Editor of Los Angeles Times Discusses Explosion in His Plant.

President of National Manufacturers' Association Says Opposition to Unions Is Not Purpose of Organization.

General Harrison Gray Otis, editor of the Los Angeles Times, and John Kirby, Jr., president of the National Manufac-turers' Association, will be the principal speakers at a banquet to be given pal speakers at a hanquet to be given by the Employers' Association at the Commercial Club tonight. From Portland they will go to Seattle to speak at a similar banquet December 14.

General Otis arrived on the Shasta Limited resterday afternoon, and is being entertained at the Arlington Club. The cause the Loo Angules Times esponses is the favorite topic of the military editor. His conversation tells the story of years of study of industrial questions and he has a distinctive and forcible way of expressing his point of view.

"Lawiess Unions" Opposed.

"Lawless Unions" Opposed.

"I am opposed to lawless labor unions," that is all, said General Otts, "We are simply fighting against the unions controlling our business. There can be no compromise; employers must control their own affairs, say how their business shall be conducted and retain the right to employ whom they please regardless of whether or not those whom they choose to supply belong to a union. We must have industrial freedom if our fustitutions survive, if we have industrial and commercial progress."

Speaking of the destruction of the Los Angeles Times plant, General Otis said:

I have never said the building was "I have never said the building was blown up as a result of a plot of any union. The deed was probably the outgrowth of a plot of an inner circle of the unions in the belief that organized labor throughout the country would approve of it and applicated. An investigating committee appointed by an adverse administration found that a high explosive had been placed at such a position as to wreck the building.

Gas Theory Ridiculous.

alley where the explosion occurred, and it ignited, throwing showers of fire in all directions."

With a big smile General Otis told of the growth of Los Angeles. He said the climate and soil were the primary factors in building up the Southern California metropolis, but added to these is the advantageous geographical location, the pleturesque region that surrounds it, the rare fruit that grows in abundance, the sanegastion of San Pedro, which makes Los Angeles an ocean port, and advertise and advertises. Angeles an ocean port, and advertising.

"We have had unusually intelligent publicity, and have in response brought to Los Angeles unusually intelligent people, energetic and ambitious. A great measure of success is directly the result of our advertising."

General Oils painted a glowing picture of the future of Los Angeles. He told of the greath by decades since 1850, when the population was 11,200.

then the population was 11,300.

Water Question Settled. We have petried the water question, we have welled the water question, said the general, "and will soon be having Orange River water, bringing it a distance of 220 miles. The system will cost 225,000,000, and the bonds have already been voted. Aside from this we have voted $2,500,000 in bonds for good

Mr. Kirby, accompanied by J. Phillip Bird, criteral manager of the National Manufacturers. Association, arrived in Porthago Esturday right. Mesars Kirby and Bird are on the programme for addresses at the Otis banquet.

The public, Mr. Kirby said, "has an erronsons view of the objects of our association. We are not engaged in fighting labor unions. In fact, we are not opposed to them if they are conducted upon certain well-defined principles. The labor question is simply incident to the workings of the association.

"Primarily we are engaged in the developing of commerce and trade. We desire to increase our trade, not only on this continent but abroad. For that reason we have a translation department and a collection department. We publish two magazines, and have views on the tariff question—very live ones, we are also interested in the development of the merchant marine and all other things which tend to increase trade. things which tend to increase

I mention these things to show that the action of the association is along natural lines, and we have no special suisaton, other than this, to maintain. masteral lines, and we have no special mission, other than this, to maintain.

At the same time, as a matter of principle, we stand for the open shop.

"I know nothing of the proposed strike of the engineers, and I am not familiar with their complaints. As an association, we do not come in contact with them for the simple reason that they are in no wise connected with manufacturing. Their relations are with railway management, and am sure they are a very conservative and able bedy of men.

"As to the general conditions of the country, so far as labor is concerned.

R. E. Hughson, principal of Portamouth school, also spake.

Miss Dimick said in substance:

"Home is the place where the child should receive its moral training. The child has a right to the personal care of the father and mother, a right which can never be relinquished in favor of another without loss to the child. The work of moral training

Court.

The mother who professes to love the child so much that she will not punish it is a curse to the child. Not severify, but eurety of punishment is what the young child needs.

The home is more important than the school. The training of the heart is more important than the training of the body or of the intellect. There is no advancement anywhere except by discovery of and obedience to moral law.

"The difficulty newadays is that the year children begin to earn wages, that year they begin to assert their independence. Parents ought to try to keep their children in school an extra year or two. If possible. The most dangerous transition period of youth is that which carries him from the training of the home and school out into the world to assert his independence."

the upper banks of the destival promilitare. It is the intention of the festival promoters to hold this cance carnival on some balmy evening during the Spring be provided on a cleared space at the point of an island on the upper stream, where light refreshments and music from string instruments would be dispensed for the benefit of the fitting boating parties.

