

HORNET OUT FOR MYSTERIOUS TRIP

Clearing as Merchant Vessel Former Gunboat Off Today on 30-Day Voyage.

CAPTAIN'S MOVE OBSCURE

Master of Ship, Long in Employ of Estrada Government in Nicaragua, Believed to Be Off on Filibustering Expedition.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 19.—The former United States gunboat Hornet, reported to have been purchased by Hon. duran revolutionists, cleared from this port at 12:30 this afternoon for Cape Gracias, with a crew of 20 men, 200 tons of coal and provisions for 30 days.

Among the crew are several men who are said to have been connected with the previous filibustering expeditions directed against Central American republics.

The Hornet will sail, according to her captain, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Captain Johnson went to his home in this city to spend the night and said he would not board the Hornet until the sailing hour tomorrow.

Repairs to the machinery caused the delay.

Senor Ulloa, Honduran Consul to this port, tonight notified the Honduran Minister at Washington that the Hornet expedition "looks strongly revolutionary and the vessel is undoubtedly fitted out for a revolutionary movement against Honduras by ex-President Manuel Bonilla and General Lee Christman."

Senor Ulloa expects the State Department to take some action to prevent the sailing of the Hornet.

Ruff Denies Aiding Revolt.

Mr. Ruff branded as false the report that the steamer was involved in a revolutionary expedition.

Captain Johnson, the master, has been employed by the Estrada government in Nicaragua for several months and until recently was commander of the Nicaraguan gunboat Yula.

David P. Rowland, the chief engineer, has been in service in Central American waters.

Although the clearance papers were obtained shortly after noon, Captain Johnson had not shown up at the boat at an early hour tonight.

Announcement was made at 7 o'clock that the Hornet probably would sail after midnight.

The revenue cutter Davy was lashed to the Hornet's side all morning and a thorough inspection was made of the craft and her supplies.

Government agents also examined many of the bags of coal with which she is lined.

Long Voyage Is Contracted.

The members of the crew are under contract for a "30-day voyage."

Some of the members frankly admitted to an Associated Press representative today that they believed that the Hornet was destined for Honduras.

Late this afternoon two unidentified Central Americans boarded the Hornet and remained several hours waiting for Captain Johnson. They finally departed without having seen him.

UNCLE SAM WATCHES CRAFT

No Formal Protest Entered on Present Trip of Hornet.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—If the Hornet is engaged in a filibustering expedition directed either against Honduras or Mexico, it is regarded as strange that no formal protest against her departure was made to the State Department or with the United States Attorney at New Orleans.

In the meantime the ship sailed the State Department had nothing but newspaper reports bearing on her mission and these were conflicting, one being that the Hornet was destined to land an expedition in Honduras to start a revolution in favor of Manuel Bonilla against Estrada, and other reports connecting her movements with the cause of Madero, the Mexican revolutionist.

In absence of any formal complaint, the State Department has not acted to detain the vessel, but it is understood her course will be closely watched.

35,000,000 SEALS SOLD

Red Cross Sales for Christmas Will Reach 30,000,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 19.—Reports from headquarters of the American Red Cross show today indicate that at the beginning of the latest week of the sale of Christmas seals, nearly 35,000,000 have been sold and that the prospects are bright for a sale of more than $5,000,000.

The actual number of seals sold to date is nearly 15,000,000 in excess of the entire number sold in 1909 and is already nearly three times the sale of 1908. If the sale this week keeps up at the same rate as since December 1, the National authorities estimate that over $50,000,000 will be added to the tuberculosis funds in all parts of the country. This will be double the amount realized last year.

Engaged in this campaign for selling Red Cross seals is an army of over 100,000, including men, women and children of every rank and station. Agents have been appointed in cities or more places in every state, except Idaho and Montana.

Among the groups and institutions which are assisting in the movement are the anti-tuberculosis societies, Red Cross chapters, women's clubs, labor unions, lodges, schools, banks, theaters, department stores, hospitals and innumerable other agencies. Thousands of dollars' worth of advertising is being donated to the campaign and many millions of circulars are being distributed to remind people to buy Red Cross seals.

JOHN DIETZ TO GET BAIL

Business Men Pledge $22,000 at Solicitation of Girl.

LA CROSSE, Wis., Dec. 19.—As a result of the personal solicitation of Miss Myra Dietz, daughter of John F. Dietz, the "outlaw of Cameron Park," business men of Bangor, Wis., have pledged themselves in writing today to furnish $22,000 bail for her father, though to gain her freedom on the three remaining counts against him.

EMINENT LAWYER EXALTED TO HIGHEST JUDICIAL POSITION IN CIVILIZED WORLD.

EDWARD DOUGLASS WHITE.

WHITE TAKES OATH

Unlike Predecessors, Chief Justice Kisses Bible.

