PROVINCES STILL LOYAL TO MANUEL

Peace in Portugal Not Yet Established.

REPUBLICANS ARE CONFIDENT

New Government Taking Steps to Enforce Allegiance.

KING'S TROOPS DIE HARD

Story Is Told of Brilliant Charge Made by Municipal Cavalry on Insurgent Artillery, but Only Three Men Escape.

KING MANUEL AT GIBRALTAR

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 6.—King Manuel of Portugal is now under British protection. The Portuguese royal yacht Amélia, having on board the king, the queen mother, the younger queen and the Duke of Oporto, entered this harbor at 11 o'clock this evening.

Shortly afterwards the king and the queen mother came ashore and drove to the summer residence of the governor, Sir Frederick Forrester-Walker, at Europa Point.

Judging from the appearance of the crew that manned the Amélia, they were gotten together hurriedly.

LISBON, Oct. 6.—While the City of Lisbon is in the hands of revolutionists and a republic has been proclaimed, with Theophile Braga as provisional president, the army in the country around the capital is mostly loyal to the monarchy.

The monarchists include a portion of the Lisbon troops and the troops massed in entrenched camps about the city. Thus far these have refused to ally themselves with the revolutionists and the provisional government is taking steps to enforce allegiance.

Republicans Are Confident.

The people of Lisbon are ignorant of events in the provinces, and it is not known here whether the movement is broad enough to sweep the country. Nevertheless, the Republicans are proceeding as though the transformation of the monarchy into a republic was accomplished for all time.

For months preparations have been going on for the overthrow of the king, and it had been definitely arranged to raise the cry of revolution on Wednesday. It so happened that the king was about to take up his residence at Cascaes, and the warships were ordered to proceed there.

Navy Decides to Act.

The navy, which is the chief support of the revolutionists, thereupon decided to act immediately; otherwise that defensive arm of the country would be able to offer no assistance in carrying out the plan.

Monday night, at midnight, the republican chiefs, accompanied by numerous partisans, went to the barracks of the Sixteenth Infantry. The doors were thrown open to the populace, and arms were distributed by thousands.

Guns Dragged Forth.

The barracks of the First Artillery were next visited, and the guns dragged forth. The revolutionists marched to the highest point in Lisbon, a fine strategic position, where artillery was mounted, threatening the town.

The government troops immediately took up a position in the center of the city, about two miles from the revolutionists, where heavy guns and Maxim guns were placed to oppose the revolutionists. Meanwhile the insurgent cruiser Adamastor steamed up in front of Lisbon, ready for a bombardment, while the cruiser Rafael proceeded down the river, taking her station opposite the steamer's barracks, the men of which had joined the revolt.

Whole City Trembles.

The cannoning began and the whole town trembled to its foundations.

A regiment of municipal cavalry made a brilliant charge in an endeavor to take the insurgent encampment near the railway, but was met with the artillery. This regiment was almost entirely annihilated, only three men escaping.

The revolutionists showed extraordinary courage, and for two days and nights maintained their position from an attack on all sides by the superior forces. On Tuesday, the Adamastor shelled the Necesidades Palace and King Manuel and the Queen Mother, Amélia, were forced to escape to Cascaes, whence they went to Madeira.

Monarchists Surrender.

The same night the Adamastor and the Rafael shelled the center of the town, doing much execution to the monarchist forces, and finally, the latter surrendered. The Republic was proclaimed in the afternoon, and the republican flag was hoisted on the public buildings.

The provisional government has issued a communication to the powers, notifying them of the proclamation of the Republic. Obstructions to the new regime are expected from the provinces.

CAVALIERI PLANS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

NOTED SINGER HEARTBROKEN AT CHANLER'S TREATMENT.

Marriage, Instead of Helping Her With Musical Public, Harms, Says Prima Donna.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Cavallieri will sue Chanler for separation on the ground of non-support, of violent treatment and behavior and incompatibility of temper.

The singer has announced herself as having been duped and fooled by misrepresentation. She says her marriage with Chanler, so far from doing her good in the eyes of society and the musical public to which she devoted her most serious ambitions and most laborious energies has only done her harm.

This information is derived from people who have been in close communication with Cavallieri up to a week ago and who describe her as deeply depressed over the turn things have taken.

It is highly improbable that Cavallieri will make any determined fight for the estate and properties which Chanler so generously bestowed upon the woman of his choice. According to the description of those who knew her most intimately she is sickened and broken-hearted at the turn affairs have taken and will welcome a release from a bond that has been the cause of calumny, ridicule and humiliation, that she feels were undeserved. She will start proceedings for divorce shortly.

MAN DIES IN CATARACT

Laborer at Snoqualmie Loses Oar, Falls to Grasp Rope Thrown.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Fred Benz, a laborer employed at the Stone & Webster power plant, was swept over Snoqualmie Falls at noon today and killed.

His body was never seen after it struck the rocks, almost 300 feet below the brink of the cataract, bounded off into the whirlpool and disappeared. The rowboat in which the victim of the awful accident was carried over the falls was literally dashed to pieces on the rocks.

Benz, in company with a fellow laborer named Moore, went across the river above the falls in a rowboat shortly after noon to feed some horses stabled on the shore opposite the power plant. They started to return in separate boats. Moore went first and made the trip in safety. In landing he looked back and saw that Benz's little boat had become unmanageable through the loss of an oar and that Benz, panic-stricken, was rowing about in a circle, drifting nearer the brink of the falls at each moment.

Moore called lustily for help and men with ropes ran to Benz's aid. The ropes were thrown to the frightened man and Benz fell into the boat, but Benz, in his bewilderment, failed to grasp it.

COURT COSTS WELCOMED

Maud Lillian Berri Gladly Pays $200 Divorce Charges.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Maud Lillian Berri, who was divorced from Frank Moulin Tuesday, was so happy in her new-found liberty that she could not bear to have her ex-husband incommode by the detail of the divorce decree which compelled him, on pain of the County Jail, to pay her attorney $200, as well as the $50 court costs.

So today she sent word to the court that she would pay the money herself and the order was modified so that the one-time "Sultan of Sulu" need not worry or sing his song of "Teneros."

What the fair divorcee failed to do was to reveal the secret of the famous card game which preceded the separation.

As an actress she seems to understand the artistic value of suspense and all the world knows it that Moulin left, presumably in a rage, two hours after the trick was played. It is rumored that she trumped his ace. Anyway, everything is lovely now and both thespians are happy.

GYMNASIUM WORK TABOO

Fort Stevens Soldiers Must Now Take Exercise in Open.

FORT STEVENS, Or., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The winter program for the local Army forces combines features remarkably like the ancient Spartan and Roman methods of attaining physical hardihood. Indoor gymnasium work is taboo.

The troops are directed by general orders to equip themselves with clothing adapted to the rainy season and to be prepared to perform all athletic exercises in the open, despite inclement weather conditions.

This method of training is a radical departure from all systems hitherto in vogue and, though regarded with disapproval by a small element, meets with the general sanction of the soldiers.

FLAMES DESTROY SAWMILL

Charles Moehke's Plant, Near Oregon City, Burns Early This A. M.

Fire was discovered in the saw mill belonging to Charles Moehke, two miles south of Oregon City at Williams, at 12:30 o'clock this morning. The mill burned to the ground. The amount of the loss is not known.

The Moehke mill was located on the river bank and was isolated so that no further damage resulted. Before the Oregon City fire department could render aid, the plant was entirely destroyed. By 1:30 A. M. the fire was out.

ATTEMPT TO KILL PRINCE TSAI FAILS

Would-Be Assassin Confesses Plot.

DETECTIVES GRAB CHINESE

Educated Revolutionist Welcomed Gallows.

SECRET SERVICE ACTIVE

Government and San Francisco Detectives Foil Member of Young China Association as He Is About to Shoot.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—An attempt to kill Prince Tsai Haun, uncle of the Emperor of China, as he stepped from the overland train at the Oakland Mole a half hour before boarding the liner Chiyu Maru for the return trip to China, was frustrated today at 2 o'clock by Chief Secret Service Detective Harry Moffatt and Detective Sergeant George McMahon, of the local police department. They seized and overpowered George Fong, a member of the Young China Association, just as he was about to draw a revolver from his hip pocket, with which to fire upon the royal visitor.

Fong was handcuffed and quickly detached from the crowd that had gathered in the station to welcome the Prince upon his return to this city from his visit to the East. He was taken across the bay on a ferry boat, placed in a taxicab and hurried to Moffatt's office, where he made a full confession of his plot to assassinate Prince Haun.

Plot to Kill Well Laid.

A five-chambered 25-caliber revolver, fully loaded, was found in his pocket. He acknowledged that he had purchased it the day that the Prince left San Francisco for his tour of the East, with the avowed purpose of shooting him when he arrived here on his way home.

The arrest was made so quickly and quietly that neither Prince Haun, nor any member of his party knew anything of it until the steamer was ready to sail. Then Rear-Admiral Thomas S. Phelps, representing the Government of the United States, in the final ceremonies attending the distinguished visitor's departure, was informed by Moffatt of what had transpired.

Whether the Prince was told of his close call from death was not learned. In his statement to the authorities, Fong denies that his action was the result of a conspiracy to kill the Prince. He says that the organization to which he belongs, while revolutionary in its tendencies, is in no way responsible for the attempt to slay the Emperor's uncle.

Prisoner Welcomes Death.

The prisoner shoulders all responsibility in the matter, declaring himself to be a revolutionist and an enemy of the present dynasty in China. Fong expressed regret that he had not accomplished his purpose, saying that he wanted to be a martyr to the cause.

JAIL SENTENCES IN STORE

Travelers Who Attempt Smuggling Won't Escape With Fines.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Jail sentences are to be imposed hereafter on travelers who seek to evade Uncle Sam's customs laws.

Offenders caught smuggling recently have been heavily fined and let off Judge Hand, in the United States Court today, in imposing a fine of $500 upon Menzo Morgenthau, a wealthy candy manufacturer, who pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with failure to declare jewelry and wearing apparel worth $7,000, said:

"This is the last time I will let such offenders off with a fine. After this, jail sentences will be imposed in addition to the fines."

Mr. Morgenthau's goods were forfeited at the time of his arrest on the Mauretania on September 15.

TUMULT SUPREME AMONG DEMOCRATS

POLICE WIELD CLUBS FREELY

Mansfield Named as Stoppag Candidate for Governor.

COMMITTEE WILL CHOOSE

Selection of Boston Man Is Compromised and He Will Withdraw--Delegates Storm Stage After Indecisive Second Ballot.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—After a tumultuous session, during which the delegates swarmed upon the stage, free fights were numerous, and police were called in and used their clubs freely, the Democratic state convention nominated Frederick W. Mansfield, of Boston, for Governor by acclamation, at 1:30 A. M.

Mansfield's name was offered as a compromise after a conference in which James H. Vahey and Representative Eugene N. Foss withdrew from the contest to better the chances of success at the polls.

It was agreed that the name of Mr. Mansfield should be placed in nomination with the understanding that he will withdraw within 72 hours and that the selection of the party's candidate shall then be made by a special committee.

The remainder of the ticket is: Secretary of State, A. Z. F. Charest, Holyoke.

Treasurer, General B. F. Peach, Lynn.

Auditor, Charles Palmer, Barnstable.

Attorney-General, John Rutigan, Worcester.

The convention adjourned at 1:30 A. M.

Wild Tumult Breaks Out.

The convention broke out in a wild tumult at the conclusion of the announcement of an undecided second ballot for nominee for Governor early this morning. Delegates swarmed upon the platform, John E. Tinsley, of Worcester, who was chairman, called for the police and 20 officers succeeded after some difficulty in pushing all except several ardent delegates back upon the floor of the convention hall.

