SCAR TO TELL TALE

Crippen Trial Begins; Testimony Is Heard.

CROWN SPRINGS SURPRISE

Doctor's Typist, Miss Leneve, May Be Used by Prosecution as Witness Against Master—Poison Evidence Is Strong.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—At the opening today of the trial of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, who is charged with the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, the prosecution announced that large quantities of poison had been found in the woman's body and that there were evidences that she had been subjected to an operation.

Ethel Clara Leneve, the doctor's typist, who accompanied him on his flight to Canada, also was brought to the bar today, but the Crown stated that it had been decided to confine the allegations against the girl to being an accessory after the fact.

This reveals Miss Leneve of any foreknowledge of the crime and is in line with the belief of her family and friends that she did not share Crippen's confidence up to the time that his wife dropped out of sight.

Interest in the Crippen case, which was intense during the search for the doctor, has by no means worn out, as was shown by the crowd which gathered in the vicinity of the Bow-Street Police Station, when the trial was opened today.

decurrent of sympathy for the accused girl. The public at large had not had a good look at the prisoners since their return from Canada, their custodians having better success in shielding them from the annoyance of being gazed at than attended the efforts in the same line of Inspector Dew at Quebec.

Crippen seems not to have suffered physically from confinement, though he is nervous. He said to have had a good effect on the girl, which, it is hinted, was the end sought by the prosecution, who, at the proper time, intend to use Miss Leneve as a witness against Crippen.

The only new testimony, which will doubtless be elaborated, by physicians who conducted the post mortem, was the statement of Mrs. Paul Martinetti that Mrs. Crippen had once shown her a scar on her body, which had the appearance of being an old cut.

The doctors who examined the body found in the Crippen home discovered a piece of flesh bearing a similar scar. An application to admit the prisoners to bail was refused, and an adjournment was taken until Thursday.

TAFT'S INTENTION EXPLAINED

Only Scattering Townships Would Be Added to Reserves.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Sept. 6.—President Taft's announcement in his St. Paul conservation speech that he will urge Congress to repeal the Fulton law, which prohibits the creation of additional forest reserves in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, by Presidential action, was explained by the Forest Service today.

It is said that there is no intention of creating new or extensive forest reserves in these states, but that it is desired that scattered townships immediately adjoining existing reserves shall be added to because they have been found to contain valuable timber. In all six states not to exceed 2,000,000 acres would be added to the reserves if the Fulton act should be repealed, it is said.

There probably will be more than this amount of agricultural land eliminated from reserves in these states, however, so that in the aggregate the reserve area will be diminished.

Gems in Phone Apparatus.

Few persons realize what an enormous amount of the precious metals and even precious stones are used in the manufacture of telephone apparatus. In a single year one company uses upward of a ton of platinum for this class of apparatus alone. And platinum costs 30 per cent more than pure gold, demonstrating that this expensive metal would not be used so extensively unless results justified it.

CLOSED SHOP LEGAL

Judge Refuses to Issue Injunction Against Unions.

POST GETS TURNED DOWN

Every Employer Has Right to Determine How His Business Shall Be Operated, Says Jurist in Denying Application.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6.—The opinion of Judge Smith McPherson, who yesterday denied the application of C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich., for an injunction to restrain the American Federation of Labor officials and Bucks Stove & Range company, of this city, from entering into a closed shop agreement, was filed in the United States Circuit Court here today.

Judge McPherson continues: "Complainant then knew of it. He has remained silent until the last few days, when he filed his bill of complaint asking for the injunction. He has given notice of this hearing to no defendant. Many of them are accessible and no doubt would have been present had they been notified."

"Restraining orders should not be issued except on notice to the defendants, and then only when irreparable harm will follow if such restraining order is not issued. I utterly fail to see wherein the harm can come if this restraining order is not issued."

The court says every employer of labor has the right to determine for himself whether his business shall be operated as a closed shop or an open shop, adding:

"Whether it is for the better to have a closed shop or an open shop, men differ."

