ABBOT RECEIVES FORMAL BLESSING

Impressive Ceremony Is Conducted by Catholic Clergy at Mount Angel.

DAY IS MADE NOTEWORTHY

Town, Abbey and College Join in Festivities in Honor of Rev. Placidus Fuerst - Many Dignitaries Are Present.

MOUNT ANGEL COLLEGE, Or., Oct. 5.-Abbot Placidus Fuerst was second abbot of St. Benedict's Abbey today, amid imposing cere Many church dignituries and clergymen from throughout the Northwest, as well as a vast concourse of lalty had assem-bled in the little abbey chapel where the ceremony was held, and the function which followed was impressive in the extreme. Archbishop Alexander Christie performed the bissalns.

The day was made one of general fes-tivities, both in the little town in whose circles the new prelate has moved for 10 years as the leading light, and at the abbey and college, whose future destines he is called to shape. The city and college bands were present early in the morning to serenade the new abbot and continued their music throughout the day. At noon a banquet was served to the abbot in the monastery and loasts were " made by churchmen and by men of prominence, including Archbished Christie and Sena-tor Chamberlain.

Great Crowd Attends.

Long before the appointed time crowds from the town and far-off places flocked up the hill and more than half had to content themselves with winessing the function as best they were able from the function as best they were able from the counside. The various societies of St. Mars's Church atteided, wearing the insignia of their organizations.

Hishops, prelates and clergymen filed into the sanctuary and, augmented by the cheir from the city, intoned the opening prayers. The altars, surmounted with hundreds of electric lights and swathed in gorgeous draperies and decorations, presented a magnificent spectacle, which was heightened by the sight of more than a hundred churchmen, clad in the robes of their offices.

Blessing Is Conferred.

Blessing is Conferred.

Upon his taking his place in the sanctuary positive high mans was started and proceeded with until just before the offertory, when the blessing proper began. First the oath, by which the abbot promised to upheld the teachings of the Cathelle Church and administer to the spiritual and temporal welfare of his charge to the best of his shiftly, was administered, while all in the church witnessed it standing, and immediately afterward the choir knell and the feven penitonial pasins, while the abbot lay prostrate before the altar.

After the singing of the psalms the mass proceeded until chorry after the communition, when the abbot his prime were blessed and conferred on the new

Immediately after mass the Te Deum was intoucd, and while the whole church vibrated with the notes of this hymn of rejoicing and thanksgiving and the abbey Catholic Church had added another to its ranks, the newly-made abbot proceeded through the church, blessing the people, and, returning to the sanctuary, gave his tirst solemn pontifical benediction from the steps of the altar.

Very Reverend Father Cantwell, superior of the Redemptorist order in Portland, supplied the place of Blahop MacDonald, of Vancouver, B. C., who was to have spoken, but could not be present. Rev. Father Cantwell dwelt upon the dignity and sublimity of the abbatial office and the office of church prelates in general.

Benedictine Order Eulogized.

He eulogized the Benedictine order as an order which had proved itself the light of the so-called dark ages, and which had atood the test for 1500 years. "It was born," he said, not to meet a crisis, but for all time."

Those officiating in the sanctuary were as follows: Celebrant, Most Reverend Alexander Christie, D. D.; descon, Reverend Gregory Robble; sub-deacon, Reverend Benedict Barr; deacons of honor, Rev. Rasil Schieber and Francis Mayeur; assisting prelates to Abbot Placidus, Right Hev. Abbot Fortunatus, of Jordan, and Very Rev. Monsignor Bronsgeest; musters of ceremony, Rev. me and Rev. President-elect Ponseca, of Brazil, re-President-elect Ponseca, of Brazil, re-cently arrived in Lisbon, and last night a grand banquet was to have been given him by King Manuel. Accord-ingly, the Brazilian President must have been a witness to scenes similar to those of 1889 in Brazil, when the Portuguese empire in that country was overthrown, causing the imperial family to leave Brazil, and a provi-sional government under Fonseca, the sional government under Fonseca, the father of the present President-elect, was established.

President-elect Fonseca, of Brazil, re reived a great ovation when he arrived at Lisbon. framework, cracking and falling. This crash was the Republican opportunity."

The Journal debates upon the question of the real cause of the revolution; whether it was anarchy which, it says, has been destroying the nation for more than a generation. The paper adds:

"Never was a country so deplorably governed. Ministries changed, but the situation never. It always was a division of the spoils. It was the same rotation in office and corrupton that destroyed Greece. Every sconomy and financial interest of the Government was prostituted to serve the personal interest of the reigning group and their clans, who were obliged to feed a crowd of hungry followers."

King Carlos saw the danger, the paper says, and made Franco Premier to stop the rotting away of the nation, but the tempest of monarchist and Republican opposition overwhelmed the country.

The Journal dispatch debates the question that many Portuguese not opposed to the dynasty will favor a republic as a means of giving new life and hope for the salvation of the country. "To no one; he is the last of the line, hence the ministers have been urging his speedy marriage. It was reported in Lisbon that negotiations had been concluded for an alliance with the German Emperor's daughter, Victoria Louise. This would be the most unpopular union possible and a direct slap at France and England. England.

The Republicans for several months have been urging Manuel to abdicate penceably, but the Monarch seemed deaf to the murmurs and the warning and did not realize his condition, until now he is reaping a ghastly harvest. The sedition appears to be strongest in the navy, though the army also is vigorously anti-elerical." "What effect did the recent Spanish

They gallantly threw themselves upon the insurgents, but were received with a fusiliade of small bombs. Seeing that they were powerless, the police summoned the troops, but the soldiers soon split into two bands, one going over to the side of the revolutionists, the other remaining faithful to discipline and the monarchy.

"A fierce engagement soon developed. Officers and soldiers dropped dead or wounded in large numbers. Artillery served the guns with desperate energy. The revolutionists succeeded in selaing the barracks contiguous to the royal nalace, where King Manuel was staying. The King was informed of what had occurred and left the building, accompanied by four confidential attendants, who took him to a place of safety. "The battle continued to rage in the streets. provincial garrisons arrived in Lisbon and joined the soldiers that had remained loyal, so that the rival forces practically were equal."

Premier Canalejas, in giving out this statement, said:

"I believe Queen Amelia has not left the palace at Cintra and I know that in the other Portuguese provinces the seditious movement has received little support.

At midnight the government received further advices confirming the statement that the revolutionary movement originating in Lisbon had gained no ground in the provinces. The Radical Club tonight lituminated its buildings in celebration of the rising. The members sang "The Marseillaine" while the public collected Marseillaise" while the public consected under the windows. The police entered the club and turned out everybody. The clubmen then marched to Puerto del Sol, where the police again dispersed them. One of the men was arrested. Beyond this incident all is quiet in both Madrid and the provinces.
