Home Rule Advocates Resent Denunciation Made by Prohibitionists.

ATTACKS ARE BOOMERANG

Leading Business Men Spurred to Take More Active Part in Campaign for Home Rule Bill and Defeat of Oregon Dry Law.

Indignant at the attacks of the Prohibitionism on the Greater Oregon Home Rule Association and particularly on its personnel, business men who belong to personnel, business men who belong to the organization have entered into the fight during the last few days and are taking a part they did not anticipate when they signed the memberahly roll. During the last two weeks the "drys" have concentrated their fire upon the Greater Oregon Home Rule Association and have branded the members as not being "decent" and placed them in the category with divelcepers and baser ele-ments of the city. The charges were ignored until the least few days, when they became so numerous and bitter that the membership's attention was called to the denunciations of the Prohibitionists and it was stirred to activity by a spirit of resentment.

In all parts of the state the Home Rule Association has been branded the "Home Rule Association has been branded the "Home Rule Association as to be taken up the cry and children have taken up the cry and children whose fathers belong to the association have carried it to their dinner table. Children of Prohibitionists have pointed to children of members of the Greater Oregon Home Rule Association with scorn. The latter have heard their fathers called "home wreckers" and have gone home doubting and crying.

Letters Are Insulting.

Almost from the beginning H. C. Mc-Allister, general manager of the associa-tion, has received letters, almost daily, defaming his character and the character defaming his character and the character of the membership. One writer calls the association the "Greater Oregon Home Destroying Association" and declares it was "batched in hell." Another says "every one of those names on your letter-bead are making a profit out of the swill traffic in some form or other" and that so decant, respectable citizen would countenance it for a minute." One writer tells Modilister "you will spend an eternity in hell for such business." Another says he will not "travel with a gang of brewers, bloats and saloonites." Some of the letters could not be printed without getting into trouble with the postal authorities.

in the beginning the members of the Heme Rule Association accepted these aspersions in indifference, thinking they would coase as the campaign advanced. But they increased and in self-defense the members have taken up the fight perremaily.

Following are the expressions of a few of the members of the association:

I. Lang. president Lang & Co.—Prohibition? The worst and most insidious kind of a farce. To burden our statutes with another law which cannot be enforced and never will be, is asking too much. I believe Home Rule comes the nearest to being the solution of the liquor problem.

Prohibition Too Radical.

fra F. Powers. Powers Furniture Company—Prohibition at this time is toe radical a changs. Oregon is just on the eve of a great commercial development and cannot be handicapped by the business upheavals which would necessarily ensue with the passage of a prohibitory law. I believe in the principles of Home Rule and will so vote.

F. A. Spencer, of Allen & Lewis—All forms of business are more or less clearly allied with each other. To an-

To an-nihiliate completely a business and give nething in return for it, as the Prohi-bitionist would do, would certainly re-flect harehly upon other lines of in-dustry. It means a halt in the state's progress. The uselessness of prohibi-tion is apparent to any one traveling tion is apparent to any one traveling in the so-called "dry" districts of the state. Oregon doesn't need and will not stand for any more farces such as it is at present witnessing. Regulation under the proposed Home Rule bill is what's wanted.

The for the cities and towns of Oregon is needed right now. I am heartly in favor of the state adopting it. The proposed Home Rule bill, maintaining as it does both the criminal and local option laws pertaining to both state and city, is a feasible remedy and its adoption will be a step towards the regulation of the liquor traffic. I say this in the interest of temperance.

Wheelwright, president Pa W. D. It breeds hypocricy and makes criminals of men who would otherwise remain honest and law-abilding. I have no hesitancy in say-ing that prohibition would be detri-Oregon's business interests

Edward Ehrman, president Mason, Ehrman Company—I am going to vote for Home Rule because I believe in the absolute control of the liquor traffic. Probletion would work out nothing but injury to business and stuff our courts with hundreds of indictments.

Home Rule Would Regulate.

C. W. Hodson, vice-president F. A. Jacobs Real Estate Company—Oregon does not need prohibition or any other laws that cannot be enforced. It is a notorious fact that prohibition has never been enforced in any state in which it has been written into the which it has been written into the statutes. This state needs the kind of liquor regulation it would get under the provisions of the Home Rule bill. the provisions of the Home Rule bill.

DR. E. N. NORTH INDICTED

Sellwood Dentist Accused of Wrongful Use of Mails.

