Murderer of William A. Johnson Shows No Feeling as Word Is Given.

SENTENCE COMES TUESDAY

Jury Decides Trunk Tragedy After Five Hours-Special Venire of 35 Impaneled to Begin Kersh Trial on Monday.

VERDICT OF WEBB JURY.

We, the jury, duly impaneled and aworn in the above entitled court and cause, find the defendant, J. P. Webb, guilty of murder in the first degree, as charged in the indict-ment. "A. J. STILES, Foreman."

Guilty as charged," was the verdict of the jury which for two weeks has been trying Jesse P. Webb for the murder of William A. Johnson. The verdict was read by Deputy Circuit Court Clork Buchtel at 2:17 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Webb showed but little feeling, and even exchanged pleasantries with his attorneys after the jury had been discharged. He will be sentenced at 9:20 A. M. Tuesday.

It was 3 P. M. when the jury knocked loudly on the door and announced to the bailiff that they were ready with a verdict. They had then been cut four hours and 4e minutes, a part of which time was taken up with dinner. They retired for deliberation at 10:20.

As Judge Morrow had delivere. his charge to the jury in Department No. 2, at the south end of the Courthouse, the throng of sensation-seekers who have packed the courtroom since the trial began, crowded into the room until there was hardly a passageway. Judge Morrow therefore decided to receive the vertict in Department No. 4, which was not in use. Guilty as charged," was the verdict

Attorneys Present at Verdict.

Attorneys Seneca Fouts and John C. Aftorneys Seneca Fours and John C. McCue did not arrive in the courtroom until 3:15, and until their arrival the judge refused to proceed. The jurors were polled by Clerk Buchtel, each being asked in turn if he was satisfied with the verdict. Mr. Buchtel was then instructed to check up the exhibits, which he did before the jury was discharged.

"I need a bodyguard." said Clerk Buchtel jokingly, as he passed Deputy Sheriff Bulger on his way through the crowd from the courtroom. He had a package of $1808 in greenbacks and a gold watch, exhibits in the case.

"That might not be a joke," replied Bulger, as he accompanied Mr. Buchtel brough the crowd.

through the crowd.

At 2:26 Webb was taken back to jail.

Mrs. Carrie Kersh, jointly indicted with Webb for the trunk murder, will be tried next week. The case will open Monday morning, but the impaneling of the jury will probably occupy the entire day. Presiding Judge Cleland issued as profer vesterilay for a special

An error which might have caused reversal of the case in the Supreme Court very nearly crept in while Judge Morrow was charging the jury yester-day morning. He had given them no instructions whatever on manslaughter and was about to send in only three blank verdicts for first degree murder, second degree murder and acquittal. "We ask your honor to also include the verdict of manslaughter," said At-

"You have asked no instructions on that degree of homicide," said the court, "and under the circumstances I feel justified in refusing to send in the

"I supposed it was the duty of the court to make such instructions," Fouts, "but I make this request only to get an exception into the records."

"You request that the instructions be given at this time?" asked the judge.
"I do, your honor," replied Fouts.
They were accordingly given. The court also instructed the jury that intoxication is not an excuse for crime, but that the brown might consider it in but that the forers might consider it in making up their verdict.

Self-Defense Outlined.

As to self-defense, the judge said: The right to take the life of another in self-defense is founded on necessity, real or apparent, and can be resorted to only when the cfreumstances are to only when the cfroumstances are such as to warrant a reasonable belief in the party assailed that the killing is necessary for the preservation of his life, or to protect him from great bedily harm. By the expression 'great bodily harm' is meant more than a mere injury by the fists, such as is likely to eccur in an ordinary assault and bat-tery. The threatened injury must be one that would maim, would be permaone that would main, would be perma-nent in its character, or involve immi-nent peril to life and limb. A mere assault, not felonious, will not furnish an excuse for the taking of life. An assault by the deceased with his fists alone, if there was an apparent pur-pose and the ability to inflict death or pose and the ability to infirst death or great bodily harm upon the defendant, would be sufficient to justify the kill-ing in self-defense, if Webb believed he was in imminent danger of death or great bodily harm."

The jury which tried the case is as follows: John Vergedan, M. G. Clancy, J. A. Tucker, Louis Larson, George A. Houck, Marion Versteeg, W. F. Ander-son, J. D. Disbrow, A. Schlegel, C. Roy Beckley, A. J. Stiles and M. H. Brown.

Secreted Camp 'Maintained Heights, Then He Vanishes.

Mysterious fittings of a well-dressed stranger who for two weeks maintained a secreted camp on Willamette Heights, caused residents of the district to make a report to Patrolman Crampton Thursday night, and an investigation is being made to determine the man's mission and his present whereabouts. Over a month ago the stranger, who is described by the few who have seen him as a man of about 35 years, above the medium height, made his camp on the medium height, made his camp on the brushy hillside, showing every indication of a desire to hide himself. He had two suit cases and a bundle of blankets, which he hid in the thicket whenever he left the camp. He was observed for about two weeks, living alone, and apparently without cocupation. Then, about three weeks ago, he disappeared, taking with him part of his baggage, but ling with him part of his bargage, but leaving part, together with some tools. Patrolman Crampton found the camp, which had been deserted for a long time. It contained some old clothes with which was an envelope addressed to Charles C. Briggs, at Pittsburg, Pa. Marguerite Marty lived with her parents at Wilhelmina, near McMinnattended the public schools there and qualified as a teacher. There were no openings in the local schools, so she came to Portland and went to work in a restaurant at 386 East Burnside street. Dolly Bockman, who had charge of the waitresses, possessed a flowing black plume, worth $28, and Margue-rite violated the Tenth Commandment by longing for the alluring bit of frippery. Council Asked to Authorize Preparation of Preliminary Estimate of Cost of Ellsworth-Meade Street Structure.

Construction of another bridge over

Willamette River, connecting Mende street on the West Side with the foot of Ellsworth street on the East Side, was approved yesterday by street committee of the Council, which adopted a resolution, asking the Council to authorize the preparation of preliminary estimates for the cost of the new bridge by the City Engineer's office. The committee was induced to take this action yesterday afternoon by a large delegation of citizens from both sides of the river in South Portland. Heading the delegation was Dr. Dav Raffety, who explained that improvement clubs interested in the districts of South Portland on both sides of the river had agreed upon the site for the proposed bridge, and said that it was the plan of the clubs to get tentative estimates of the cost that steps might be taken at an early date to get the project placed on the city ballots next

At the point selected for the site of the proposed bridge it was explained to the committee by Dr. Raffety, the banks of the river make it possible to place the bridge nearly 150 feet above the water, thus making the frequent opening of the draw unnecessary. It was also argued that the place selected was the only one where private rights would not have to be invaded for the necessar approaches, and thus no one could claim injury from that point of City Engineer Morris, who was present at the meeting, assured the com-mittee that he was prepared to take oundings of the river and make an estimate that would come within from 10 to 20 per cent of the final cost of the bridge. For this purpose, he said, it was not necessary to provide any extra funds for his department. Several members of the delegation of citizens made pleas in favor of the proposed bridge, calling attention to its necessities. It was explained that it would unite two important parts of the population of the city and would make is convenient for people in Clackamas County to reach the heart of the city.