In case the cance festival plan materializes, it is probable that it will be

Mr. West, he says, may leave his wife and daughter, Helen, in California and hurry back to Oregon sooner than he expected, as his daughter's health is Kay announced this afternoon

Mr. Kay announced this alternoon the apointment of his chief Deputy to succeed W. T. Perkins, and this will be Judge Thomas F. Ryan, of Oregon City. Mr. Ryan was a candidate before the primaries for the nomination as State The inference would naturally be,

"The interence would naturally be," says Mr. Kay, "that a deal had been framed up. In way of explanation, I will give a little political history. When I finally decided to amounce my candidacy, Judge Ryan and I held a conference and decided that we would probably both be defeated by the assembly candidate if we both remained in the race. So we drew lots to see who would run, and I happened to be the lucky one. Clackamss County gave me the largest majority of any county in the state, and Judge Ryan worked fallihfully there for my election. His apointment, however, was a surprise to him when I notified him of it.

Matters of Policy Discussed.

"Several matters of policy were talked over in San Francisco by myself and Mr. West and myself and Governor Benson. One of these, which will very probably be adopted, is a plan to hire probably be adopted, is a plan to hire an architect to devote his time to state business. The board has heretofore been in the habit of paying 5 per cent for its architectural work. Inasmuch as there will probably be many hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of new buildings to be erected during the coming administration, including the Eastern Oregon branch assium, it can readily be seen that a salaried architect would result in a saving to the state of at least two-thirds on architects' bills."

Mr. Kay also said that the Bowerman Mr. Kay also said that the Bowerman plan outlined by the Republican candi-didate for Governor during the cam-paign is being given serious considera-tion by members of the board. This plan is for the purchase of state sup-plies all under one bid, instead of di-viding up the bids smoot the differenpiles all under one bid, instead of di-viding up the bids among the different institutions. Under the present system the asylum, which purchases by far the greatest amount of supplies, will secure its purchases at a much lower price its purchases at a much lower piece than the smaller institutions. By using a single bid for all of the institutions Mr. Kay believes that a great saving may be made. He says the other members of the board are favorable to this lature

Politics Will Not Figure.

"I think I can safely say," declared "I think I can safely say," declared Mr. Kay, in discussing appointments, "that there will be none made by the heard as a matter of political preferment. I am satisfied new, also, that the board has no changes in view, so far as the heads of state institutions are concerned. Mr. West and I taiked on questions of policy, as did Mr. Benson and myself, but we soon discovered that we were of the same mind on the matter of these appointments, that none of us had reached a decision and that none of us desire to take any steps until we us had reached a decision and that none of us desire to take any steps until we have had an opportunity of investigating the character of the work now being done at the institutions. As far as Mr. West's personal appointments as Governor are concerned, I have nothing to say, although he may have reached a decision on some of them."

Celerity Necessary, if Money Goes Into 1911 Budget.

DUPLICATE IS PROPOSED

Two Now in Use Insufficient to Do the Work, if Present Plans for Thirty-Foot Channel to Sea Materialize During 1911.

Plans for the construction of a new dredge are being informally outlined by members of the Port of Portland. The dredge is proposed to meet the demand for the increase in the depth of the river channel to thirty feet.

Tentatively plans outlined are for a dredge which will be almost an exact duplicate of the Columbia, now in use. There are two reasons for duplication of the Columbia: First, that the Columbia is a success in every way; second, that it is easier to duplicate and keep on hand extras for two dredges exactly allie.

Definite action toward construction will not be taken until C. F. Swigert, president of the Port, returns from the East, after the holidays.

Although the dredge will not be officially authorized until Mr. Swigert returns, it will be necessary for the other members to agree to authorize it, otherwise they cannot get the necessary money for its construction included in the budget of ISH.

Freparation of the estimate for next year's expenses is progressing and final

Preparation of the estimate for next year's expenses is progressing and final announcement of the total amount of the Port's levy will be made in about a week. If the proposed new dredge is to cost the same as was expended for the Co-lumbia, the Port will have to provide for about $120,000 additional money in the tax levy.

At present the Port of Portland owns two dredges, the Columbia and the Portland. These two will not be enough to do all the work required by the Port if the plans for making the channel to the sen thirty feet materialize. It is believed that in less than a year the money necessary for the deepening of the channel will be provided, a large part of it being contributed by the Government. All dredging done by the Port of Portland is with the sanction of the Government, and the proposed increase in the depth of the channel will be in accordance with plans which the Government officials may accept.

If work is started on the new dredge early in 1911, it is believed that the vessel will not be completed much in advance of the time its services will be needed for the big job of lowering the bottom of the channel all the way to the ocean.

Will Not Injure Patronage. Captain Macgenn of the steamer Break-water said yesterday, after he brought his vessel into port from Coos Bay, that the steamer Alliance, recently put on the run between this city and Coos Bay by the North Pacific Steamship Company, would not interfere with the Break-water's patronage. The Breakwater's patronage. The Breakwater's patronage. The Breakwater will make almost two trips to every one made by the Alliance, as the latter must

His reasons for believing in the failure of the Alliance to interfere with his vessel's patronnge were not explained by Captain Macgenn, but he made the declaration in positive terms.

The Alliance is now on her second trip to Eureka, and it will soon be determined how much she will pick up in the way of freight and passengers at Coos Bay.

What will be the final disposal of the steamer Eureka, which has been ited up since the Alliance took the Eureka run, is not announced. It is believed, however, by those who are in a position to know, that the Eureka will be operated on some run in and out of this port as soon as the increased traffic of Spring begins.
