CAR DEALS DEATH

C. C. Devroe Instantly Killed Under Wheels of Trolley.

WIFE GROWS HYSTERICAL

City Hall Janitor Falls Between Cars on St. Johns Line and Many See His Life Crushed Out. Coroner to Investigate.

While attempting to board a moving St. Johns car at Union avenue and Falling street, at 9 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Clement C. Devroe, a janitor at the City Hall, fell between the car and its trailer and was ground to instantaneous death under the wheels of the second car, which passed entirely over his body. He was dragged about 20 feet before the car was brought to a stop.

The accident occurred so quickly that few noticed it. Devroe is said to have alighted from an Alberta car, which had switched back to allow an inbound St. Johns car to pass it. He ran across the track and attempted to board the car as it passed him. He evidently missed his footing and swung in between the cars.

The body was badly mangled. Death was instantaneous. A large crowd gathered, and was controlled with difficulty by Police Sergeant Patton and Patrolmen Adams and Crawford. Devroe's wife heard of the accident and rushed to the scene. She became hysterical. Friends took her to her home.

The car was in charge of Motorman George Dodge and Conductor C. A. Letellier. Dodge is held not accountable, as the length of his car had passed when Devroe was caught.

Deputy Coroner Dane was on a car immediately behind the one that caused the accident and took charge of the case. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of Dunning & McKenzie, where an inquest will be held.

It is said that the practice of boarding "no stop" cars on the St. Johns and Vancouver lines is general. Within a few minutes after the killing of Devroe two passengers caught a rapidly moving car near the scene of the death. Devroe was about 45 years old and leaves a wife and one son, 11 years old. He had been janitor at the City Hall for about six years. His home was at 511 East Fourteenth street North.

SEWER IS WRONGLY LAID
Street May Be Relocated to Correct Error of Engineer.

Error made by the City Engineer's department in laying a sewer 19 feet from the line for which a permit had been obtained, caused the sewer committee of the Council yesterday to recommend that the proposed new street, which might be called a continuation of East Mill street, be changed to 59 feet south of the line originally agreed upon, that the city might not be compelled to pay for damages resulting from the error.

A. M. Forest, owner of lot 14, block 2, Gramere Addition, brought to light the error in the location of the sewer when he filed an application with the city for $450 for the damage done his lot as a result of the mistake. He explained to the committee at its meeting yesterday morning that he had given written consent to the city to use five feet along the north side of his lot for the north branch of the Brooklyn sewer. The sewer, however, was laid 15 feet within the line of his lot, preventing excavations for a basement for a house. Soon after this error had been made, he said, the proposed street was laid out on the south side of his lot. If the street is relocated to conform to the sewer, Forest's lot will be in the rear street and will receive pay for it for that purpose.

POLYGLOT OUT OF WORK

JEAN SCHIFFER, MASTER OF 12 TONGUES, WANTS JOB.

Has Done Business in Marts of All World and Farmed Near Madras, but Now Walks Streets in Vain.

Although able to speak, read and write the English, Italian, French, German, Spanish, Arabian, Hungarian, Portuguese, Hebrew, Egyptian, Zulu and Roumanian languages and yet seeking employment, finds himself, Mr. Schiffer, in addition to his lingual accomplishments, is an expert woodcarver and designer. The school education he had was a grammar he says he learned his 11 languages by traveling from one country to another.

Before coming to Portland Mr. Schiffer owned a farm consisting of 160 acres at Madras, Or., but owing to his wife's preference for city life, he moved to Portland. He has been here nearly a month and has been unable to get work, he says.

Mr. Schiffer has visited all the principal cities of Europe, England, Africa, Australia, Italy, India and Roumania. From all appearance he seemed to have a roaming disposition for he had some of the largest furniture establishments in South Africa that brought him a large income, but his desire to travel caused him to sell his places of business and visit some other place of interest. He kept this up and now he holds a record of having traveled all over the world.

Mr. Schiffer seems to have lost his desire to roam since he came to this city. Despite the fact that he has been looking for work during the last month with no success, he says that this is the best city he has ever visited and he hopes to make this his permanent home. Mr. Schiffer is a native of Roumania and is 37 years old.

WOMAN IN WRONG COURT

MISTAKE DISCOVERED AFTER IMPATIENT VIGIL.

Baleful Light Gleams as Long List of Police Cases Is Gone Over and She Is Not Called.

An elderly, portly woman appeared in the Municipal Courtroom at 9 o'clock sharp yesterday morning and sat patiently through the long hours while the day's list of drunks, vagrants, neighborhood feudists and petty thieves was gone over. A baleful light gleamed in her eye as time sped and she was not called up. The fire went down and, because Deputy City Attorney Sullivan is in mortal fear of disease germs, the windows were opened to the foggy breeze.

Literally frozen out, she retired to the clerk's office, where sat Deputy District Attorney Hennessy, sound asleep and with open mouth, waiting for the call for "the State of Oregon." Upon him pounced the irate litigant, with wrath in her eye and burning words upon her tongue.

"There he sits asleep," she said, "and me waiting here for hours for him to try my case."

"Mr. Hennessy works on the night shift," explained a bystander.

"And so do I, and on the day shift, too, and I'm the bell-boy and the chambermaid besides, and here these people are suing me for a bill and I have to wait around while that big fellow sleeps."

"For a bill?" was asked. The woman repeated her statement and it developed that she had wandered into the wrong court, while her opponent was waiting hearing in the Justice Court, on the other side of the block. Thither she repaired, muttering complaints as she slammed the door behind her.

FOULKES' TALK THRILLS

Impressive Story of Oberammergau Given at Woman's Club.

Perhaps the most impressive and moving lecture ever delivered before the Portland Woman's Club was the account of "Oberammergau in 1910," given yesterday, for the first time in this city, by Dr. William Hiram Foulkes. Dr. Foulkes was present at the Passion Play June 28. He gave a vivid account of the wonderful drama and its peasant actors, illustrated by colored stereopticon pictures of remarkable beauty and artistic merit. The lecture is to be repeated at the First Presbyterian Church next Tuesday. The large and appreciative audience also enjoyed the aria from "Le Prophete," sung by Miss Brown, who possesses a contralto voice of much beauty and sweetness, and one of Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsodies," played by Professor Good-nough.
