

DEMOCRATIC SLATE IS SENT TO VOTERS

List of Candidates for County Offices Issued Anonymously by Mail.

ACTION VIOLATION OF LAW

State Is Considered Eleventh-Hour Attempt of Democrats to Have Ticket in Field if Outlook is Good After Primary.

In an anonymous slate put out yesterday through the mails, Democrats throughout Multnomah county were supplied with a full list of candidates for the Democratic nominations for various county offices. There is no record of any party action in connection with the slate to disclose its origin.

The purpose of the slate is plainly to get a full Democratic ticket installed at the primary which is to be held on Saturday, September 24. The slate was prepared by the recent sweeping victory of the party in Maine and by discord in the Republican party in Multnomah county. Democrats in several days past have been hopeful of electing a Governor in the general election. It is known that much complaint has been voiced in connection with the party to put out a full county ticket.

Ticket Eleventh-Hour Effort.

But the County Central Committee has been unable to act, for if a meeting had been held the Democratic stand against assemblies would have been nullified and an important point of attack on the political enemy eliminated. Individual aspirants failed to develop their own accord and leading Democrats neglected to induce candidates to enter the field.

"Why should we attempt to get this man to run for an office for which he had a chance and pit another against a Republican who could not be beaten?" inquired County Chairman George H. Thomas. "The Democrats have been on the verge of letting any opportunity they may have in this county go by default, but the slate as put out yesterday is regarded as an eleventh-hour attempt to get into line for possible emergencies that may arise after the primary election has been held."

State Violates Law.

The slate as sent out yesterday to the Democratic voters is in violation of the corrupt practice law, inasmuch as the source of the circulars is not noted. It is not likely that the culpable parties will become known, as there is no clew as to the identity of the senders. Plainly, though, the slate is a deliberate backing for the printing, stationery and postage bill incurred will amount to several hundred dollars.

The circular is headed in large black letters, "Democrats of Multnomah County," followed by "It is suggested that you write in the names of the following gentlemen on your primary ballot for the offices printed opposite their names. Do not omit the X. This will present to the voters a strong ticket of estimable men."

POLITICAL GOSSIP

Anti-assembly Republicans continue to be jubilant at the turn taken by the voters in neighboring states. It is pointed out, however, that the attitude of neighboring states must not be invested with too much hope, for of precedent counts for anything it might well be recalled that when Bryan caught Washington and California—while Oregon stayed firmly in line.

"Why doesn't Acting Governor Bowerman resign from the State Senate when he is a candidate for another office?" some of the anti-assemblyites are asking. Mr. Bowerman's reply is calculated to make them sorry they put the query. Mr. Chamberlain was originally the Governor under the present administration. When he was sent to the Senate the Secretary of State, Mr. Benson, succeeded to the throne. Now that Mr. Benson is away for his health it devolves on Mr. Bowerman to assume the duties of the place, and if he should step out there would be none to handle the heavy run of important business. Mr. Bowerman's associates say the office is now a veritable elephant on his hands, inasmuch as he is prevented from giving very much of his time to his campaign for the Republican nomination. But he says he will not leave the post unoccupied while Mr. Benson is away—even if his personal political interests do have to suffer in consequence.

Anti-assembly charges that the Republican organization in Multnomah County is dominated by the corporations sound rather hollow in the face of the fact that the central committee has to scrape to scrape to pay office expenses and a few routine bills, while the anti-assembly campaign is not lacking in funds, as is evidenced by the expenditures made in the effort to capture the committee at the primaries. The latest expense is an output of approximately $100 for the mere purpose of getting the names of a few anti-assembly candidates for committees written in on the ballots.

The various candidates are devoting every ounce of surplus and excess energy to their campaigning this week. On the county ticket the hardest contest is on the legislative lineup. A hard tussle is on, too, over the offices of Sheriff and County Clerk, while the campaign waxes hot over Auditor, Justice of the Peace and Constable. Both sides are valiantly claiming victory. The precise standing of all prophets will be made known next Sunday morning.

DEATH IS MOURNED

Police Keenly Feel Loss of Municipal Judge Bennett.

COURT DOCKET GOES OVER

Members of Portland Bar to Attend Funeral—Appointment of Successor Not to Be Made by Mayor Before Tomorrow.

Gloom prevailed at police headquarters yesterday on account of the sudden death of Municipal Judge Bennett. The magistrate had established himself with every member of the force as a just judge who stood squarely behind the officers in every effort to enforce the law. A beautiful floral piece was sent by the Chief of Police and the house of mourning. The flag at headquarters was draped.

Prizes Given for Sheep

Notwithstanding the detailed charges of graft lodged against him, Colonel E. Hofer, anti-assembly candidate for Governor, says he surely will win next Saturday.

Dr. T. L. Perkins, anti-assembly candidate for the Legislature, has been unanimously endorsed by the Oregon State Dental Association.

Keen Interest Shown in Display to Be Made in January.

Many prizes are being offered for the sheep show to be held in connection with the annual convention of the National Woolgrowers Association in Portland next January 3, 4, 5 and 6. The show will be the largest in the history of the association. It is expected that the coming convention will attract many sheepgrowers and woolen manufacturers from the Atlantic Coast and there will be a large representation of the sheep raising industry of the Western States.

