Senor Azacarate Resents Sending of Warships to Lisbon and Dispatch of Troops to Frontier-Spain Anxiously Awaits Results.

MADRID, Oct. 5 .- After a meeting of the Cabinet this aftersion, which was presided over by the King. Premier Canalejas announced that Spain's attitude toward events in Portugal would be the same as that of other powers. Senor Azacarate. First Vice-Presi-dent of the Chamber of Deputies and a Republican dent of the Chamber of Deputies and a Republican, made an impassioned speech in the Chamber, decisring that he assumed that the Spanish govern-ment would observe the strictest neu-trality in the change of administration in Portugal, for Spain more than any other nation, was obliged to remain Sepor Azacarate Protests.

He asked the government to explain unequivocally why troops were sent to the frontier and warships to Lisbon. He vigorously protested, in the name of the Spanish Republicans, that they were not permitted to manifest sympathy towards their Portuguese breth-mine Canaloian declared in reply Premier Canalojas declared in reply to Deputy Azcarate, that the govern-ment did not consider the proclama-tion of a republic as a definite act. He added that there were persistent ru-mors that the fighting had been re-sumed at Lisbon, where the monarchist troops had received reinforcements.

Official News Lacking.

"What is certain," said the Premier, "is 'that the Spanish government has received no news of a change of regime from any person occupying an official position in the provisional government. We can then only capital the events in Purtugal as an insurrectionary ent, the result of which is no movement. As matters stand, it is impossible for us to recognize a pro-visional government, but, if the new regime is definitive and establishes it-acif, we will recognize it."

After further reference to conditions in Portugal the Premier added:
"We have sent two warships to the Tagus to protect, if necessary, Spanish subjects, and to watch events, although subjects, and to watch events, allough our representatives have not yet transmitted to us any official news. We have accumulated troops on the fron tier, but have given instructions to those garrisoned there in case of

After ecciving notification of the establishment of a new government at Lisbon, he British Minister, Sir Francis P. 'Illiers, requested an audience of 'oreign Minister M' hado.

Because his wife rebuked him for carousing, Sam Ketz, a peddler 40 years of age, swallowed an ounce of nitric acid in their apartments, at 325 North Fifth the street, at 3250 o'clock last night. Ketz is now dying at St. Vincent's Hospital. The attending physician expresses little hopes of saving his life.

Last night when the couple were alone in their apartments Mrs. Ketz undertook to uphraid her husband, and is said to have made a reflection on his past the English cruiser Minerya arrived here today to reinforce the cruiser Newcastle, which reached the port while fighting was 'n progress. After receiving notification of the establishment of a new government at Lisbon, the British Min-ter, Sir Francis P. Villiers, requested an audience of Foreign Minister M. hado.

Enthusiasm by People.

OPORTO, Portugal, Oct. 4,-(Via frontier.).-When the news reached here that a revolution had broken out at Lisbon, a vast crowd ran through the streets shouting and cheering. People gathered in front of the build-ing of one Republican newspaper. Patrie, and took part in an enthusiastidemonstration. A large force of po-lice soon was on the scene and at-tempted to disperse the crewd by vio-lent methods, but the officers were received with showers of stones, many of which were thrown from the win-dows of the newspaper office.

The police then charged fiercely, 13-civillans and two pelicomen being se-ricunty wounded. Many arrests were made, but prisoners were released soon. There is great unrest in Oporto.

THOROUGHLY delightful and A THOROUGHLY exquisite blending of metaphysics and sentiment is Augustus J. Thomas' play "The Witching Hour," in which John Mason achieved a personal triumph at the Bungalow Theater last evening. Frankly, this author who has given us such wonderfully human dramas as "Arizona," "Alabama," "In Missouri" and such delightful trifles as "Chimmie Fadden" and "Soldiers of Fortune," has in this instance presented a somewhat weird if not absolutely im possible story. A splendid catering to the belief in hypnotism, telepathy, au-to-suggestion, meamerism, spiritualism and general spookitis with which even the best gray matter is occasionally impregnated. "The Witching Hour" makes a big appeal to devotees of mystic phenomena, especially that form of it which is known as mind reading. The development of such a power by its possessor is turned to excellent accesses to the possessor of the second of count in securing for a youthful vic-tim of hereditary mental process, free-dem from dishonor and death as a murderer. A great community of newsmurderer. A great community of newspaper readers, concentrating their several minds on one single thought, and sending it out to a jury locked in a room, produce by means of telepathy a verdict of acquittal.

The story is a sensational appeal, a problem, if you will, of the ordering and combining of mental forces in order to realize a result that has for its foundation, sentiment.

Mr. Mason as Brookfield, gentleman gambler, mind reader and general adjuster of everything gone wrong, is constantly the bulk of interest and is most of the production, to the delight of his audience. Invariably throughout the play he premotes in a most convincing manner all the psychic current he represents. His Brookfield is a type of galvanic force, a dyname of mentality, and as an actor evinces incomparable gentus and finesse. The supporting cast is entirely adequate. Grace Reals, a former Baker leading woman, is an actores of dramatic purpose. She dispokes gracefully of a trying role that calls for liquid emotional power, and meets the sense of its requirements in a sane and thoroughly artistic manner. Harry Leighton is Mr. Mason as Brookfield, gentleman artistic manner. Harry Leighton is splendidly faithful in his etching of the exquisite poetle temperament and fine fragrance of the role of Justice Prenenth Ward Club Reaffirms Preference for Site.

South Portland residents living on the West Side made it known at an enthusiatic meeting in St. Lawrence Hall last night that their greatest need is a high bridge across the Willamette River at Meade street. It was the main subject of discussion of the South Portland Boosters' Club and about 150 property owners were present to approve the project.

project.

The proposed bridge, if constructed at Meade street on the West Side and Ellaworth street on the East Side, would have a clessrance of more than 140 feet above low water mark. This is considered an important feature in favor of the bridge, as it would not be necessary to operate a draw, thus reducing the cost. It was voted to raise a fund to carry on a spirited campaign for the bridge. Another meeting will be held next Thursday night.

The South Portland Boosters, the Westmoreland Improvement Club, the Sellwood Commercial Club, the Milwaukle Commercial Club and others are expected to participate. Short addresses will be delivered by prominent officials and other citizens. There will be music.

The residents and property owners in BOULEVARD IS PLANNED

The residents and property owners in the Southern portion of the city, both East and West Sides, are interested in the boulevard project. The Olmsted project involves the construction of a boulevard along the West Side which affords a magnificent view of the river and mountains. The plans contemplate the construction of a bridge across the Willamette River between Fulton Park and Sellwood, and a continuation of the boulevard on the East Side to Mount Tabor park. The City Engineer has park. The City Engineer has way plans for the proposed bridge.
