

INTEREST IN HORSE SHOW IS INTENSE

Fourth Annual Exhibition Promises to Be Best Ever Given in Portland.

THOROUGHBREDS TO ENTER

Oriental Building Remodeled for Show to Be Held October 13, 14 and 15—Eastern Blooded Animals to Try for Trophies.

Portland folk are on the qui vive for the fourth annual horse show, which is scheduled for October 13, 14 and 15. As usual, the show will be held in the Oriental building at the Lewis and Clark fairgrounds. The building has been extensively remodeled for the occasion. New boxes have been made, a heating plant installed and a tearoom has been added to the already very comfortable structure. Portland horse lovers are already beginning to display their enthusiasm and they are determined that Portland horses shall not be outclassed this year by visiting animals. To this end, Samuel Kramer has gone to New York in the interests of members of the Hunt Club, who have commissioned him to bring back with him the best horses that can be obtained, for exhibition at the show.

Many New Entries Promised.

Of interest is the fact that many young persons, who have not before taken an active part in affairs of this sort, will show their horses this year. Among these is Miss Anita Burns, who has not ridden in the tanbark arena for several years. Miss Burns was formerly well known for her skillful riding and driving and her work will be witnessed with keenest interest. Besides Miss Burns, others of the younger set will take part. Miss Millie Westinger and Miss Angela Kinsey expect to enter a pair of black mares. Miss Westinger will show Dainty Miss and Miss Kinsey's animal is the beautiful Gypsy Maid. These will also appear in tandem.

Mrs. Henry L. Corbett has promised to exhibit her horse, Blue Eyes, and it is rather expected that she will herself handle the reins. Mrs. A. Kyer has done excellent work lately with her mare, Miss Kitty, and is sure to carry off several ribbons. Another woman who has always displayed much interest is Mrs. Hiddle, and her absence this year, however, will be keenly felt. Captain Biddle, however, will make several entries.

Out-of-Town Exhibitors Coming.

Out-of-town exhibitors will be made welcome and among those who have already made known their intention of coming to Portland for the show are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Laidlaw, of Spokane. They will bring with them a string of thoroughbreds of the class, high-stepping sort, that delight horse admirers. Many of these have won honors in shows of both the East and West.

The Laidlaws will also bring at least a dozen handsome equipments to exhibit in the various classes. Another visitor will be Dr. Robert W. Smith, acting master of hounds for the Seattle Hunt Club. He will bring several hunters, and several members of the Seattle Hunt Club have also expressed their intention to ride and drive in the show.

E. L. Howe, president of the Vancouver Horse Show Association, will stop in Portland on his way to the Pasadena show, with his string of beautiful prize-winning hackneys and hunters. Mrs. Marshall, also of Vancouver, will be another exhibitor who will enter some good horses.

Other entries will be Duchess, the brown saddle of Miss Dorothy Holbrook; Black Chief and Hindu Prince, a pair of blacks, which will be shown by Miss Claire Wilkes; Fastaf, the beautiful thoroughbred hackney, owned by Mrs. Ralph Jenkins, who was formerly Miss Belle Ainsworth, and Misty Pride, the recent purchase of F. C. Knapp.

The leadbetter horses will be shown this year by Misses Sallie and Georgiana Leadbetter. Jewel, Clayton Falls' un-beaten mare, is another booked for the show. Miss Dover, of Washington, will exhibit her pony, Pickaninny, and Senator, the famous high-stepper that won first at the Vancouver show this summer, will also be shown here.

Kentucky Horses to Show.

It is good news that Portland sawdust will be tramped by hoofs that are felt the turf in the paddocks of the Kentucky Colonel, Castleman. Such is to be the case this fall. A. F. Stockwell, of Everett, Wash., has entered two other Kentucky thoroughbreds, so blue grass representatives will not be lacking. Imported horses, too, will have their place in this city during the show week, as A. C. Ruby has just had 60 head from the best stables of Europe sent to Oregon. These will show mainly as German and French coach hackneys.

MAN SPREADS SMALLPOX

Case Diagnosed as Typhoid Communicated to Many Persons.

Three cases of smallpox are now being cared for by the city, and it is feared that other outbreaks as a result of Tom Sourbeer's having been running at large with the disease until it had reached its most contagious stage. Sourbeer had been treated by a doctor for typhoid for some time but had been little confined to his room. When Health Officer Wheeler learned of the case a search was instituted for Sourbeer, and he was followed from office to office before he was found.

RAILWAY TAX IS UPHELD

Judge Hanford Declines to Supervise Work of Assessors.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—Federal Judge Hanford has handed down a decision in favor of Pierce County in the bitterly-contested suit brought by the Tacoma Railway & Power Company, Puget Sound Power Company and Old Colony Trust Company to evade payment of taxes assessed against the railway company by the County Assessor for 1907. Judge Hanford dismisses the case and the railway company is ordered to pay costs.

The hearing was held before Special Examiner Worden several months ago. The value of the Tacoma Railway & Power Company's property in Pierce County was $2,217 at the time of the taxation and the assessors fixed the usual corporation rate for property and franchises, according to the decision in the memorandum Judge Hanford says.

