miling.
The prosecution has sought to show by the testiment of several wifnesses that an attempt was made to poison Miss Smith by the administration of arsenious acid with bersets acid in the treatment of her wounds after the explosion.
Frank W. Crawford, a nephew of Dr. Burke, testified that Dr. Burke remarked to him in Lakeport about Christmas, 1906, that Lu Etta Smith would attempt to destroy herself with dynamic.

Former Nurse Testifies.

Earl Edmonds, a former nurse at the Eurke Institution, told of seeing Dr. Eurke about 3 o'clock the night of the explosion. The witness said that the physician appeared at one of the cottages on the grounds, said that he would return soon and hurried away.

A few minutes before the explosion. Elimonds saw Dr. Burke, looking pale and acting nervously, he said, in a hallway of the main building. When the explosion occurred Edmonds ran out of the Aitchen and saw Dr. Burke come out of the door of the asnitiarium building. The witness said that Dr. Burke told him Lu Etta Smith had blown herself up.

District Attorney Clarence F. Lea, who made a personal investigation of the dynamiting, testified that on either the Wednesday or Thursday following Saturday. February 5, the date of the Saturday, February 5, the date of the explosion, he went to the sanitarium and took a sample of a powder that was being used on Lu Etta Smith's injured arm. The powder was taken by him to Thomas B. Price, a San Fran-cisco chemist, who detected the pres-ence of an arsenious acid.

Woman's Wounds Trivial.

According to Lea the wounds on the woman's arm were but trivial and of themselves could not have caused death. Thomas E. Price, who analyzed the powder found on Lu Etta Smith's arm, testified that it contained araenious acid.

Price admitted under cross-examination that argenious acid was used for the removal of superfluous flesh, and for this purpose was a general rem-edy. It is the theory of the defense that the argenious acid used by Dr. Burke on Lu Etta Smith's arm was for a medical purpose and not with the intention of killing her.

Banks in the United States to install what practically amounts to a uniform system of bookkeeping.

Investigation disclosed that the bank had been doing business for the last two years, although in an insolvent condition, and although inspected at regular intervals by National bank examiners. Within that time the examiners were unable to learn the bank's true condition, largely because the management refused to keep a proper record of its transactions. It also showed that the entire capital of $50,000 and probably some of the $33,000 surplus was paid out to stockholders as dividends. paid out to stockholders as dividends.

Examiner Fooled by Tricks.

In the statement, Controller Murray says his examiners were hoodwinked for two years by the way the bank handled its notes.

"Within these two years," the Con-troller says, "the bank carried compara-tively little 'past due' paper, all the notes having the appearance of being promptly paid or renewed. The bank had no discount register and the various earning accounts were kept in such a manner as to make it practically impos-sible to andit them.

This interest on worthless paper had not been collected and was credited to some one of the earning accounts and, as the dividends were regularly paid, this resulted in paying the capital out to shareholders as dividends."

Reports to headquarters show that an Reports to headquarters show that an examiner finally became suspicious shortly before the bank's closing and insisted that a new set of books be installed. This the officers did under protest, the report says, but they abandoned the new system to return to the old one two days later, after the examiner had departed. Beturning to Quanah unexpectedly the examiner found the change and reported it by telegraph to Washington.

Examiner May Enforce Change.

To insure a system of bookkeeping by which the true condition of a National bank can be determined at any moment, the order issued today directs examiners, on finding a bank whose exact condition they cannot determine, to report the fact by telegraph to Washington and give the management of the bank 20 days to install the necessary books.
