ICEMAN FINED $25

Giving Short Weight at Half-Cent a Pound Is Charged.

OVERWEIGHT, IS DEFENSE

Slabwood Alleged to Be Short of Quantity Ordered Is to Be Re-measured Owing to Wide Divergence of Testimony.

Failure to deliver to citizens the quantity of goods for which they paid occupied a large share of the time in Municipal Court yesterday. Ice-man, wood dealer and milkman were represented among the alleged delinquents and an array of attorneys was present in their behalf.

Making implied charges that some city official was represented in the so-called ice trust and that an effort was being made to force his client into the "combine," Attorney James Gleason appeared to defend Thomas Barnes, an ice dealer, accused of selling only 25 pounds of ice for 25 cents to Mrs. L. C. McCormick, 444 East Thirteenth street North. When representatives of the city sealer were on the stand Gleason asked them if there were not in the city a wood combine, a plumbing combine and an ice combine.

Combine Is Charged.

He asked if a city official were not interested in the ice combine and if he had not inspired an attempt to force Barnes into the combine or out of business. When the witnesses said they did not know, Gleason said that he knew those things. Deputy City Attorney Sullivan attempted to put Gleason on

UMATILLA PROJECT ON

PROTEST'S WITHDRAWAL AS-SURES PLAN MAY SUCCEED.

Application of Reclamation Service to Develop 60,000, Along Columbia May Be Granted.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—Withdrawal of a protest which was filed some time ago by the Oregon Land & Water Company against granting the application of the United States Reclamation Service to develop the West Umatilla project of 60,000 acres, lying west of the Umatilla River and along the Columbia, gives practical assurance that the project will be developed. State Engineer John H. Lewis received a telegram today in which he was notified that the Oregon Land & Water Co. had decided to remove its protest and with this withdrawal all but minor obstacles are removed from granting to the Government the water right.

This is the only project in the state now in line for any portion of the $20,000,000 bond issue which was provided for by the last session of Congress. Acting Governor Jay Osburn expects to appear before the Army engineers at Portland, probably next Monday, to urge that the money to which Oregon is already entitled to have expended on the project is not available, that some of the $20,000,000 be authorized for the construction work on this improvement.

The State Engineer has written the reclamation service that there are no further obstacles in the way of its approval of the plan and he strongly urges that this important work be taken up as early as possible, because it is considered of prime interest to the development of that section of the state.

For centuries, stone has been the chief building material in Scotland and the most skilled labor has been employed in stone construction. With the introduction of concrete-block machinery, it has been demonstrated that the blocks may be turned out with ordinary labor, and that the machine is comparatively inexpensive and easy to operate.