"This court declines to render a decree based upon mere conjecture or on arbitrary appraisal similar to an award of damages for a personal injury and declines to undertake the task of supervising the assessors." County officials say that they now propose to compel payment of these taxes even if it is necessary to stop the operation of all the streetcars to do it.

AMENDMENT IS WANTED

EAST SIDE SEEKS NEW WATER MAIN CLAUSE TO CHARTER.

Committee to Call on Mayor and Urge That Matters Be Submitted to Voters This Fall.

A general demand will be made by the East Side Push Clubs that the proposed amendment to the charter providing a new method for laying water mains be placed on the ballot either at the regular or special election in November. The probability that the amendment will not be placed on the ballot or that a special election will not be held has aroused considerable feeling, especially in the southeast district. Ben Riesland, president of the Seventh Ward League and chairman of the water committee from the South East Side, said yesterday afternoon: "In the hope of getting prompt action that would give relief to the districts where water has been short the past few years, we accepted the amendment as suggested by the Mayor and members of the Water Committee, which eliminated some of the provisions which we thought ought to be incorporated. I was present when the committee was given assurances that the amendment would go on the ballot, and now if that promise is not carried out until next April it is all wrong and a breach of faith with the people. We shall insist that the amendment go on the ballot according to the promise given us. Failure to do this at this time would mean that vast improvements will be held up and the districts that have been suffering for water will not be relieved even next year." Secretary S. W. Walker, of the Civic Council, said yesterday that the committee appointed at the meeting held Wednesday night will take up the question with the Mayor and water committee at once.

EX-WIDOW WOULD SERVE

Appointment as Administratrix of Suicide's Estate Asked.

Isabelle G. Gibson, who married Robert Gibson, an Astoria newspaperman, about two weeks after her first husband, Arthur D. Marshall, had committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver, made application to the County Court yesterday to be appointed administratrix of his estate. Mrs. Gibson was advised by W. S. Nash that her second marriage made it unlawful for her to act as administratrix. Although she previously relinquished her right to the appointment, she asked yesterday to be appointed. Marshall died July 28 and Mrs. Marshall married Gibson August 10.

CONTEMPT OF COURT, CHARGE

Attorney on Trial for Practicing Before Admittance to Bar.

J. J. Hirschheimer, charged with contempt of court for practicing law without having been admitted to the bar, had a hearing before Judge Cleland, of the Circuit Court, yesterday afternoon. The court overruled his demurrer to the order that he show cause, and set his case for hearing on the merits September 29, at 2 P. M. Mrs. Jessie L. Pro made affidavit that she applied to Hirschheimer to secure for her a divorce from Edward L. Pro, and that he accepted the suit for four months failed to file the suit. When it was finally filed she says it was not properly prosecuted. She wants her money back.

MAIL SERVICE BETTERED

Clerks Will Be Assigned to Baker City Train.

Portland and Eastern Oregon will profit through an order issued yesterday by the increase of mail facilities. Baker City will give up its afternoon daily mail by an arrangement whereby mail clerks are to be assigned to train No. 1 on the O. R. & N. leaving Baker City at 10 o'clock in the morning. This service has never before been extended beyond Pendleton. At the same time, train No. 6, leaving Portland at 10 o'clock in the morning, will handle mails between Huntington and Pocatello, Idaho. In the past this train has switched off the mail cars at Huntington.

LACK OF FUNDS HAMPERS

Portland Has Outgrown Its Fire Department, Says Committee.

Lack of funds for the equipment of new fire companies was discussed at the meeting of the fire committee of the Executive Board yesterday afternoon. The city has outgrown its fire department, but after the new year there will be funds available to meet the demand. The fire committee is planning to secure the rooms now occupied in the City Hall by the County Assessor, when the County House is finished so the Assessor can vacate for the use of the Electrical Department of the city.

DRINK CURE IS FATAL

MAN DIES UNDER TREATMENT; DOCTOR GONE.

Delirious Patient Strapped to Bed When Witness Is Told He Is Progressing Nicely.

While undergoing treatment to demonstrate the success of a new cure for the drink habit, A. W. Cox, a porter at the Oregon Hotel, died Wednesday night, and Dr. J. E. Bartel, of 29 Branch street, Lentz, who had charge of the case, could not be found yesterday afternoon when the District Attorney sought him, to make an investigation. Peculiar circumstances surrounded the death and all the departments of criminal investigation are taking an interest in the case. The death of Cox was not reported to the coroner and first news was received by the authorities through a report made to Chief of Police Cox by Patrolman Roberts. This officer was called before the District Attorney yesterday afternoon and gave the following account of his knowledge of the death of Cox: "Dr. Bartel has a hobby for the curing of the use of alcohol, tobacco and drugs, and has often spoken to me about a treatment he was devising. Wednesday night, about 7:30 o'clock, I met him in front of his sanitarium at Kern Park and he told me that he had a patient taking the cure and wanted me to come in and see how well it was working. I went with him and saw a man strapped to a bed. He was delirious, his eyes were rolled up and he kept talking and grabbing at his throat. The doctor seemed to be satisfied with the progress of the cure,
