Journalism Good Profession to Come From, Says Lecturer.

High School last night heard Paul Cham-berlin, of the Evening Telegram, speak on "Journalism." The lecture was part of the Board of Education's Tuesday night talks on "Careers for Men." Mr. Chamberlin spoke of the trials and tribulations of the newspaper man. He believed that journalism was a good profession to come from with a strong accent on the last word. He pointed out that the newspaper man was a wage earner at best, and that although he started at a somewhat higher salary than did beginners in other professions, he could do much better by going out into business for himself.

Six million Christmas seals have been disposed of to dealers, the proceeds to go to the fight against tuberculosis. In his address, President Taft said, in part:

"The contribution secured now of $500,000 from New York City is an earnest that we shall raise the whole $2,000,000—I say we shall raise it—I mean that Miss Mabel Boardman will raise it.

"The resources that will be added to this association by having a fund of $2,000,000 well invested, from which we can count on receiving at least $80,000 a year, everyone who has had anything to do with the organization of this as-sociation can understand.

"The opportunity to give quickly and to be first on the ground is what makes this association more useful than an-other not only in the United States, but everywhere on this globe."
