Portland Streets in Sharp Contrast to Revel of New Year's Eve.

MANY MAKE RESOLUTIONS

Prominent Citizens Guarded in Announcing Resolves-Some Say They're Too Good Now to Be Any Better.

In strange contrast with the turbulent street scenes of the early hours of the morning was the aspect of the principal thoroughfares during the waking hours of yesterday. Portland spent the first day of the New Year Indoors. Seldom day of the New Year Indoors. Seldom have the business streets presented so desoints and abandoned an appearance as during the afternoon and evening. Special church services were held in the forenoon but, as on Christmas day, there were no big special attractions for the afternoon. So none was astir except slender groups making for the theaters and moving-picture shows early at night. Family reunions and social gatherings were the order of the day.

It was a fitting reaction to the clamerous greeting that met the new year.

erous greeting that met the new year. Hundreds of people did not get home from street revelry and grills until late in the early morning. Noon was a popular rising hour. Drugstores did a rushing business in brome seller and head-ache powders all effermoon.

Many Resolve to Be Good.

The city was filled with good resolu-tions. Many of those whose conduct was wildest in the midnight demonstrations excused themselves with the plen that it was a last Bacchanallan caper. There-after they were to burn incense at the altar of good conduct. Home of those good resolutions doubtless were broken before the day passed and most of them will be forgotten inside the week, in the general belief. Hesolutions were not confined, of course, to those who were sitogether dis-satisfied with their course of conduct. Many Portlanders evolved resolutions esigned to better conduct already looked pon az exemplary. Here are a few of

H. Beckwith, president Portland Commercial Club-Personally, I am too old to make resolutions. I have made and broken too many. I know better now.

Little Need to "Swear Off."

John F. Logan, chairman Republican County Central Committee—it lan't necessary for me to make resolutions. I have reached nervana already. Besides we have some municipal associations, long-haired men and short-haired women, to make resolutions for us. Since these self-appointed guardians of our welfare are looking after us why need anyone bother studying out a course of conduct for himself?

Phil Metcham, Sr.-My only resolution is to keep soler and make all the money Colonel D. M. Dunne-The only resolution I can keep or want to keep, is to keep the ten commandments. County Assessor Sigler-My only resotion is to keep on making assess the same old way. Rev. Benjamin Young, D. D.-I can embody mine in the quotation, "To do all the good I can in all the ways I can to all the people I can." ilman G. B. Cellars-I'm not much in the same old war.

U. S. Marshai Colwell—I've been giving the subject careful thought and have concluded that I can't possibly be any Postmaster Merrick-I have resolved to increase title postal business 25 per cent in the next year. City Treasurer Werlein-I baven't thought of any resolutions yet.

Representative Fours-The only resolu-tions I have in mind will be presented in the Legislature some time this month.

IRENE TRUMBULL PAID $60

Main Witness in Webb and Kersh Trials Given Fees.

Miss Irene Trumbull, one of the main witnesses against Josse Webb and Mrs. Carrie Kersh in the trunk murder case, who was summoned here from Chicago to testify against them, was paid 50 by the county yearerlay as witness fees. Miss Trumbull had been kept in Port-land since last October by the state and with the conviction of Mrs. Kersh sha was released as a witness.

Attorneys for the prosecution believe it was Miss Trumbul's testimony which convicted Webb. She testified that Mrs. Kersh showed her the money she ob-mined from Webb after the murder of Johnson. Miss Trumbull declared yester-cay that she was positive of the guilt of both Webb and Mrs. Kersh.

PROBABLY no better comedy was ever written or will be written than "Girls," which three seasons ago was given to the public by the late Clyde Fitch, and enjoyed such a tremendous run in New York, and has since been one of the most successful of road attractions.

The humor of the lines is decidedly Fitchian, and in the hands of the Baker Stock Company none of the scintillating brightness is lost or dulled. Every actor fits nicely into the niche provided for him or her, as the case may be, by the requirements of the story. And a quaint little story it is, too, of three girls, all man-haters, according to their lights on the subject, and who, while rooming together in an apartment-house have banded themselves absolutely to foreswear all men and their attentions. A very nice man, in fleeing from the pursuit of an elderly husband, with whose young wife he has been dining, is ferced to seek protection by entering, unannounced, the oom of the men-hating girls. With this as a nucleus, a three-ring romance begins, and ends, after three acts of richly excellent comedy and clean fun, in the usual run on the florist for orange blossoms.

Pamela Gordon, the dominating force among the girls, is given into the capa-ble keeping of Brenda Fowler. Her work is singularly colorful, and her role of the man-hating malden who scorned even American beauty roses and clipped caustic cuts off her tongue every time she opened her pretty mouth, was stamped with intelligence, grace and animation. In the pariance of the theater, Miss Fowler has more than "made good." Pretty Beatrice Nichols is Violet, the stenographer and illustrator, and Gene Yarborough rounds out the other of the trio of "girls" in her role of Kate, the writer, who writes nothing and finally turns into an actress. The wholesome ness of these two and their sincerely-executed performances made them particularly favorites.

A riot of Melville Ellis coloring was Lillian Andrews in the role of Lucille Purcelle, "a elocutionist," who insisted on elocuting all over the place, who interested herself avidly in everyone's else affairs than her own, and who bravely quotes that bromide about just as good fish, etc., when Pam captures the star boarder, in whom Miss Purcelle has seen a possible personal conquest. drews' humorous conception, as usual, is this week as the devil-may-care young chap who tames Pam and takes her, signed, sealed and delivered, unto himself. Noteworthy in his acting of the role are his easy methods, his resource-fulness and thorough naturalness, attrib-utes that all make for popularity. Hugh Dillman is a gentle scream as the perfectly nice and proper clerk who is roped in by Violet. Others, each capably cast, include Nell Franzen, as a divorce-seeking young wife, and John Burton, that exponent of comedy, in the role of the aged husband-to-be-divorced. Thomas MacLarnie, as a tired business man who aspires to dine and wine Pam at Sherry's, is very good, and William Wolbert, in the very short role with an all too brief appearance as the lantice. all too brief appearance as the janftor, is most satisfactory. Same bill all week, with the usual matinees.

