Charlie Graham's collar champions from Sacramento played their first game of their final series of the season in Portland yesterday afternoon and got themselves into serious trouble on two occasions. However, he tightened up and pulled himself out of the holes neatly. He fanned nine of the cellar chumps.

Casey proved a star on a wet field. Twice the field captain made spectacular plays after floundering around in the mire for the sixth inning to-day. By diving forward, he caught Shinn's line drive, in the sixth inning, just before it got to the ground. In the next inning, after making a clean catch of Danzig's speedy grounder, he slipped and fell, but regained his control in time to throw the runner out at first by a narrow margin.

Gas Hetling, the player over whom the big squabble between Oakland, Portland and Spokane is taking place, did not play yesterday nor did the Portland manager make any attempt to play him. This was chiefly because he is suffering from a spiked foot. Had he been able to play he would no doubt have been seen at the key-stone bag, as Casey's sprained ankle is not yet well.

As critics of the class A style of ball, the two teams had the baseball magnates of the Pacific Coast and Northwestern Leagues watching them. Numbered in the highest ranks were D. E. Dugdale, of Seattle, and Joe Cohn, of Spokane. Judge McCredie, owner of the Portland franchise, and several other baseball officials were present.

With one man out in the first inning, Olson got the first of three hits for the day. Krueger then hit one for two bases and Secretary John Heydler, but Olson failed to touch second and was out. Casey celebrated his turn at bat by hitting a single along the left foul line, after which the center fielder took third from whence he scored on Olson's hit over Burns' head. Olson stole second, but Krueger rolled an easy grounder to Boardman and the side was out.

Sacramento looked dangerous several times during the afternoon, due principally to the wildness of Gregg. After one man was out in the eighth, Gregg walked Spiesman and Byram. Parry was substituted as runner for Spiesman and he and Byram each advanced a base on Shinn's single to right.

Then "Deacon" Van Buren, who once wore a Portland uniform, chopped a single just out of Casey's reach and one Sacramento run came in. Still, the bases were full and Manager McCredie waved for Steen to warm up. When Gregg saw this, he pitched in the harder and fanned the next two men, Helster and Danzig. Tommy Murray, who caught for Portland, took a big chance with Helster by calling for two waste balls after he had two strikes on him when the bases were loaded. Gregg proved equal to the occasion, though, when he put the pitcher with a shoot, which Helster missed.

A single by Briggs and a base on balls to La Longe, who substituted for Spiesman as catcher, made things look a little dangerous for Portland in the ninth, after two men were out. Papa went in at bat for Byram and hit a fast grounder to Sheehan, which the third baseman scooped up with one hand and threw to Casey at second, fogging La Longe. Either Steen or Krapp will pitch for Portland this afternoon. The score:
