WATER BURKE

Acceptance of Spirit of Withdrawal Ends Contention in King County.

OTHER GAINS REPORTED

Judge Burke's Refusal to Enter Conference Unconditionally Due to Position in Which Past Rumors Had Placed Him.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Every King county man prominent in the recently abandoned campaign of John L. Wilson for the United States Senate has already come forward with assurances of his purpose to support Judge Thomas Burke. The support assigned by Senator Wilson's admirers, especially east of the mountains, will throw their strength to the Pierce county candidate.

Those who have been closely associated with Mr. Wilson in politics freely expressed their regret that he should have found it necessary to give up his fight, but at the same time they do not question the wisdom of his course and the unselfishness of his submission to the will of the highest authority of the party—the President of the United States.

Support of Burke Attested. Robert E. Terhune, chairman of the King County Central Committee, which was organized months ago in Wilson's interest, said: "I want to see Wilson named as King county's choice. It has been decided otherwise and I am going to do all I can for Judge Burke."

Burke Gains Strength. Many others connected with the Wilson campaign in King county and in other counties of the state, have made similar statements; and from none of the Wilson followers has anything but a contrary been heard either in public or private.

Reason for Refusal Given. The position of Judge Burke's friends was reported to know since the receipt of a telegram from Senator Wilson by the President. In addition to this was the fact that a favorite weapon against Judge Burke has been the starting of frequent rumors of his pending withdrawal. These forced from Judge Burke several firm and unequivocal denials and repeated declarations that he was in no way to be deterred from his fight to stay.

Wilson for the Senate and added that a West side man should be elected to succeed Senator Jones from the same platform with Mr. Wilson. Senator Jones spoke at different points.