A second effort of officers to clear the stage resulted in several fights. Clubs were used freely and at 12:25 half a dozen mixups were in progress, with the chairman unable to secure order or to entertain any of the motions yelled from various parts of the hall.

Scarcely anyone left the hall. The melee was at its highest and an announcement of recess had little effect upon the delegates, who were pounding one another in and about the press boxes. The officers experienced difficulty in separating the combatants and reserves were called in.

Compromise Ends Contest.

The announcement of the second ballot, which was taken very slowly under the Australian system of voting, showed that Foss still had a lead, notwithstanding the supporters of Charles H. Hamlin had done their best after the first ballot to throw their strength to Vahey. Vahey gained more than

GUESTS AT DINNER MAY BE INDICTED

FEAST TO BRIDEGROOM SAID TO VIOLATE LIQUOR LAW.

Prominent Citizens of Pendleton, Including Several Officials, to Go Before Grand Jury.

PENDELTON, Or., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Because 19 prominent young men of Pendleton indulged in a wine dinner last night at the Hotel Pendleton in honor of Benjamin L. Burroughs, who is soon to be married to Miss Mildred Magoon of Portland, they are to be hauled before the grand jury and given a chance to explain why they should not be indicted on a charge of violating the local option law.

The bill of fare at the banquet included Manhattan cocktails, followed by white wine, sparkling burgundy, champagne and other wines.

Reports of the banquet were current on the streets this morning and, when members of the Law Enforcement League heard of it, they started an investigation which resulted in their announcing that they would insist that the matter be probed by the grand jury.

The case is made all the more interesting by reason of the fact that among the participants were Deputy District Attorney Frederick Stelver, City Attorney J. Roy Raley, Chief of Police T. B. Gurdane, Deputy Sheriff George Strand, Roy Alexander of the Alexander Mercantile Company, Roy Bishop of Pendleton, bookkeeper for Alexander Company, W. C. McKinney, head bookkeeper for the American National Bank, Clarke Nelson of the Frazier-Nelson Company, W. A. Stisher, a prominent sheepman, Royal M. Sawtelle, jeweler, William Dedman, Mark Moorhouse, L. B. Ryan, Roy W. Rittner, C. E. Ruppe, S. R. Thompson, W. R. Wyrick and Henry W. Collins.

OUT OF WET, COUPLE WED

Ceremony Performed Under Umbrella in Middle of Road.

FOREST GROVE, Or., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Benjamin H. Marsh and Minnie A. Perkins, of this city, were married here on Tuesday under circumstances which were somewhat out of the ordinary. The ceremony was performed in the street, just in front of their home-to-be and under a large umbrella, which kept off a vigorous Oregon shower.

The unique wedding was not prearranged to take place under such romantic circumstances. It all hinged upon Justice of the Peace Wirtz, of this place, who had been asked to perform the ceremony. This was to be in the new home, which Mr. Marsh had built.

When the Justice reached the place he found that the little home lay just beyond his jurisdiction or outside of the Cornucopia precinct, the dividing line of which ran in front of the house.

The suggestion that it be held across the road at once met with favor, one of the young girl attendants remarking "Let's do, that will be so romantic."

Wirtz read the brief service in the presence of some 10 witnesses, some of whom had no umbrellas with which to protect their wedding finery.

40-FOOT FALL SURVIVED

Workman on New Selling Building Displays Great Fortitude.

While at work upon the frame work of the selling building under construction at Sixth and Alder streets James Cullen, a steelworker 35 years of age, fell from a scaffolding on the third floor at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Despite the fact that Cullen's body struck several steel girders in its downward plunge he was not rendered unconscious. He suffered bad injuries to his limbs.

Cullen's right leg was crushed and the bones broken. He also received a bad cut under the chin when striking one of the girders. Dr. McDaniel, who was immediately called and took the injured man in charge, while waiting for the ambulance Cullen displayed unusual fortitude, insisting that he was not injured internally.

He was removed to St. Vincent's Hospital. His condition was reported last night as satisfactory and it was announced that his injuries would not prove fatal.

