which we received in part payment for baby and other goods. If you want one of them you will have to come in right away.

TWO VERY CHOICE ONES.

A superb Chickering piano, the famous style "F" which we secured in part payment of a Chickering grand, will go for $385, and a very beautiful, almost brand new mahogany Knabe piano which came to us in part payment for one of the wonderful new Haller & Davis pianos for $175, or exactly $150. This surely is a piano buyer's opportunity for saving money.

We have a nearly new Wessner piano for $165 and a very elegant grand for $275, until another for $60.

A very nice Mason & Hamlin upright in fancy mahogany for which great claims were made a few months ago, now offered at only 10 per cent of its original price. There is also an aboriginal case Newby & Evans piano for $75, and a new Lincoln upright for $125.

These low prices are the cash price, but for the mere addition of 10 per cent interest we will sell these "exchanged pianos" on payments to suit any reasonable buyer.

Every instrument has been placed in perfect shape, we guarantee each so or "money back." Eilers Music House, largest and most responsible dealers, Retail Department, Washington Street at Park, Ellettsville, East Side Store, 44 Grand Avenue.

Court Dismisses Charge of Abandonment of Woman Who Makes Barracks of Home.

The bed! It looks worse than a graveyard. And the furniture looms the loom. The flies gambol saily as they take their mud baths in the soup.

She washes her face in a frying pan and annually sweeps the floor. She comba her hair with the leg of a chair, and, judge, that's why I got sore.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—In answer to a charge of desertion brought against him by his wife, Thomas Egan, 325 Center avenue, weepingly related to Judge W. J. Walker at the Englewood Municipal Court his trying list of experiences. Mr. Egan, of Bible fame, wasn't in it with this abused son of Adam.

Egan had married for love. After the honeymoon the couple settled down to keep house. Egan says that after the first housecleaning his wife never cleaned anything except for a year. She would wait till all the dishes were used. She'd either throw 'em away or turn the hose on 'em, but she'd never wash 'em.

As the full extent of his mistreatment swept his feelings, Egan painfully launched forth upon a further narration of what "she" did, or rather, what "she" did not do. "She" never would make the bed," said the disgruntled hubby. "She'd never use a tablecloth and she always threw the soiled clothes under the bed. I always had to go for anything clean to be bought and she used to make me wash my own socks," he wailed.

"Is that why you left her?" asked the court.

"That and some more," replied Egan. "Not guilty," roared the court. "A man whose wife converts his home into an army barracks may run away and he has a right to do so."

Have you anything to say, Mrs. Egan? asked the court.

Womanlike, Mrs. Egan answered: "He may be a hero in the courtroom, but wait till I get him home."

QUEEN'S COACHMAN HELD

Chicago Whisky Too Much for Much-Traveled Hugh Rooney.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Hugh Rooney, whose chief claim to fame is that he was once a coachman for Queen Lil of the Hawaiian Islands, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $500 by Judge Dicker of the Municipal Court.

The man who once guided the horses of the ex-queen of the Southern sea was charged with taking several yards of silk from a downtown department store.

"I've been every place from China to Russia," said Rooney to the court, "but I think that Chicago whisky got the best of me. I did not want or need any silk. The only excuse I have is that I was intoxicated. Let me go and I'll start for some place where the liquor isn't so strong."

Judge Dicker, after questioning Rooney concerning his adventurous career, decided to hold him to the grand jury.