The Oregon Thoroughbred Livestock Association with headquarters at Salem, has offered a $50 cup to be placed at the discretion of the directors of the show. The Anglo Goat Association has appropriated $100 for special prizes in the single classes. At a recent meeting of the Willamette Valley Woolgrowers Association, 425 was appropriated for premiums. The Salem Woolen Mills has set aside a fine pair of blankets to be placed on Merino sheep. A. J. Knollin & Co. of Clatskanie, Ore., has set aside a special prize to be awarded the same as last year.

The American Angora Goat Association will give a handsome cup for Angora goats. The Pendleton Woolen Mills has prepared a special pair of blankets, valued at $50, to be given as a sweepstakes prize for the exhibit of one breeder.

M'ALLISTER STARTS SOUTH

Manager of Oregon Home Rule Association Makes Statement.

H. C. McAllister, general manager of the Greater Oregon Home Rule Association, left last night for a trip through Southern Oregon in the interest of the association's campaign against the effort to vote the State of Oregon "dry."

"As it has been intimated that the Greater Oregon Home Rule Association is working underneath in this campaign and is afraid to come into the open," said Mr. McAllister, "I shall hereafter cause to be published my itinerary from week to week until the close of the campaign. On this trip I shall visit Roseburg, Grants Pass, Medford, Ashland, Eugene, Albany, Salem and Forest Grove. Next week I shall announce the cities I propose to visit, and will make a tour of the State during the week thereafter until election day."

Frank Hart Dies in Alaska.

CORDOVA, Alaska, Sept. 20.—Frank Hart, city magistrate, widely known in Alaska, and husband of Mrs. Mary Hart, who had charge of the Alaska exhibit at the St. Louis and Seattle World's Fairs, died last night. He leaves a son in California.

ACTOR WITH MONORITIS SHUNS TALK OF THEATER

However, Walker Whiteside Mentions Circumstance That Success Has Its Trials No Less Than Failure.

BY LEONE CASS BAER.

The automobile reporter should have been sent to interview Walker Whiteside. Then there might have been a story to tell.

For Mr. Whiteside is in the last stages of motoritis. What he knows about automobiles would make the man who invented them sit up and observe largely, and a list of the brands he owns, or has owned or will own would fill this column.

"Ask me," said the actor, "what explodes the gas in the cylinder and I can tell you, or demonstrate the divine spark, and explain that it is the spark that explodes the gas—but ask me to explain or demonstrate the divine spark, or maybe dissect the spontaneity of an actor's art for newspaper reading, and—well, I can't do it—that's all. I would rather take a motor apart and put it together than do almost any other thing in the world."

Love of Mechanism Grows.

"Until I owned one—and by the bye, I bought one of the first ones in this country—I had no idea of machinery. In fact, my only accomplishment in this line was winding a watch or loading a gun. Now I am obsessed with a love of mechanical things, and I take all my cars apart, regularly, and as a source of pleasure together with my friends." (Notice he said "all my cars.")

By dint of maneuvering Mr. Whiteside was brought to the interview's block and forced to talk about cars or two things other than sparks and plugs and lights and long hay Summer days.

Every Past Is Dead.

"I never think over or recall my successes any more than I think over or recall my failures," he said. "Every past is a dead thing. Only the future counts, only the present lives. No man is wholly responsible for his failures or successes. Always there is a lull in the events of everyone's life. That is the time when a watch or a gun or a sweater seems to recognize it as such."

"The constant playing of one character by the same player is fatal to the advancement of that player unless he has a sense of humor and a song in his heart."

"If one meets with unusual success everybody believes one must have a swelled head. If in the days before an unusual success came, one welcomed an acquaintance with a bow and a hand-shake, one must perform, when success comes, get down on all fours, roll over, kiss the ground and be gleeful to prove that success has not changed one."

Play Is the Thing.

"Personally I would rather play comedy than anything else. I would rather, however, see serious plays than comedies. I never pay any attention to the actors when I am watching a play unless they are so bad I cannot help it. I watch the play and take the actors into consideration afterward. Sometimes I know it is the actors who have made the play and vice versa."

Mr. Whiteside is particularly happy in his role of David in Zangwill's big sermon play "The Melting Pot." It is a wonderful story, this unorthodox and withal simple tale of Zangwill. It is a heavy with big booming human interest and makes its appeal to all classes and races.

11 FRESHMEN ARE HAZED

NEW MEDICAL STUDENTS GET USUAL TORTURE.

They Are Paraded in Scanty Attire and Then Introduced to Wild Animals at Fair Grounds.

With their hands tied behind their backs and with ropes around their necks, 11 freshmen of the University of Oregon medical department yesterday afternoon stood under a sign reading "We are a bunch of rough-neck freshmen" and suffered their right trousers legs to be rolled up, while upon their bare legs were being painted the red, red cross.

These polite attentions were paid by the sophomore class. The freshmen were subjected to such other tortures as medicine with a siphon, knowledge of horrors were able to devise.

