CRY FOR JURORS FAILS TO SATISFY

Judge Morrow Calls for Score More Veniremen in Kersh Case.

OVER 100 NOW SUBPENAED

After Four Days, Consumed in Attempt to Draw Jury to Try Case, Court Is No Nearer End—Few Haven't Formed Opinions.

Although four days have been consumed in the effort to secure a jury in the second trunk murder case the attorneys prosecuting and defending the case were apparently as far from being satisfied with the jury when court adjourned yesterday as they were the day before. Judge Morrow, in whose department the jury is being selected, issued an order yesterday for 30 more veniremen, which makes 120 citizens subpoenaed since the trial of Carrie Kersh began last Monday. These veniremen are in addition to the 120 names drawn, each month for general jury duty in the Circuit Court.

One after another the veniremen who were called into court yesterday fell before the questions of the state and defense. Every one examined had read about the case and almost all of them had formed opinions as to Mrs. Kersh's guilt or innocence. Some were so bold as to say they were of the opinion she is guilty.

E. Turney Is Excused.

Although 11 jurors were in the box when court adjourned Wednesday night, the 11th was no sooner supplied yesterday than Attorney Seneca Fouts and John C. McCue, representing Mrs. Kersh, exercised their prerogative and preemptorily excused one of the others. C. Spamer was excused by the defense, as well as J. O. Gillen and H. P. Nelson. The defense had exercised four peremptory challenges when court adjourned yesterday and the state one. The state excused E. Turney.

Dr. W. A. Wise, dentist and exempt fireman, consented to serve as a juror yesterday, even though the law gives him the right, if he chooses, to avoid duty. He said he read of the tragedy at the time it occurred and has also followed the Webb trial. He said he had not discussed the merits of the case with anyone and that he thought he could give Mrs. Kersh a fair and impartial trial.

Wise's Mind Free, He Says. He said he would be willing to have 12 men try him, were he in her place, if their minds were in the same state as his. If evidence were wholly circumstantial he said he would require that it be strong. He believes, he said, in the same kind of a trial for a woman as for a man. J. C. Werschul was excused by the court because he had an opinion, formed from discussion with others and the reading of newspaper articles. He said if he should sit as a juror and felt that either side was suppressing evidence, he would be obliged to convict the defendant on what he believed to be the case. Jacob Trueb, an ironmolder, was examined and passed, as was George P. Wittmer, of 1025 Hawthorne avenue, a carpenter. He was at one time Marshal at Auburn, Ind. E. J. Alstock and H. T. Vance were also examined and passed for cause.

Arguments Need Not Be Circulated.

Circuit Judge Cleland has decided that it is not necessary for City Auditor Barbur to print and circulate the argument in favor of the proposed amendment to the City Charter, by which payment for water mains will be made from the water fund instead of by property owners. John A. Jeffrey argued for a writ of mandamus, on the ground that the state law requires it, although the city ordinance does not. The writ was denied.

AFFINITY IS ASSAILED

DR. RILEY SCORES INTELLECTUAL "SOUL-MATE" CRAZE.

Minneapolis Minister Says He May Stay Home if Rev. W. A. Wasson Brings Suit Against Him.

"Affinities, Or the Devil's Attack On Family Life," was the theme of Dr. W. B. Riley, of Minneapolis, at the White Temple last night. He preceded his sermon with a "filling" at Rev. W. A. Wasson, now touring the state in the interests of the Greater Oregon Home Rule Association, who has threatened to commence suit against Dr. Riley for criminal libel, because Dr. Riley said he was paid by the Home Interests. "I had expected to quit your city next week," said Dr. Riley, "but if Rector Wasson brings a suit I may stay in this campaign long enough to see Oregon go dry. It would be worth the delay."

