HAMILTON FALLS

MILE MADE IN MINUTE FLAT

Machine Is Smashed to Ruins and Aeronaut Covered With Blood and eTrribly Cut Is Rushed to Hospital.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 3.-(Special.)-Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator was seriously, if not fatally, injured this evening when his Curtiss biplane, iltonian," in the presence of 20.000 State Fair visitors, crushed to the ground in the center of the race track enclosure within an instant after lowering the world's record he established yesterday for traveling around a circular mile. He completed the circuit in one minute flat during the three laps this evening, heat-ing the 1.60 record of yesterday. Late tonight physicians say Hamilton's rendition is grave. They believe the pel-vic bone is broken. A consultation of surgeons will be held at midnight.

Machine Works Badly.

Hamilton's machine worked badly ear ly in the afternoon. He attempted a flight from in front of the grandstand, but the machine barely skimmed over the fence, alighting heavily in a field cutside the grounds. After several hours, work it was thought that all repairs had been properly made and early in the evening Hamilton made another ascent from the field outside the grounds. He circled the mile race track three times at great speed, racing an automobile, which was unable, however, to keep up with him.

As he was preparing to reach the ground, still traveling at a good rate of speed 100 feet in the air, his engine bucked on him and he crashed to the earth. The crowd rushed to him and in a few minutes he was conveyed to his apartments in an automobile. He his apariments in an automobile. Principals Behind Move.

The Board acted on the recommenda who were unable to find that cadet companies served any practical purpose. In Boston and other cities of that size, the high school military organizations are under the command of a West Point graduate but in Scattle the boys ran their own organizations; the discipline was lax and the training received was of little value, according to the finding of the principals. The boys looked statuesque in their uniforms and made a good showing at local functions, shining especially on the ballroom floor, but the results obtained otherwise were not considered sufficient justification for the continuation of the organizations.

Fraternities Yet Prohibited.

That the Board is not receding in its opposition to the school fraternities is shown by a resolution adopted at the meeting instructing Superintendent Frank B. Cooper, and the principals to revise the regulations dealing with these scatters. The regulations are to be societies. The regulations are to be made more definite with a view towards bringing the fraternities under better The organizations in the Seattle High Schools are purely local and have no connection with the National college zocieties. In previous years the fight between the board and the fraternities often reached the acute stage.

Mr. Bowers was appointed Solicitor-General by President Taft on March 22, 1303. The appointment was one of the first official acts of Mr. Taft as President, who had long held Mr. Bowers in dent, who had long held Mr. Bowers in high regard. The Solicitor-General was one of the men known to have been in the mind of the President for appoint-ment to fill one of the existing vacan-cles on the United States Supreme Court

The first news of Mr. Bowers' illness became generally known through a telegram sent by Mrs. Bowers to President Taft last Tuesday. The message was delivered to the President on the train while he was on his way back to Beverly from the Conservation Congress at St. Paul. So solicitous was Mr. Taft that as soon as he reached Boston he called at the hotel. He found the patient so much improved that he was able to see him.