PUNCH IS INSTITUTION

A Description of the Famous English Jester. New York Post. One eminent journalist has said that he could as easily imagine the American people being brought again under the English yoke as could a company of Americans regularly subscribing to, reading and enjoying Punch. Yet there must have been many in this country to whom the Dundreary whiskers and manners of years ago, were the objects of pictorial satire. Today women's hats, hobble skirts and hair-dressing come in for the same gibes. It was Leech who, with a horror of so unmanly an innovation, practically laughed bloomers out of vogue with his drawings of the bicycle girl. "A skirt divided against itself cannot stand—it must sit upon a bicycle." Go to the floor of Punch if you would know at once what another generation was thinking about, wearing or doing.

mer, of ability, the best of them, inspired by the past master roll of Lemon, Thackeray, Jerrold, Hood, Leech, Tenniel, Keene, Du Maurier, Phil May, will come at Mr. Punch's bidding to do his motley and jingle his bells as court jester to the nation at large.

For Punch is nothing less than an institution. To the solemnity of this position it has risen through popular appreciation, its keen, its affection, because its genius has been put in humorous guise the average thought of the English people, always on matters about which the nation's mind is chafing. Humor has been common ground for all humanity since the day that the cat laughed at the king, and Punch, the jester, has engaged the affection of subjects of all degrees as no other journal could. And for this reason, passing by for a minute the question of comparison of humor, Mr. Punch stands first among his fellows of the world. None other approaches him as national jester except perhaps, the Pflieger, the organ of the non-Frusian Germans.

But some Americans cling to the tradition that there is no humor in Punch's. As Punch once took exception to the Times' news caption, "Ecclesiastical intelligence," as being mutually exclusive terms, so does the Yankee, the Southerner, the Westerner, say that the wit and humor of Punch is a misnomer.

If Punch is dull to the American, it is because he is not initiated. He is outside of that great family of thinking men who remember that an acrobatic woman recently worsted a bobby. A good reason, perhaps, why the English can find no amusement in that in this country there is no real comic journalism of any representative character. The best that appears in the cartoons of the daily press and in the wit of the newspaper paragraphs. None of the weekly "funny" papers can be called native in any true sense. Mark Twain was typical of American humor, but what savor of him do you find in the comic journals? Against Punch's reality and rich humanity put the unreal extravagance, the thin-bloodedness of his rivals here, and the reason of Mr. Punch's success is apparent.

Because he puts in witty words and pictures what the English people are thinking about, he has presented a history of English politics, fashions and manners for 70 years. His views on politics have been given chiefly in the leading weekly cartoon, such as those of Mr. Sambourne, or of his inimitable predecessor, Sir John Tenniel, who for 50 years held this post. Punch's cartoons are massive, complete, direct, and they are read by millions.

A member of Mr. Punch's staff may carry all the meaning of a Times leader of a column's length. His political leanings are less marked now than in his early years, thanks largely to the insight of Tenniel, who recognized the mistake of veering too widely to either side. Of fashions, too, Punch has been an illustrated review by Keene, Du Maurier and others for the last seven decades. The exaggerated crinolines, the Wellington boots, the Dundreary whiskers and manners of years ago, were the objects of pictorial satire. Today women's hats, hobble skirts and hair-dressing come in for the same gibes. It was Leech who, with a horror of so unmanly an innovation, practically laughed bloomers out of vogue with his drawings of the bicycle girl. "A skirt divided against itself cannot stand—it must sit upon a bicycle." Go to the floor of Punch if you would know at once what another generation was thinking about, wearing or doing.

MAN HAS BAD NAME

Frank Garrison Held at Salem Has Record.

SHERIFF IDENTIFIES HIM

Prisoner Now Faces Charge of Murdering Roy Perkins and Towing Body Out in Bay and Sinking It.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Sheriff Harry P. Minto, in going through the records today, ascertained that Frank Garrison, who is under arrest at Marshfield on a charge of murdering Roy Perkins in a lonely waiting-room on the bay and towing his body far out into the water and sinking it, has a bad record.

He is said to be one of the men who in 1895 made a desperate assault on Sheriff John Knight in this city while attempting to break jail. With Frank Brehm, a notorious criminal, and a man named Combes, Garrison waited for Sheriff Knight in the corridor of the Marion County jail and beat him down with a stick of oakwood and endeavored to make an escape, but with no success. Garrison was sentenced to 10 years and Brehm to 12 years for the assault. Garrison served three terms in the penitentiary for various offenses and is known here as a desperate character.

