FIVE STATES TO REPORT

Washington Is Expected to Show Increase of 100 Per Cent and All Others Score Gains, Territories Also Grow.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.-Total population of United States, exclusive of approximately 91,549,500. Totals for these states were announced today: .

Wyoming, 145,965, an increase of $3,434 since 1900.

Alaska, 64,356, an increase of 764. Hawaii, 191,308, an increase of 37,908. The states so far given have an aggregate population of $5,352,725. This an increase of 26.4 per cent over the aggregate population contained by the no states in 1900.

The five states not reported had an aggregate population of 5,139,326 in aggregate population of 5,132,736 in 1998. If they maintain the growth of other states their aggregate will be brought up to 6,186,774, giving a grand total in the United States of 91,542,502. Even if there should be no gain at all the total would be 98,502,061. LEGAL POINT PUT TO TEST

McKenzie Says Government Is Only Trying to Get Decision.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—That the only legal point involved in his case is the right of an Alaska coal land claimant to agree to soil and of any citizen to agree to buy such claim prior to or under the provisions of the Alaska coal land act of 1908, is contended in a statement issued today by Donald A. McKenzie, who was arrested last night on a requisition from Spokane, Wash., and released under $25,000 bonds.

McKenzie was indicted by the Federal grand jury of Spokane with four others, on the charge of conspiring to procure title fraudulently to 3000 acres of Alaska coal land in the Katalla district. The Government contends there was violation of the sections of the act of 1908, prohibiting agreement to buy or sell coal land prior to the completion of entry.

an event of the not far distant future. Protracted ill health may be given as the primary cause when the announcement is made, but there are other causes leading up to what will be generally regarded in Japan as an unfortunate necessity.

Of late it has been a somewhat open screet that differences of opinion exist between Mayquis Katsura and his Minister of Foreign Affairs. The new tariff law enacted this year goes into effect next July, and the negotiations for conventions form the groundwork for these difficulties. Perhaps the effect of the statutory tariff upon foreign relations was not given sufficient consideration, but at any rate Japan's ally, Great Britain, has been giving much trouble to the Foreign Office.

Ambassador Kato in London has not been in full sympathy with his Government, or rather had advocated more liberal dealings with Great Britain as an ally. The result is that there will be changes in the statutory tariff or conventional tariffs must be made alongside of the statute.

Count Komura's friends assert that he was misled into making certain statements which he is now eager to retract, or would be obliged to if he were a party to the changes now contemplated; consequently the resignation.

now outstanding.
Secretary MacVeagh advanced the idea that if the new 3 per cent bonds were made nonavailable for bank circulation it would prevent a curtail-ment of the demand which exists for the 2 per cents. An lasue of bonds without circulation privilege, it is pointed out, would be in the nature of an experiment.

If bonds were issued not available for bank circulation further legislation would be required. This would be true likewise should it be decided that the interest must be at least 31-4 per cent to assure a market for them.

It will be pressed upon Congress that a preliminary issue without circulation privileges will have the effect of letting the bonds find their own level.