WIFE WITNESSES TRIUMPH

New Head of Highest Tribunal Is Obviously Embarrassed When Simple Ceremony Begins in Little Courtroom.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—In the presence of a distinguished gathering in the little courtroom, Edward Douglass White was today elevated from Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States to the Chief Justiceship.

The climax came when Associate Justice Harlan as senior member, administered the oath. It was subscribed to upon the bench itself, instead of at the clerk's desk, as is ordinarily done.

Chief Justice White while taking the oath held in his hand a Bible which has been used by nearly every Chief Justice of the United States.

The ceremony was presided over by Chief Justice Harlan, who has headed the tribunal since the death of Chief Justice Fuller last July, announced before the orders of the day had been made public. The new Chief Justice, who had been appointed Chief Justice of the United States, was present and ready to take the oath.

He extended his congratulations to the court to the new Chief Justice and directed Clerk McKenney to read his commission. This done, the presiding Justice turned to the right, where sat the new Chief Justice, and in the presence of the standing gathering administered the judicial oath.

The senior Justice, bowed the Chief Justice into the chair at the head of the court, extended his personal congratulations and himself resumed his old seat at the right of the Chief Justice.

EXPLOSION GIVES SHAKES

(Continued from First Page.)

John Smith, injuries to the head. Francis Kelly, policeman, burned and bruised.

John Cunningham, burned.

Gas Causes Explosion.

For some hours it was believed dynamite alone could have wrought such instantaneous and demolishing havoc, but late in the afternoon Fire Chief Crocker said he was convinced the explosion was due to a mixture of air and illuminating gas, used in lighting railroad cars, touched off by an electric spark.

The gas had accumulated in the auxiliary power-house from a broken pipe snapped off by a runaway passenger car.

Foundations were jarred, walls were shaken out of plumb, windows were blown in by the thousands, ceilings came crashing down on the heads of those beneath and the pavements were littered with pulverized glass.

Loss Is $500,000.

The loss to the New York Central Railroad Company includes the plant which was completely wrecked, the delay to construction work and the damage done to cars standing near the power-house.

The loss to shopkeepers and property owners in the vicinity will spread over a wide range of items. Christmas displays were blown backward into the shops, sucked into the street or out to ribbons by flying glass.

Whole fronts of buildings were left without a window.

As nearly as can be determined, this is how the accident occurred:

A train of empty passenger cars hauled by an electric motor, in charge of Albert Seagrout, got out of control, crashed into a steel and concrete buffer post, snapped it off and rammed a pile of lumber behind it into a gas main connecting with the taps from which the tanks of the passenger cars are charged.

By the testimony of the motorman and of John J. Quinn, a bricklayer, working on the main power-house, adjoining the auxiliary house, the time of the break in the pipe was about 5 o'clock. Two clocks stopped by the jar fix the time of the explosion itself at 5:23.

In the interval the broken main had ample time to pour high-pressure gas into the lower levels of the auxiliary power-house.

When workmen set to clearing away the lumber, it is assumed that one of them dropped a steel tool across the third rail, there was a flash of electricity and the great reservoir of accumulated gas exploded.

What happened then will never be positively known. The roof of firehouse No. 2, directly across the street from the power-house, was lifted like a magic carpet.

The shower of glass, bricks, mortar and splintered timbers began to fall on the pavements and the main instant the streets were filled with prostrate men and women blown flat by the shock and the rush of the air. They sat dazed where they fell, picking slivers from their heads.

Crowds Besiege Drug Stores.

A moment more and crowds besieged the drugstores, begging for aid and clamoring for telephones and then for clattering gangs of ambulances rang between the tall buildings.

The tenements to the east of Lexington avenue poured thousands into the streets.

Whole houses were emptied in a twinkling. The tall facades of the many fashionable hotels in the neighborhood were spotted with scores of half-dressed guests, shaken from their sleep, peering from broken windows.

Black-robed priests from St. Patrick's Cathedral nearby and white-coated ambulance surgeons passed each other on kindred errands of consolation and comfort.

The worst focus of death was the spot at which the trolley car and the automobile were hurled together.

The seven passengers were dumped to the under side of the car in a tangle of broken panes.

Miss Mary Pope was caught by the head between a stanchion and the overturned automobile beneath and crushed to death. Three old passengers, all men, were overwhelmed with wreckage and died before help could reach them.

Twenty feet away Miss Edith Offner, 28 years old, a stenographer in a magazine office, on her way to work, was speared through the chest by a flying bolt. Policeman Toomey had just signalled to the trolley car to stop and was leading two little girls across the street by the hand.

One was torn from his hand by the first blast of air and the other by the rebound. The second girl, Mary Gilman, 12 years old, lay her right hand torn off by a flying fragment of iron rail surrounding the Lexington-avenue station.

The power-house, which is built of stone and brick and is six stories high, took fire after the explosion and the interior was practically burned out.

Fortunately for the thousands of commuters on the New York Central's lines, the force of the dynamite blasts was directed in an opposite direction from the railroad tracks, otherwise the loaded incoming trains might have been wrecked.

MRS. ELLA POTTS DENOUNCES LOVER

Former Portland Woman Says Robert Lauder's Promises Were Deceptive.

LONG TALE OF WOE TOLD

Under Promise of Marriage, She Says, Property in This City Was Sold; Now She Is Penniless and Alone in Oakland.

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 19.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ella Potts, up to two months ago a resident of Portland, Or., says she will swear to a warrant tomorrow morning charging a man known to her as Robert Lauder with obtaining money under false pretenses, and confided to the police her belief that Lauder will be found at the Emeryville racetrack, where, she believes, he is spending the money which she claims he obtained from her through promise of marriage.

The warrant to be issued tomorrow morning will tell, according to her, only a small part of the story. As a result of her becoming acquainted with Lauder at Seattle, less than three months ago, Mrs. Potts says she lost extensive Portland property interests and is left penniless and destitute. She was to have become a bride last week, she says.

Following is Mrs. Potts' story: When they met Lauder, a laid violent siege to her heart. His suit was successful and they planned to be married at Oakland as soon as Lauder settled his business affairs. Assuming her he had ample funds for their support, Lauder induced her to sell a Portland hotel at $2100, a loss to her of $200. She also sold lots valued at $200 for $500, on Lauder's suggestion.

After selling her hotel, Mrs. Potts says she gave Lauder an order on the bank allowing him to transfer the money to the Scandinavian American Bank of Seattle, where he said he kept his own money.

Mrs. Potts came to Oakland, stopped at the Hotel Metropole and awaited the coming of Lauder. She arrived Thanksgiving day and Lauder visited her on the following day, stating he had deposited the $2100 to her name in the Seattle bank. She gave him the $500 she had received in the sale of her lots, telling him to place it with the other money.

Lauder left November 20, stating he was going on a business trip to the south. On December 5 he telephoned Mrs. Potts from Seattle, stating he would be in Oakland last Monday and that they would be married.

Lauder has not been heard of since. It has been learned, Mrs. Potts says, he did not deposit the $2000 in her name and that he has no money of his own in the Seattle bank, neither has he any property in San Francisco. It is charged, as he told his fiancée he had.

SPRING GUN FELS ONE

MAN KILLED BY MANTRAP IN ECCENTRIC'S CABIN.

Warning Posted on Door Is Unheeded and Death Follows Attempt to Make Entry.

REDDING, Cal., Dec. 19.—(Special.)—Frank Smith, a miner, living on the Trinity River, near the Humboldt County line, was killed yesterday by a man-trap at Don Juan Point, 60 miles west of Weaverville. The trap was a spring rifle, set in Harry W. Luckuck's cabin. When Luckuck left the district six weeks ago he posted a notice on his cabin door reading: "Death to anyone who enters this door."

Smith and two other miners went to the cabin yesterday to see about a matter which had arisen. As Smith opened the door the rifle went off, the bullet entering his abdomen and passing through his body. He lived less than an hour.

Luckuck came to Trinity County a year ago and had always been considered an odd but harmless character. No one took his warning notice seriously after it was posted on the door. Smith knew nothing about it.

Sheriff Boyce has gone to the scene and it is expected that Luckuck will be arrested, though it is the general opinion that Luckuck committed no crime in setting a spring gun to protect his property.

Ruef Pleads for Rehearing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—A brief of amici curiae upon petition for rehearing of the case of Abraham Ruef in the Appellate Court, filed today by Attorneys W. H. Metson, D. J. Murphy, Frank C. Drew and Charles A. Garter, contains 100 pages of argument in support of the contention that the Court of Appeals erred in sustaining the judgment of the Superior Court which sentenced Ruef to 14 years' imprisonment on conviction of bribery.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Germany's claims for compensation to Germans for loss sustained as a result of the Boer War, the Cologne Gazette expresses a hope that the matter is subject to arbitration under Anglo-German arbitration treaty, and suggests the establishment of an international competence court to decide generally when international questions can be properly submitted to arbitration.

Tuesday Sales

Lipman-Wolfe & Co

Tuesday Sales

COME IN TODAY

—And see what a bustle there is. There must be a great deal of interest to attract thousands of people who have thronged our store day after day during this holiday rush.

—Today we put forth every effort with hundreds of additional bargains that appeal to economical and practical shoppers.

—If you thought last week's values were good—this week's will be even better. Oftentimes we decide at a moment's notice to cut prices.

In many cases assortments are not large enough to last the day. Such bargains are never advertised.

—During Xmas week as assortments run low we take this method to hurry out these various lines.

—It will pay you to visit the store daily this week. The spirit of activity is in the air. You can't help feeling it the moment you enter the store.