M USICAL comedies and extravaand gone in the past ten years; some with plots, some without, many nice with plots, some without, many files ones, others not even near-nice; some brimful of music, others with not a claim to tunefulness, a few of them written for the chorus girls, and a great many more serving as pegs on which to hang the few picked voices of the principals—but it has remained for our old friend. "The Prince of Pilsen," at the Heilig last evening, to show us what a musical play really show us what a musical play really is, and what actual joy and interest is yet to be found in this delightful

Truth to tell, this brightest and best work of Gustav Luders and Frank Pixley seems to have set a mark in Pixley seems to have set a mark in this special field of performance that will tax the ability of other authors and composers to reach. For certainly the music and the wit of "The Prince of Pilsen" are as glowing, as delightful as of old, and to the one who has heard some of the "others," this one appeals most forcefully.

Of course, the moving spirit and pivotal character is Hans Wagner, the Cincinnatt brewer, who is mistaken for the Prince of Pilsen, and in the role Jess Dandy was easily the star last evening. His very personality exudes humor. His inimitable accent, cherubic countenance, waddle and infectious Thrifty Norwegian Sends Abroad for Babes to Come to Portland. Trouble at Ellis Island.

His two small children detained by the mmigration authorities in New York beause they have no visible means of support, Nels Torp, a Norwegian who has lived in Portland but a short time, is almost heartbroken over the fear that he will be separated from them. Yesterday he called at the Great Northern ticket office and asked Henry Dickson, the agent, to assist him in hav-ing the little ones released. He endea-vored to demonstrate that he is competent to care for the children and if telegraphic communication between Port-land and New York can accomplish any-

Torp has been working steadily since coming to the city and displayed suffi-cient money to indicate that he is thrifty and economical. He says that if necessary he will go to New York to claim his children, but hopes that he can have them released without that diffi-

One child is a boy, aged 11. The other is a girl, of 9 years. They left their home in Norway with no older traveling companion, but with instructions to come to Portland. They were given sufficient money to pay the incidental expenses of their journey, all their transportation to their journey, all their transportation to this city being provided. But at New York the immigration inspectors would not let them pass. The rules provide that all persons admitted from foreign ports must prove either that they are able to provide their own livelihood or that someone is willing to do this for them. Balfour Pits Rosebery Plan Against Demand for Abolition of Veto.

SITUATION IS LESS ACUTE

Liberals in Conciliatory Mood and Willing to Give Lords More Time. "American Dollars" Will Be Tory Campaign Slogan.

LONDON, Nov. 17 .- Arthur J. Balfour's peech at Nottingham today made it plainly evident that the Unionist party is firmly committed to Lord Rosebery's scheme for reform of the House of Lords and that otherwise the Unionist platform stands the same as at the last general election in all its planks. The speaker referred only incidentally to the home-rule question, but indicated sufficiently that he was in as complete opposition to it as ever.

Thus the Unionist election pellor in the main will be to pit reform of the House of Lords against the Liberals' deman on of the veto power of the Lords Adopt Rosebery Plan.

The Rosebery plan, based on the Earl's resolution offered last March, was moved today in the House of Lords, sitting as a committee of the whole. The resolutions were adopted without division. They were:

First—That the House of Lords shall consist of Lords of Parliament; (a) chosen by the whole body of hereditary peers from among themselves, and by nomination by the crown; (b) those sitting by virtue of their offices and qualifications held by them, and (c) those chosen from outside.
Second—That the term of tenure of Second-That the term of tenure all Lords in Parliament shall be the same, except in the case of those sitting ex-officio, who would sit only as long as they hold office by reason of which they sit.

Speaking in support of his resolutions, Lord Rosebery said he believed that on these principles it would be possible to reform the upper chamber to a large extent, solve a great problem and maintain the ancient constitution of the country without the constitution of the constitu vulsions incident to a reform by general elections.

H. S. ALLEN PASSES AWAY

EX-PORTLAND SCHOOL CLERK DIES AT LA GRANDE.

After 20 Vears' Service for Public. Aged Portland Man Goes to Ranch, Where Death Comes.

After residing on the Pacific Coast for 62 years, being one of the survivors of the California rush of '45, and serving 20 years as clerk of school district No. 1, which includes Portland H. S. Allen died on his ranch three miles east of La Grande yesterday at 5 o'clock, having reached the age of 81 years. His long service as school clerk made his face familiar to nearly every prominent citizen who has been connected with public affairs during the period of his residence in Portland.

A year before stepping out of his office his wife died and he feit the blow keenly.

Mr. Allen was born in Ohlo and when 19 years of age made his way to California by way of Panama, being attracted by the stories of gold being found. When the Civil War broke out he served five years in the Union Army and when he was discharged he made his way to Oregon, locating in Portland in 1885, and from that day considered this city as his

After five years in the lumber business on the Lower Columbia Mr. Allen became a member of the police force of the city, serving as a captain. He acted in this capacity for one year, when he became school clerk. He continued in this work year after year until he had 20 years to his credit and March 8, 1909, retired, being succeeded by R. H. Thomas. He removed to his ranch to be near his brothers, G. W., and O. S. Allen, both of whom reside

Klaw Expresses Amusement at Heilig's Statement About Stars.

SAYS HEILIG IS WORRIED

Each Party to New Agreement Gives Different Version-Cort Faction Intimates Klaw Is Bluffing to Cover His. Retreat.

"Just saw The Oregonian of November 12. Hellig is a brave fighter at long range," wired Marc Klaw, of Klaw & Erlanger, to The Oregonian from New York yesterday. "He waited till I got 3900 miles away before he opened his mouth. When our theater opens in Portland, the public will have an opportunity of judging whother he has six stars to our one, and as to the merit of the respective attractions playing the two houses.

"Heilig's assumed indifference is funny, considering that he nearly swallowed a toothpick the night that I told him we had signed the lease for a Portland theater, and he walked me around in the rain telling me how dissatisfied he was with the present status of affairs and saying that he would come East and ask a few questions of John Cort just as soon as his theater was opened. Evidently the hope of getting some of our attractions this Winter kept him from making the trip East."

Statements Do Not Agree.

There is a decided conflict between the statements of the parties to this theatrical row between Klaw & Erlanger and the Theatrical Owners' Asso ciation, headed by John Cort, of Se-attle. From Cort headquarters has attle. come the statement that Klaw & Erlanger have decided to abandon their plans for building houses in Portland. Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma and Vancouver, B. C., and have entered into a 10-year agreement to play their attractions in the Tacaters of the Independ tions in the theaters of the independ-ents. Klaw & Erlanger admit that their attractions will be seen in the houses dominated by the Cort faction, but say it will be for this season only. They say that all their houses will be built in the cities named within the coming year. In Cort circles it is intimated that law & Erlanger are merely putting p a "bluff" to cloud over the fact that they were forced into line by the independents and that they really have no intention of going ahead with the building of their own theaters. Even if they do, Calvin Hellig says, the independents will be ahead financially and in the estimation of the public by reason of having opened their houses to the Klaw & Erlanger productions, many of which, he admits, are en-titled to A No. 1 rating.

Open Door Welcome to K. & E. Klaw & Erlanger intimate that they can see no reason why they should not book their attractions in the open door houses of the Northwest for this door houses of the Northwest for this season when given an opportunity to do so. They point to the fact that it they are given entry to Spokane, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Vancouver.

They now have no houses of their own