Sheriff Minto is positive that the man under arrest as Frank Garrison is the same man who committed the assault on Sheriff Knight, as Minto saw Garrison in Marshfield a few years ago and has personal knowledge that Garrison has been residing at that place. Ex-Sheriff Knight is now bailiff in the United States District Court at Portland.

An Old Glass of Wine.

London Daily News. In connection with the explorations which are being carried on in the old cemetery of the church of St. Serin, at Bordeaux, a vessel of green glass, containing a quantity of lees, or incrustations, was found in a sarcophagus which appeared to date from the first century of the Christian era. The deposit has been analyzed and the results lead to the conclusion that the vessel originally contained wine, the evaporation of which has left traces of chromatic matter, more or less covered with carbonate of lime, and which has also deposited very sharply defined and characteristic grains of cream of tartar.

Misfits in Reporting.

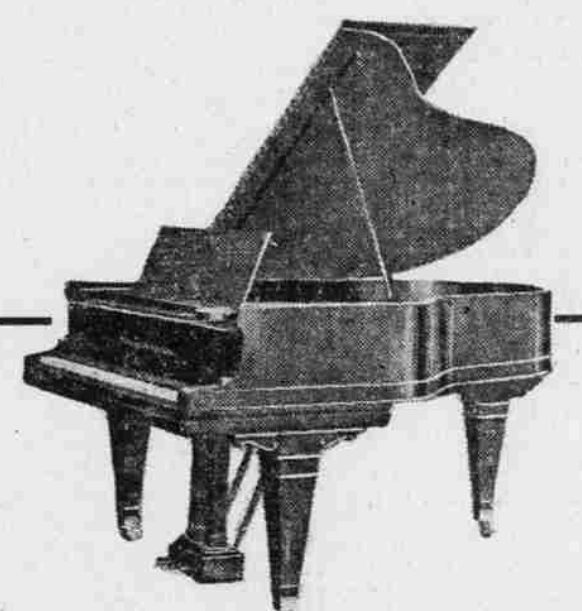

Indianapolis News. All newspapers have occasional misprints. The Chicago Tribune, in reporting a political meeting, said that the vast audience rent the air with their snouts. Another Chicago paper reported the propper Alaska as leaving port with a cargo of 40,000 bushels of cats. A Buffalo paper, in describing the scene when Roosevelt took his oath of office as President, said it was a spectacle never to be forgotten when Roosevelt, before the chief justice of the Supreme Court and a few august witnesses, took his simple bath.

Man Held as Horse thief. ASOTIN, Wash., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—William Haynes, of Freewater, Or., was brought to Asotin Saturday evening by Deputy Sheriff Oscar Watkins, charged with stealing five horses belonging to Chester Shumaker, a well-known farmer of the Grand Ronde River section. The horses, which Haynes is supposed to have stolen have been found. Haynes was traced from Freewater to Colton, Wash., where he was arrested, at the home of his sister.

Feat in Wireless Telegraphy.

A detachment of the United States Signal Corps stationed at Ft. Meyer, Va., has established a record for agility which will be difficult to beat. It has several times recently unpacked its wireless outfit, erected the antenna, which is 40 feet high, and put everything in readiness for service in the short space of 68 seconds. This plant is capable of exchanging messages at a distance of 25 miles.

Mason & Hamlin PIANOS

Are the only high-grade pianos today that do not contain a mechanical playing device. All other pianos have been forced to accede to the popular cry for mechanical music and install inside players. Such an innovation would be wholly inconsistent with the artistic qualities of touch and tone for which the Mason & Hamlin is famous on both continents. It is a significant fact that this great piano, although the highest priced instrument in the world, and assailed by the strongest competition ever known in the music industry, is in such great demand today that orders are booked for future delivery. The Mason & Hamlin piano is for Hand Playing Only, and to this great instrument is due the best interpretation of music the world has ever known. The most convincing proof of this fact is found in the exclusive use of the Mason & Hamlin piano by the world's great artists and all critical musicians. You are cordially invited to visit our warehouses to see and hear the late models. Catalogues Mailed on Application. Old Pianos Taken in Exchange. The Wily B. Allen Co.
