Fandom at Random. DESPITE the victory of the Oaks over the Seals yesterday, the Beavers still lead the procession, according to Judge Graham's figures, but they will have to win today to keep ahead, as the Oaks have practically a cinch in Sacramento.

Portland hooks up with the San Francisco Club today, and Manager McCredie will probably send Eugene Krapp against the Seals in the opener. Krapp has been highly successful against the Seals, and with good support ought to be returned winner this afternoon.

The Philadelphia Athletics put a dent in the prognostications of a lot of wise "dopesters" in the East, for Connie Mack's youngsters sailed into the veteran Cub outfit in great shape. First blood counts a whole lot in the world's series.

Overall, the hero of two world's championships, got his bumps at the hands of the Athletics yesterday and when the announcement came that the mighty Overall had been battered from the box by the Cubs he became sick at heart, for it demonstrated that Connie Mack has a hitting team.

Billy Speas, who is warming the bench at home while the Beavers are fighting it out down south, is going on a hunting trip of two weeks' duration. Billy leaves Saturday and expects to get back in time to play that big exhibition game at the close of the season.

American Congress Protests Against Proposed System of Leasing Coal Land.

CALLBREATH IN SPOKANE

Men Who Honestly Try to Develop Alaska Fields Should Have Patents So West May Not Be Retarded, He Declares.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—An organized fight against the Pinchot policy of leasing coal lands and water power sites is to be made by the American Mining Congress.

States' Rights Menaced. "We believe that the leasing system is an infringement of the states' rights of taxation; that it will entrench monopoly, retard development and establish a new system of industrial relations antagonistic to the one which has brought the Western states to the highest prosperity. We do not believe that the Government should reverse the present policy, which has proved so beneficial.

Honest Men Entitled to Rights. "Men who have honestly undertaken the development of Alaska coal lands, men who have made legal claims are entitled to patents and the Government should not further restrict the development of Western states by restricting the production of the coal.

New Bills Open at the Vaudeville Houses. DESPITE the fact that the big black in the Orpheum billing assigns the place of pre-eminence to Lionel Barrymore and McKee Rankin, actors famous for years, still if an audience may be allowed the privilege of being entertained, all the spoils of war go to the old soldier fiddlers, five of them, who are "bumblers" at unique and original entertainment.

Grand. SONG, dance and nonsense are the features of this week's bill at the Grand. There is not a serious note in it. That ever-popular "grand old minstrel man," Billy Van, no doubt deserves to be termed the head-liner. This comedian doesn't need to say anything to provoke laughter—he just "looks funny."

THE CARL PANTER TRIO, who are already well known in Portland vaudeville, do some of the best equilibrium feats that have ever been accomplished on the vaudeville stage. Those to whom this class of performing has become stale will find something new and interesting in the novelty offered by this trio.

JOHN and BERTHA GLEASON have the dancing art down to a fine point. These artists are well known by theater-goers as being the best dancers on the floor, and they have lost none of their ability. Words of praise can also appropriately be said of their accompanist, Fred Houlihan, who while the dancers made their changes, received much applause for his piano selections.

SOME thrilling feats are performed on a stretched wire, by Celest, the "wire artist" who while the dancers made their changes, received much applause for his piano selections. Harry Bloom, from "songland," wastes his excellent voice on some selections that do not take very well with the audience, although they are in a way entertaining.

LYRIC. OVERSHADOWING "A Summer Blizzard" at the Lyric this week is Miss Marjorie and the Temple City Quartet, of Salt Lake City, introduced as specialties.
