But Demand for Turkeys Will Be Large.

PRICE QUESTION UNCERTAIN

Dealers Expect Jobbing Quotation to Be About the Same as Last Year's-Firm Feeling in Local produce dealers, as usual at this one of year, are at son as to the probable Thanksgiving turkey supply. There is no question as to the demand.

The impression prevails on the street that the available supply will be somewhat larger than last years. This is based on the or than last years. This is based on the harcable weather conditions that prevalled throughout the Summer, and the fact that the turker growing industry has been stimulated by the high prices of the last few years. On the other hand, the cutting up of the Cakland territory into small farms since last Summer may reduce the supply from that famous section. Shippers at all points, however, seem averse about advising the dealers as to same tountities that will the desirer as to exact quantities that will be shipped. It is said that the bulk of the supply offered to date has been bought up by a few of the larger dealers. The demand locally is certain to be greater than ever before, on account of the principal factor in forcing prices up at the spening of the season, and the short supply left for local consumption caused values to be maintained up to the end.

he maintained up to the end.

If any Eastern turkeys are headed this way, the fact has not yet been made public. It is not easy to get turkeys in the East of sufficient size early coough to ship them this distance. The earliest stock comes from Texas, and Texas turkeys do not meet with much favor in the Northwest. It is probable that jobbling prices will be about the same as last Thanksgiving. Front-street dealers look for a 15c or 26c market.

WHEAT IS FIRM BUT QUIET.

Neither Buyers Nor Sellers Disposed to Get Together.

The wheat market shows quite a firm tens, but not much business. The improvement has caused the farmers to hold back and at the same time the dealers are not yet so confident of the permanence of the improvement as to get into it very deeply. The prices quoted yesterday showed no ma-terial change. Weekly foreign wheat shipments, as reported by the Merchants' Exchange, were:

Pinancial Conditions Not Clearly Defined.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say: In its hearing upon the future buying power of the country, the most important development of the week is the official confirmation of the harvesting of the biggest corn crop on record, considerably over 3,000,000 bushels. The Government report of cotton ginned is also helpful, indicating a crop in excess of last year.

The business outlook, however, is doubtful and under conservative control, with the volume of transactions considerably below full capacity. The financial situation continues to maintain an ascendancy over the commercial, and while there is no substantial recossion of the more hopeful sentiment recording established, financial conditions are not clearly defined.

The passing of the Congressional and State elections removes one important uncertainty, but enough time has elapsed in which to form a complete judgment as to the ultimate effect upon trade interests. Physical conditions which make for continued National prosperity are not nearly all that could be desired. What is holding back the full measure of business activity and profit that is desired are perplexitles of man's own making, which spring out of the conflicting interests of competing classes.

The dry goods market is in a waiting condition with the bulk of transactions for immediate requirements. Increasing consumption of copper is one of the hopeful features of the situation and the greater magnitude of export trade is another.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—The Commercial Bulletin will say of the wool market tomorrow:
The elections on Tuesday have everywhere had a sobering effect on the market, and it is said that unless the goods market shows improvement, the manufacturers will begin to buy wool very conservatively and only for indicated requirements for an indefinite period. The prospect of agitation for an other revision of schedule "K" undoubtedly makes for caution on the part of manufacturers, but dealers are unchanged in their opinions on the value of desirable staple wools.
