WILD HORSES PLAY WICKED PRANKS!

First Day of Pendleton's Show Ends in Score Being Injured.

ANIMAL DANCES ON VICTIM

Mrs. William Wilder Thrown in Woman's Relay Race and Is Removed on Stretcher -- 6000 Persons Pass Through Stile.

PENDLETON, Or., Sept. 29 .- (Special.)-Wild, whooping cowboys, scores of the meanest and most wicked horses that could be gathered together in the Northwest, famous cowpunchers, rope and gun experts, all gathered here to-day and combined to make the first day of the first annual roundup ar event that will long be remembered in event that will long be remembered as this section.

Although the show only opened to-day, over 6000 persons passed through the turnstiles. Every seat was filled and seats are being crected for 4000 additional people. There was an Indian village, the braves dressed in warpaint to add color to the occasion, and there were other features which have never been seen in an enclosure anywhere. been seen in an enclosure anywhere The horses were not tamed nor were the steers subdued. As a result, fences were crushed in by the maddened, charging arimals, and those who were not in the stands gave an admirable exhibition of their sprinting ability.

Hospital Corps Kept Busy.

The Red Cross Hospital established en the grounds was kept busy, Dr. Waffle attending half a score of minor injuries. Those most seriously injured were four;

Mrs. William Wilder, whose horse bucked and threw the rider in the woman's relay race and then danced on her; Mrs. Wilder was removed on a stretcher. She may ride tomorrow.

L. S. Calkins has a broken collarbone as a result of a pileup in the cow

Lee Caldwell received injuries that surely crippled him, but he kept on un-til he absolutely collapsed. Clarence Adams was also slightly in-jured when the four horses piled on top of each other.

The two great spectacular features of the day were the bucking horse contest and the wild horse race. "Buffalo" Vernon provided entertainment with his "bulldogging" a steer, throwing it with his hands and holding it down by his teeth and by his clever lasso work. In the bucking horse contest but a few qualified for the final and the $250 saddle. Most of the contestants were thrown and spilled all over the arena. The horses did not care where they threw their riders, but seemed to prefer a suitable level spot so they could waitz over them afterwards.

Wild Horse Race Exciting.

In the wild horse race, the untamed brutes were roped in a corral and hanled into the arena. There each rider was allowed a helper who held the horse. The horse was first blind-folded and hobbled. Then the gun was fired. After that, with the helper still the wild horse, the rider had saddle and ride once around the around. The balance were scattered over the track.

The wildest horses rolled over some of their would-be tamers; they put others out with well-placed kicks while still others—but they were few-retired from the contest when they saw how things were going.

There were bucking horses going in every direction. It required half an

PINCHOT PLEADS

Deposed Forester Asks Conservationists and All Others to Combine.

FIGHT COMMON ENEMY, CRY

"Man in Politics to Feather Own Nest" Is Bitter Antagonist and Scattering of Power Harmful, Told Irrigation Congress.

PUEBLO, Colo., Sept. 29.-Gifford Pinchot, wildly cheered, today pleaded for harmony between conservationist states rights men and "Nationalists" in hour for the first horse to make the circuit. At that time some of the others were still bucking within 50 yards of the start.

The thousands of spectators were be fought successfully, and natural resources be kept in possession of the

There is one enemy we all have to "There is one enemy we all have to fight," he said. "It is the man in pol-ities to feather his own nest. Any scattering of our power, therefore, is harmful, so I make this plea: Do what you can to get the state and Nation together to fight the common enemy and stop any attempt to excite antagonism between the two, thereby creat-ing a gap in which the enemies of both will best flourish.

Last Year Turning Point.

"The last year has been the turn-ing point, and the people realize that while we have a right and a duty to use all we need of minerals, forests, lands and waters, behind and above all is the equal or stronger duty to admin-ister our birthright so that we may hand it down to future generations, a Nation richer, stronger and purer than it is today." Pinchot declared the loudest cries against his policies and the most bitter fight against it, have come from those individuals and organizations who see their individual profits are in danger. "Any fight of this kind must have a focal point. Any great contest always centers around a few men and organi-rations.

"The basic principle of this fight of ours and mine is that it is better to help the small man making a living than to help the big man making a profit, and so indorse the idea that the natural resources do not belong to a few rich men, mainly in Wall Street, but they belong and must be kept, in the possession of the people.

How Trouble Arose. "I believe that the contest of states rights and Federal, so prominently before this Congress, would never have arisen if the Government had not un-dertaken to control some of the special interests, which believed they could all control by taking refuge behind the

"My view is this-there are certain stage route and may reduce the distance things in which the state is obviously from Eugene to Coos Bay to less than 100 incapable of asserting as useful power, as useful control, as the National Govas useful control, as the National Government. All those the Government should control. There are many cases in which the protection of peoples' rights belongs to the state, and in such cases the state should have full swing. In both cases I' deprecate all attempts to raise this quarrel, because in the muddy water there is a refuge for the mean who wants to escape at for the man who wants to escape all control. I believe in co-operation be-tween the states and the Nation."

ASIATIC FLEET IS READY

Preparations Being Made to Handle Immediate Outbreak - Lives of Foreigners Are in Jeopardy. Boxer Trouble Paralleled.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 .- China is declared to be on the verge of another upheaval similar to the Boxer uprising and the lives of foreigners are in jeopardy. Recent advices from Government officials in China express the belief that an outbreak at any time would not surprise them. The State Department has instructed officials to maintain a close watch on international conditions

All through the Summer months there have been mutterings of discontent in some of the Chinese provinces, due to the rice famine, dynastic differences and dissatisfaction over acts of the Pekin govcrament as to foreign investments in Good harvests mitigated to some extent, the gravity of the situation, but there is still a general feeling of unrest, eccording to personal letters received here from men on duty in that quarter. The army and navy are prepared for any emergency, but their readiness is solely a precautionary measure, it is sald, and should be taken as an Indication of immediate danger.

Authentic advices from those charged with keeping in touch with the condi-tions indicate that the only thing lack-ing to parallel the present situation with the preceding Boxer troubles, which drew into China the American forces as well as those of other nations, is the matter of organization and that it only needs a leader to do that. Every vessel in the Aslatic fleet, as well as the military forces at Manlia, is prepared for instant action in the event of trouble breaking.

United States Minister to China Cal-houn, at Pekin, who last May reported to the State Department the generally disquieting anti-foreign and anti-dynas-tic rumors, is keeping in close touch with the situation there, and the foreign Consuls at Nankin, early in the Summer, emphasized to the Viceroy the import-ance of immediate protective measures.