Dr. E. N. North, a dentist with an office at Thirteenth and Umatilia streets. Sellwood, was arrested yesterday by United States Marshal Colweil at Toledo upon a charge of having mailed obscene letters to the United States Judge of New Mexico. The letters pertained to the arrest and incarceration of Dr. North upon charges of practicing his profession in the territory without a license from the New Mexican board of dental examiners. The communications are said to be of such a nature that they have been withheld from the public records of the case.

Dr. North has been a resident of the Portland district only a few months. He came here from Philomath, from which place the letters were mailed.

While Inspector Clement was looking fou him, Dr. North appeared at the Federal building and solicited the aid of the Inspector to find a dentist's certificate issued to him by the Oregon board, and which appeared to have been lost in the mails. While aiding Dr. North in finding the lost certificate Inspector Chement was enabled to identify the man positively as the one who had been convicted in New Mexico.

MEYER WANTS DRYDOCKS

Secretary Says, However, There Are Too Many Navy-Yards.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Back from an inspection tour that extended over 10.633 miles, Secretary of the Navy Meyer reached Washington today. He conferred with President Taft and departed in the afternoon for Massachusetts, where he will vote Tuesday. Meantime he announced that there were too many Navy-Yards on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts and that he expected to make some changes in the work of the Mare Islant Navy-Yard. Mr. Moyer favors having officially Farmers Plant to Water Arid Tracts Along Touchet River.

WALLA WALLA, Wash, Nov. 6.—
(Special.)—Fifty farmers and capitalists of this section plan to bring water from the Touchet River to water the lower Eureka Flat country and to make what is now a waste of sand and sagebrush into a country that will yield alfalfa and fruit. The cost of the scheme, which will irrigate 20,000 acres, will be about $100,000.

At a meeting of 18 of the leading farmers of the flat country yesterday at Siater, the matter was put into definite shape and stock for a corporation will be subscribed at once. The water will be taken from the river either at Prescott, with a 20-mile ditch,

The Health Board points out that many states of the Union have passed laws prohibiting the use of drinking cups for the general public on account of dangers of spreading contagious diseases. SHEEP RAISE POINT

Question of Landing Ship-Born Animals to Be Decided.

OFFICIALS ARE PUZZLED

Pets of Crew of Steamer Aztec Ma Be Barred From American Soil, Though Born on United States Vessel in Open Sea.

Whether two sheep, which were born on an American vessel, and thus under an American flag, are American products and thus entitled to be landed in this country, though their dam was from a foreign port, is the puzzling question Cuatom-House officials in San Francisco will be asked to solve when the steamer Astec, which sails from here today, arrives there.

According to law, a vessel cannot land domestic animals on American soil which have been bought by the ship's steward for food in a foreign port. To be landed, they must appear on the manifest of the vessel as freight.

When the Axtec was on her last trip from San Francisco to New York, she put into Montevideo, Uruguay, where such a pet that she was not killed, and it was desired to land her in New York, but the law prevented this.

From New York the vessel went to Philadeiphia to complete her cargo for Portiand. It was two days after leaving Philadeiphia that the pet sheep, which had become known among the crew as "Billy," gave birth to twins, one of which was black and the other white. That was a little more than two months ago, and long before the vessel arrived here it was found necessary to kill the mother sheep, in order to keep the limited amount of food for her twins. Billy was killed and cooked, but no one ate of the meat, as the animal had become so endeared to the members of the crew that for sentimental reasons they would not eat her. It was necessary then to throw the meat overboard.

The black and white lambs, who have seen only the deck of the Aztec during their two months' existence, have taken the place of their mother in the affections of the ship's crew, and although the lambs will soon be old enough to be used for food, it is felt that the crew would refuse to cat them.

At San Francisco, the home port of the Aztec, it is desired by the crew that the lambs be left, where they will be made pets and be properly cared for. Inasmuch, however, as the sheep were taken aboard at an American port, it is uncertain if the Custom-House officials will permit them to be landed.

The Aztec should have sailed yesterday morning for San Francisco, but day morning for San Francisco, but owing to a delay in discharging her cargo she will not get away until afternoon. Many of the crew have their homes in San Francisco, and much disappointment was felt because she was delayed in sailing.

of public opinion against the saloon business than all the efforts of the various temperance organizations put together. Such call would be considtogether. Such call would be considered an act of sacrilege so outrageous as to disgust every man with the least speck of decency in his makeup. Surely a business that cannot be prayed for ought to die, and die it will at the hands of the voters of Oregon on the 8th day of November. Such is our confidence in the virtue and intelligence of the voters of this state, that we do not believe anything but the most outrageous frauds can prevent such results. So much for the Greater Oregon Home Rule Association.
