To the majority of people who use milk in one form or another, clean milk signifies milk free from visible dirt, such as cow hair, hay, straw, etc. As a matter of fact, such forms of dirt are seldom met with in the milk as delivered to the consumer. It is the fifth that we cannot see with the unaided eye that does the harm and makes consumption of dirty milk dangerous.

In order to get good clean milk, and as near free from harmful bac-teria as possible, and in keeping with the MILK ORDINANCE of our CITY, on January 1st of this year we started an educational campaign against dirty, unhealthful milk. The very first step taken was to educate the producer from whom we get our milk, and this educational work has been carried on right down the line until now we can say to the people of Portland that our milk will stand the most rigid test. While we do not say but what a great deal more can yet be accomplished, we feel that you are taking no chances by

EX-CONVICTS BLAMED

DETECTIVES HAVE THEORY ON TANANA GOLD ROBBERY.

"Badger" Oleson and "Hump" Henderson Thought to Have Cached Loot in Kaihui Hills.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 14.—Detectives working on the case of the $57.500 real robbery on the Case of the $1,300 robbery on the Yukon river steamrr Tanana, believe that two ex-convicts
'Badger' Oleson and 'Hump' Henderton, looted the box and escaped to the Kaihul Hills with the yellow bars.
The bank clerk and the purser's relief. The bank clerk and the purser's relief, sho were under suspicion, have been experated from all culpable connection with the robbery. Oleson and Henderson, according to the detectives, went to Fairbanks, and after ascertaining shipping points on the Tanana River and familiarizing themselves with the general outline of that section, went into the country, where they worked as miners until they made sufficient money to sustain them while they waited the opportunity to steal a large waited the opportunity to steal a large sum, from one of the many gold ship-ments going down the river.

Fairbanks. The man took passage as far as Tanana, the point at which the men left the boat. On the way down the river the man who is believed to have been Oleson engaged the purser in conversation in his quarters, while the confederate entered the treasure room and abstractd gold, substituting the lead slugs ts place.

At Tanana the two men took to the hills, where they have a cache. At this point, according to the detective theory, it is thought that they will hury their booty, retaining only enough to carry them out of the country and keep them until next season, when they will return and pack out the remainder

SENTENCE MAY BE HARDER

Frank Angelo's Victims to Tell of Robber's Operations.

Frank Angelo, who robbed three places in one night, and then fled from a fusilade of bullets to the shelter of Sullivan's Guich, about a week ago, will not be allowed to escape with the rock-pile sentence, awarded him by Judge At the time of Angelo's capture the victims of his thefts were unwilling to ap-pear, and he was given the maximum sentence in the lower court for stealing a suitcase from a tent.

Yesterday other victims appeared be two ex-convicts, obtained work on the steamer, as a laborer, and made the acquaintance of the purser, and, after gaining his confidence, in some manner obtained an impression of the key, and made a duplicate, which gave them entrance to the treasure room.

When the Tanana started down the river, one of the two men, believed to be "Wenn" Henderson, boarded her the wilch.

Testerday other victims appeared before the grand jury, and as a result it is probable he will be indicted for burglary. Angelo entered the house of J. P. Sharkey, a real estate dealer, and also robbed the telephone box in a grocery store. He was chased twice by officers, who fired at him, and on the second attempt was overtaken in the brush of the wilch.

DENIAL OF AUTOIST, HE EX-CEEDED LIMIT, REFUTED.

Municipal Judge Bennett Determined to Increase "Tariff" on All Who Break Speed Laws.

ing up Sixth street at the rate of six or eight miles an hour. I tell you frankor eight miles an hour. I tell you frankly that I think you are lying." said Municipal Judge Bennett yesterday, in passing upon the case of F. L. Kelly, accused of speeding on downtown streets.
"It is well to make your story strong, but you have gone too far, and told a story that is false, on the face of it."
Kelley was accused by Patrolmen Evans and Sims of "burning the wind" on Sixth street between Burnside and Stark. The officers said that car, on Sixth street between Burnside and Stark. The officers said that car, driven by Kelley, was going 21 miles an hour with the muffler open. The law allows 10 miles and only six miles at the crossings, which, the officers said. Kelley crossed without slowing up.

The automobile was loaded with passengers, all of whom declared, under sengers, all of whom declared, under sengers, all of whom declared, a mere cath, that the car was going at a mere small's pace. "If we were exceeding small's pace, "If we were exceeding small's pace, "If we were care in the suall's pace. "If we were exceeding the speed limit, then every car in the city breaks the law every day," said one of the witnesses. "I have no doubt that that is true," respended Judge Bennett. A fine of $25 was imposed, and notice of appeal was given.