Dr. Riley took up quotations from Harold Bolce's recent magazine articles and excoriated such college professors as have been quoted in favor of affinities and the destruction of the marriage relation. He said in part: "This modern and diabolical doctrine makes love a loose fancy. Ferdinand P. Earl is an illustration. He met at sea his intellectual affinity, so he thought. For her he left his wife and a little son and defended his conduct on the ground that he had found his soul-mate. A few months passed and the affinity swatted him on the eye and taught him that he had met his body match as well. This use of the word 'intellectual' is now common and it is a shameful debasement of speech. They should call it 'bodily' instead. Last is not the synonym of love. God is love and to use that good word—the best almost in human speech—so loosely is an insult to Jehovah. 'Affinity'! The very word disregards moral law. I know of a city in Iowa where the big Bohemian population has made the affinity doctrine popular. I also know that the ten commandments of God's word are held up to ridicule by that same carnion word. Homes there have been destroyed again and again. Its young men and women wax worse and worse and churches and schools, the best institutions of civilization, struggle for their very existence. 'God's law is monogamy. God's will is mutual love between one man and one woman. God's will is a home—the miniature of heaven.'

PARKING IS PUZZLE

City Uncertain Whether It or Owners Must Pay Cost.

ASKS ATTORNEY'S OPINION

Waverleigh Heights Boulevard Improvement Bases Worrying Question—Assessment Will Depend on Decision.

Whether parking in the center of a boulevard is a part of the thoroughfare, and as such must be improved at the expense of the property adjoining the street, or is separate city property, for the improvement of which the city at large must pay, is a perplexing problem the City Attorney is trying to solve.

The question arose over the assessment against the city of $2779.37 to pay for fills to be made in the 20-foot parking in the center of Waverleigh Heights Boulevard, between East Twenty-eighth and East Thirty-fourth streets. The city council which put the Waverleigh Heights tract on the market filed a plat with the city, at the same time dedicating the various streets, including the parking in the center of the boulevard, to the city for public use.

When the assessments for the improvement of Waverleigh Boulevard were being made, the assessment clerks were at a loss to know to whom the improvement for the parkings should be charged. In their judgment the parking, being in the center of the street, belongs to the city, and should be paid for separately from the street. In many places the parking, as originally laid out, was simply a hole in the ground, which had to be filled at considerable expense. The assessment of this work to the city did not meet with the approval of the City Council a year ago, and the subject was referred to City Attorney Kavanaugh, who was of the opinion that the city could not be compelled to pay for the improvement. Later the Council again referred the case to Mr. Kavanaugh, requesting him to say whether the City Council could pay the assessments legally. Although he had previously held that the city could not be made to pay for the work, he gave it as his opinion later that the city might settle the bill if the Council desired to pay it. Even after these opinions the Council refused to act, as some of the members insisted that the city could not pay justly for what they deemed to be improvements of parts of the street. The subject has been referred again to the legal department of the city, with the request that City Attorney Grant give an opinion, regardless of the opinion handed down by the former City Attorney. To Deputy City Attorney Latourette has been assigned the task of determining the case. The assessment must remain unpaid until the equity of the case is finally determined.

Clackamas to Hear About Roses. OREGON CITY, Or., Oct. 27.—(Special.)

An open meeting of the Clackamas County Rose Society is to be held Friday afternoon, November 4, at the Commercial Club parlors. The principal address will take on the culture of roses, supplementing his talk with practical demonstrations. Members of the Derthick Club have postponed their meeting scheduled for that date to attend the Rose Society meeting.

LARGE ORDER FOR PIPE ORGAN GIVEN TO KOHLER & CHASE OF PORTLAND, OR.

The following order for an organ for the First Congregational Church, of Vancouver, Washington, has been secured by Mr. Malcolm Heywood, of Kohler & Chase, and will be supplied through our local manager, Mr. W. W. Anderson:

The First Congregational Church, through their organ committee, after careful consideration, have selected the M. P. Moller organ, manufactured by M. P. Moller, of Hagerstown, Maryland.

The organ was secured through Redmond & Raiche, who in turn ordered same from Kohler & Chase, of Portland, Pacific Coast representatives of the M. P. Moller Company.

The organ has been specially designed for the beautiful new church and should prove an admirable addition to this community. The Moller Organ is well known in the East and in every instance has proven an instrument of the very highest possible grade in both material and workmanship. Over 1200 Moller Pipe Organs are in use in the country—59 in Pittsburg, Pa., 58 in New York, 42 in Baltimore, 36 in Philadelphia, 30 in Cincinnati, 18 in Washington, 18 in Hagerstown, Md., all of which have proven entirely satisfactory.

The instrument will be installed in time for Easter, and the congregation is anticipating a musical treat.