So bedecked by the members of the class who were getting even for last year's treatment, the freshmen marched down Twenty-third street and up Thurman street to the old Lewis and Clark fair grounds, where they "crossed the burning sands," "rode the goat" and performed such other original feats as the sophomores prescribed for them.

Securely blindfolded, still bound and by this time subdued, the freshmen were led to the cage of a lion, belonging to a dog and monkey show which winters in the Liberal Arts building. The lion was aroused by being poked with sticks. His roars were terrifying. Nevertheless, the freshmen were made to stand beside the cage. Finally they were made to crawl into an empty cage, the sophomores saying they were to go in with the king of the jungle.

After all had gone through this, they were bundled over to the auditorium, where several of their experiences were awaiting them. Following the customs of their predecessors, the sophomores painted their victims, made them walk across various quantities of sticky fly paper, and ended by giving them an expected plunge in a tank of ice-cold water.

Usually the freshmen initiation is one of the general affairs in the annuals if medical studies in Portland; usually old graduates of the school turn out in force to see that old scores are paid to the new class. Not so this year. The new class was as large as the sophomores. Upper classes, however, were there.

To show that they could be kind as well as unkind, the sophomores gave the banquet. Several graduates and upper classmen attended. The members of the freshmen were: P. A. Bonbow, Elmer Anderson, Harry Schwartz, C. Hampton, H. M. Bouvey, C. D. H. Moffat, C. F. Larsen, Sam Marotte, C. D. Houser, W. E. Bales and W. J. Spencer.

Successor Not Chosen.

A successor to the late judge will not be named by Mayor Simon until tomorrow at least, and it may be the appointment will not materialize for a few days. Mayor Simon said yesterday that no appointment would be made until after a funeral, but it is indicated that he would make the appointment tomorrow.

"It is possible that some man may be put on the bench temporarily to hold court until a successor to Mr. Bennett is chosen," said the Mayor yesterday.

"Concerning who may be the appointee, Mayor Simon gave no indication. Several candidates have already been suggested but it is not believed that any one of them has assurance of success."

Vocal and Instrumental Event.

A musical recital will be given in Christiansen's Hall, Eleventh and Yamhill streets, Friday night, at 8:15.

PORTLAND MAN WELCOMED

National Rose Society, London, Acknowledges His Visit.

Ralph W. Hoyt, president of the Portland Rose Festival Association, yesterday received a letter from Edward Hawley, of the National Rose Society, of London, England, telling of the visit of Rev. S. S. Sulliger, of Portland, to the Royal Botanic Gardens, London, on a trip to England and the British Isles, and has written several articles concerning his journey for The Oregonian.

"We are pleased to welcome your representative, the Rev. S. S. Sulliger,"

PRESSED HARD

Coffee's Weight on Old Age.

When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others.

A superintendent of public schools in a Southern state says: "My mother, since her early childhood, was an inveterate coffee drinker, had been troubled with her heart for a number of years and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach."

"Some time ago, I was making an official visit to a distant part of the country and took dinner with one of the merchants of the place. I picked a somewhat peculiar flavour of the coffee, and asked him concerning it. He replied that it was Postum. I was so pleased with it that after the meal was over, I bought a package to take home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal; the whole family liked it so well that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely."

"I had really been at times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time, she felt so much better than she did prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent; and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us."

"I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but in a more marked degree in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long standing."

"Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest."

TALKS on TEETH

BY THE REX DENTAL CO., DENTISTS

EXPERTO CREDE

(Believe One Who Speaks From Experience.)

The beautiful samples you see displayed in glass cases at the street corners of dental parlors are made of wax and composition by manufacturers who make a specialty of making samples of that kind you have seen a dentist who could equal these samples in looks? We can duplicate any set of teeth in looks, and the quality of our work will equal the looks. It's deeds, not words, that can do the best. You need dental work. Then let us show you samples of real dental work in our offices; also work in or being put in the mouth at all times—and we have one or more patients in our offices having work done—then let us send you to any of our patients whom you may know—we have an army of them. Many of them are among the best people who live in this city and state.

Alveolar Teeth, Where Bridgework is Important.

If only your front teeth are left, say three or four or more, you can replace all those that have been lost on either sides clear back, with perfect Alveolar Teeth, while bridgework would be impossible even if you had $ or 10 front teeth to tie to. If you have only two back teeth on each side, say, molars, we can supply all the front teeth that are missing with beautiful, serviceable, life-long Alveolar Teeth. This could not possibly be done by the bridge route. And where bridgework is possible, there is no comparison between the two. A very large percentage of our work is taking out bridgework put in by supposedly high-class dentists, and replacing it with the beautiful and artistic Alveolar Teeth. And, unlike bridgework in any other respect, it is practically painless. No boring or cutting into the gums, nothing to be dreaded. Now, then, prices being equal, which would you choose?

Curing Pyorrhea (loose teeth), a disease even up to date dentists do not cure, is another of our specialties. We cure it absolutely. It's a beautiful statement to make, but we can do anything that is possible in dentistry, and what we do is always of the very highest class. Our booklet, Alveolar Dentistry, is free. Write for one if you cannot call.