S. C. Jaeger was fined $16 for speeding. Citizens have appealed to Judge Bennett to raise the 'tariff' upon automobile speeders, and the court has the has been general practice to impose the owest penalty in all but a few cases, egardless of the rate of speed, the attitude of the offender or other considerations. These penalties are $16 outside and $25 inside of the fire limits, and they are doubled upon the second offense. They have been imposed alike upon persons going at the rate of 49 miles an hour and upon those who exceeded the limit by but a few miles.

It has been pointed out to the judge It has been pointed out to the judge that reckless driving is frequently an offense to be classed with assault with a deadly weapon. The court has hesitated to increase the penalty, as many of the offenders are merely employes, and it has been proposed that a piea in extenuation might be accepted, where the driver showed he was exceeding the limit, at the instance of an employer, in any case, it is likely that a considerable increase will be made in the schedable increase will be made in the sched-ule of fines for these offenses.

Pedestrian Sues for Injury.

Knocked down by the ornamentalgilded ball at the top of the flagstaff on the old Cyclorama building, at Fourth and Ash streets, Fred Bacon brought suit in the Circuit Court yesterday against A. F. Elrath, the contractor who was tearing down the structure. for $500 damages. Bacon says that he had to pay $25 to a doctor. He alleges that the flagstaff should have been taken down be-fore that portion of the building was demolished, and that pedestrians should have been warned of the danger. He was walking along Ash street with no thought of danger, at 1 P. M., August 2 when, he says, the falling ball struck

SUBURBAN RAILWAYS MAY OP-ERATE OVER TENTH STREET.

Ordinance Introduced in Council Discloses Plans of Oregon Electric and United Railways.

The introduction in the City Council resterday of an ordinance granting to the Oregon Electric a franchise Salmon street, from Front to Tenth and on Tenth to Flanders disclose a change of plans by the Oregon Elec-tric and the United Railways for forming a loop and centralizing passenger traffic over the two roads. Some time ago the United Railways, owned by the same interests as the Oregon Electric, began the work of getting the consent of property owners to a franchise for a connecting link between the two roads running over Taylor and Seventh streets. When about 50 per cent of the prop-erty owners had signed the petition objections were raised by other prop-erty owners, but before the matter came to definite issue, large property interests on Tenth street decided that interests on Tenth street decided that they wanted the street railway and took up the matter with John F. Stevens, president of the two roads. The movement was headed by Olds, Wortman & King, who apparently saw an advantage in a diversion of interurban passenger traffic past their new store. The work of securing the names of property owners was practically taken out of the hands of the railroad company, Mr. Stevens consented to a line. It was referred to the street committee.

The ordinance prohibits the opera tion of freight traffic over the proposed

STREET WIDENING FAVORED

Understanding Is Pavement on Broadway Not to Be Disturbed.

With the clear understanding that the present hard-surface improvement Broadway between Grand avenue and East Twenty-fourth, will never be disturbed, the widening of the street to 70 feet, as proposed by Joseph Buch-tel, is meeting with considerable favor. Hard-surface pavement has been laid between Grand avenue an' East Thirty-ninth street. It is found that practically all the houses on the street between Union avenue and East Twenty-fourth street are far enough from the street as to make the widening practicable.

The proposition is simply to provide for a 70-foot street by adding five feet on the inside of the sidewalks without disturbing either the pavement or side-change in the plans and the idea of seeking a franchise on Seventh street was abandoned. The submission of the yond East Twenty-fourth. Mr. Buchordinance yesterday was the result of the proposed widening said yesterday that as soon as actual ordinance yesterday was the result of the negotiations.

The ordinance as filed proposes to grant the franchise to the Oregon Electric instead of the United Railways. Neither road has formally asked for a franchise from the city from the time while they are asked to think the matter.

Pioneers Want Museum.

MEDFORD, Or., Sept. 14.-The annual meeting of the Southern Oregon Ploneer Society will be held at Jack-

Ploneer Society will be held at Jacksonville on September 22.

A proposition will be considered to establish at Jacksonville a museum of pioneer relics. The Native Daughters are back of the effort and their plan is to build a log cabin similar to the first one erected in Jacksonville in March.
1852, and to furnish it with a freplace and the primitive furnishes and relice and the primitive furniture and relics of ploneer days. There is ample ma-terial in the pioneer homes of Rogue River Valley to make the museum a most interesting feature.