CELL AWAITS CONDUCTOR

Man Who Attacked Druggist in Five-Cent Fare War Sentenced.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—S. R. Rainey, the streetcar conductor found guilty of a brutal assault upon Peder Jensen, a Fernhill druggist, as a result of the Fernhill 5-cent fare fight, was arraigned before Superior Judge Chapman today and sentenced to state's prison for an indeterminate term of two to ten years.

Tears fell from Rainey's eyes as he stood before the court and his attorney pleaded for at least a fine, but he soon recovered his demeanor of stolid indifference when sentence had been passed. The jury in Rainey's case had recommended clemency, in view of which Judge Chapman said in dictum one feel like giving him as severe a sentence as the law allows.

PEACE OVERTURES SPURNED BY DIETZ

Cameron Dam Outlaw Fears Treachery.

POSSE CUTS OFF ESCAPE

Interview With Governor's Representative Failure.

FRIENDS OF DIETZ GATHER

Sympathizers With Belaguered Man Arrive Armed in Winter and Riot Is Barely Averted.

WINTER, Wis., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—After a long conference with Attorney-General Gilbert and Colonel Munson, secretary to Governor Davidson, of Wisconsin, John P. Dietz, the Cameron Dam outlaw, absolutely refused to give himself up peacefully to the officers of the law tonight, and announced that he would defend himself to the last against the attempts of Sheriff Madden and deputies to arrest him.

The representatives of the Governor assured Dietz that no violence would follow his arrest, that he would be given an impartial trial and change of venue, and that capable counsel would be provided him at the expense of the state if necessary. To all these offers and even to the entreaties of his visitors, Dietz turned a deaf ear.

Townspersons Watch Conference.

Every available carriage in town wended its way toward the Dietz cabin, when the emissaries made their start and almost the whole town watched from the woods, 70 yards from the cabin, during the conference.

After Dietz's final refusal to give himself up, the entire party of officials, deputies and townspersons, came back to Winter to take further counsel and await developments.

Reports that Dietz made an attempt to escape and was driven back at the muzzle of rifles by deputies are denied by G. W. Froelich, sheriff of venue, emissary, who spent the night with him. Froelich declares that Dietz believes he will be killed unarmed if he gives up his weapons, and argued that he had been shot at 29 times from ambush when walking peacefully along a country road.

Talk of Surrender Nonsense.

"All this talk about my surrendering is nonsense," said Dietz. "The personal enemies of mine are behind the effort to have me shot. If Sheriff Madden has a warrant for me, why doesn't he come out and guarantee proper protection from molestation? I have been promised all sorts of things about this surrender, but I know that there are men in this posse whose only desire is to murder me. I have been hearing about warrants for six years, but no man has ever attempted to serve one on me in regard to this, yet I have never shot an unarmed man."

"I will not lay down my arms to men who have shot my daughter in sheer wanton viciousness and who attempted to kill my sons. It would be sure death to me."

Mission Declared Peaceable.

The leader of the new arrivals, J. W. Nabook, declared when questioned that the mission was peaceable. The men were promptly searched and found to be armed. Attorney-General Gilbert, who was on the train, also notified the Sheriff that the men had acted suspiciously.

This town is practically depopulated of grown men because so many are on special police duty in the woods.

Many of the new arrivals are from Rice Lake, where Dietz is said to have many influential friends. The invaders are being kept under close surveillance.

A clash of county sentiment today followed the intervention of the state authorities in the Sheriff's plans to capture Dietz.

At least half of the men now employed as sharpshooters declare that in case Dietz escapes conviction, under the plan now made by Attorney-General Gilbert, he will kill at sight any man now in the firing line. These men insist that Dietz will only be good when he is dead and they are anxious to bring matters to an immediate issue.

Another element, including the church people led by Father J. A. Pilon, of St. Joseph's Church, denounces as blood-thirsty this sentiment, and insists on peaceful measures. These people have bombarded Governor Davidson with messages demanding intervention.
