CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 2.—George W. Chamlee, who presented a petition at a meeting of the American Bar Association in this city Wednesday...

JEFF'S NEPHEW KILLED

FRIENDS OF DEAD MAN RESENT SLUR AND FIGHT ENSUES.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 2.—The steamer Watson, southbound from Seattle for San Francisco, went ashore on Waddah Island, near Neah Bay, late tonight. The passengers, of whom there are 30, were taken ashore in life boats. At 12:15 o'clock this morning, the following message was received from the United Wireless operator on the Watson:

"The Watson is hard and fast aground on the reef of Waddah Island. No lives lost, nobody hurt and no unusual excitement aboard. Passengers are now being transferred by lifeboats to the island. The steamer may be floated at high tide. An unusually dense fog prevails over the coast."

General Manager Marcus Talbot, of the Alaska-Pacific Steamship Company, owners of the Watson, said that in his belief there was no reason to be alarmed over the safety of the passengers.

Waddah Island is close to the shore and there are many fishing boats in Neah Bay. The steamer Buckman, of the same fleet, is expected to pass in before daylight tomorrow morning and instructions have been sent by wireless to the Buckman to land the Watson.

Reports received from the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca early tonight said there was a heavy fog and that navigation was difficult.

The Watson sailed from Seattle at 10 o'clock this afternoon. Her length is 232 feet, breadth 35 feet and depth 22 feet. She was built at Toledo, O., in 1904. She is in command of Captain J. Griffith.

The speakers at the exercises will include W. D. Finkbeiner, of Portland, Oregon, Governor T. T. Geer, Edgar B. Piper, managing editor of the Oregonian, Rev. T. L. Eliot, of Portland, George H. Much interest is being manifested in the coming memorial services, and it is expected that the attendance will be large.

Pollards Grown Up, Heard in "The Mikado"

Former Stage Children, Now Mature, Give Pleasing Performance.

POLLARDS for the first time in their lives, the Pollards Thursday night realized they are "grown ups." They played to enthusiastic and applauding audiences as juveniles. They were children of remarkable talent, well trained. At the Runglova last night in "The Mikado," they were a striking contrast. The singer's children faces were missing. In their stead were faces stamped with maturity, for the nine of the original Pollards playing with the National Pollard Opera Company, have reached their majority.

The appearance of the grown-up Pollards may answer the question, "what becomes of stage children?" and it may be one thing in certain, stage training from childhood does not necessarily insure mature voices capable of rendering opera music. On the other hand, it is indubitable that early training makes actors. Alfred Pollard, who has known the part of Ko-Ko almost from babyhood, has never lost ground and now he blossoms out as one of the best and most promising comedians. He is original and humbly funny. Were it not for Alfred and his partner, "The Mikado" as played by the senior Lilliputians, would be crippled beyond repair.

Jack Pollard, as the Mikado, almost carried the audience back to the time of the Lilliputians. The dramatic Evira Crox Seabrooke, as Katsie, looks that heavy part of tragedy. Her make-up is superb, for facial expressions show the result of experience and training, and she glowers like a sordid witch. No disparaging thing can justly be said of her appearance on the stage and her acting.

HEAT OF SUN MEASURED

DISCOVERY MAY BE OF COMMERCIAL VALUE.

ASTRONOMER AT SOLAR CONFERENCE

Tells of Instrument He Has Just Perfected.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Professor E. C. Pickering, of Harvard observatory, surprised the scientists attending the International Astronomical Conference on Mount Wilson today by donating a bronze tablet commemorating the establishment of the first solar observatory. This pioneer observatory was founded on Harvard Peak, one of the summits of Mount Wilson, 21 years ago.

Professor Charles G. Abbott, of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, Washington, read a paper giving the results of observations made by him with the pyroheliometer, an instrument which notes the variation of heat in the sun's rays and surface. Professor Abbott said he believed the instrument would become commercially important through its availability in determining the effect of such variations upon the weather during the season of the earth and the products of the soil.

Professor Newell, of the University of California, Berkeley, California, said that continued experiments would, in his opinion, establish that the occurrence of sun spots had much to do with the terrestrial atmospheric conditions.

Professor Pickering is chairman of a committee appointed at the last conference to decide upon a standard for measuring the intensity of solar radiation, which will report at the present conference.

LIFE CRASHED OUT

W. O. Heller Killed by Elevator Weight's Impact.

HIS BONES ARE SPLINTERED

Engineer at Chamber of Commerce Building Repairs Machinery When Balance Falls—Death Comes at Hospital.

Crushed under the weight of a 300-pound elevator balance which fell upon him from a height of three stories in the Chamber of Commerce building, yesterday evening, W. O. Heller, aged 24, a result in his death at St. Vincent's Hospital at midnight.

Nearly every bone in the man's body was broken. It was at first believed that life had been instantly squeezed out by the ponderous mass but when assistants reached him by breathing audibly and was half conscious. From the fact that his neck was not broken and that internal injuries were not in evidence it was thought that his life could be saved.

As soon as he could be extricated examination revealed that he had been crushed about the chest, and that both shoulders, arms, right leg and wrist had been fractured.

Following the announcement that the hydraulic machinery connected with the elevator was out of repair Heller ascended the elevator to the third floor and entering the shaft began adjusting the large cylinders. The elevator operated by Lloyd Gunning continued its ascent and when it reached the sixth floor, Heller extended his body through the weight chute in an attempt to adjust the defective machinery, caused the cable attached to the weight to slip and permit it to descend heavily upon his head.

His cries attracted the attention of other employees of the building, who succeeded in extricating him. Heller resides at 424 Burnside street.

FATHER DEMANDS CHILD

ACCUSES FOSTER-PARENTS OF HOLDING HER FOR BOARD.

Out of Employment He Falls Into Arrears and Now Sues for Habeas Corpus Writ.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—Representing to the court that his 7-year-old daughter is being illegally restrained by her foster parents with whom she has been living for the past six years, the father, Oratio Alladio, a Swiss-Italian Santa Clara County, went before Judge Gosbey this afternoon and obtained a writ of habeas corpus for his little girl, Eleanor.

The father stated that his wife for the last six years has been a patient at the Agnew State Hospital and as he was unable to look after the child himself, he placed it in the care of Mr. and Mrs. A. Martinez, who reside on the corner of Bird and Columbia avenues, in San Jose. About two months ago, Alladio said, he was thrown out of employment, and for this reason was unable to make the customary monthly payments for the child's keeping.

Recently the little girl was awarded the Jane L. Stanford scholarship in the Sacred Heart Convent in Sacramento and the father went to get her but was refused the request, he said, until he had paid for the child's care for the past two months. The writ issued by Judge Gosbey was made returnable tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.