POLICEMEN AT PLAYHOUSE

Management Declares Show Will Be Given Despite Mayor's Order and Courts Will Again Be Asked to Give Restraining Order.

Though a throng of prospective parrons who filled the lobby of the Bun-galow Theater yesterday morning urged the management to put to a test Chief of Police Cox' order forbid-ding the presentation of the Jeffrics-Johnson fight pictures, the theater people, at the last moment, decided to sub-mit, for the day, and no attempt was made to open the house. Announcement was made, however, at the ticket window, that the pictures positively would be presented today. Acting under orders from Chief of Police Cox and Captain Baty, Sergeant Riley and Patrolmen Ellis and Inskeep took station at the theater at the time scheduled for the opening performance, and warned the crowd that anyone en-tering the theater would be arrested, pursuant to instructions from Mayor Simon. Some of the disappointed ones were inclined to resist what they con-sidered an infringment of their personal liberty, but the action of the the-ater management, upon advice of their attorney, John F. Logan, precluded any

Appeal to Be Made to Mayor.

Positive announcement, as given out from the box office, that the pictures would be put on today, was not borne out by Walter Reed, who has the matter in charge. He said that another attempt would be made today to have Mayor Simon withdraw his opposition, and hope of a successful outcome was entertained because it was thought that entertained because it was thought that the Mayor had been influenced by the opening day being Sunday and New

The Mayor, however, remained firm in his opposition to the showing of the pictures, holding them to be a brutal spectacle and a clear violation of the nulsance statute. "If it takes every policeman in the city to prevent it, the pictures shall not be exhibited without an order of the cort restraining inter-ference," said the Mayor.

morrow morning. Granting for the moment that the pictures are "outrageous to public decency and contrary to public morals" they hold that the order to arrest the spectators is entirely extra-legal and cannot be defended in the courts. If action against the spec-tators is restrained by the courts and that against the management is sus-tained, the pictures probably will be exhibited and the showmen will stand the penalty.

Reed Positive Show Will Be Given "We are going to exhibit these plotures here," said Manager Reed, yes-terday. "Fortunately, the house is open for engagement all of the week, and if we are delayed for a day of two, await-ing court action, we will still be able to present the show as advertised. These pictures have been shown in other cities and pictures of other fights have been show here, very lately. It looks like unfair discrimination against

"If Chief Cox is going to clean up the town I will show him how," said John F. Logan, attorney for the show-I am going to point them out and see them through. For one thing, I will give the police a list of the owners of real property which is used for immoral purposes and ask him to enforce the statute against them. Then I shall invite his attention to the law which provides a penalty of $50 a day for unning streetcars without fenders, and o other laws on the statute books which are utterly ignored. If we are to have a moral wave, let's have it

MR. NOTTINGHAM DENIES HE CHARGED FOR TIME.

Reply Made to Other Charges in Connection With Location of Branch Asylum.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 1 .- (To the Editor.)—I notice in an evening paper an article with the heading, "Trying to Beat Selling." It says that I received $36.70 for my services in selecting a site for the branch asylum. The truth is that I have not received anything for my services, nor have I made any claim for services. I spent for railroad fare and hotel bills $26.70 and put in a bill for that amount to the state. I do not know whether it will be paid or not.

I spent six days of my time when I was needed in my business. The reason I went was that the state board asked me to, as State Treasurer Steele could not go, and Governor Benson was in California. At first I refused to go, as I knew it would be a thank-

Two Sure to Lose.

We told the people at every place we We told the people at every place we visited that two of the places we were to visit would be sure to be dissatisfied and at every place we received the reply that they felt sure that Governor Bowerman would select the place he thought would be for the best interest of the unfortunate people in the first place, and for the best interest of the Balked, as they probably will be, in efforts to change the attitude of the city officials today, the managers will make another appeal to the courts tomorrow morning. Granting for the fad this is why Governor Bowerman wanted my independ in the patter. wanted my judgment in the matter.
Again, the article says that I tried to get McColloch to vote for Bowerman. This is a mistake. I had a talk with McColloch and told him that it was the general impression that both he and Senator Oliver would support Selling. I shall not repeat what he said, for fear that I might not quote him correctly, but I did not ask him to vote for Bowerman.

Political "Deal" Denied.

The charge that Pendleton was se-lected as a political deal looks like a frantic effort to discredit Bowerman, as it was well known that Barrett and Burgess were strong supporters of Bowerman from the start and he would have had their support if the institu-tion had not been located at Pendleton. In regard to the appointment of a superintendent, I will say that there should be one at once, whether this one remains or not. Otherwise you will have applied to the control of the cont should be one at once, whether this one remains or not. Otherwise you will have an architect plan a building for present needs and in a few years another architect will be employed with entirely different ideas, and the result men. There are other evils, much more serious than fight pictures, to that are not in harmony and not suite that are not in harmony and not suite to the grounds, and it will be a hodge-podge mass that we will always be podge mass that we will always be ashamed of. A superintendent should be appointed who could lay out com-prehensive plans with reference to fuure construction. This is also in the interest of economy, as every knows who has been familiar with mistakes of the asylum at Salem.

Steiner Not Ignored.

The article also says that Bowerman ignored the request of Benson to take Dr. Steiner along. I understand that Dr. Steiner was urged to go and that Bowerman wired him to come, but he could not get away.

The charge that Senator Abraham has some selfish motive in supporting has some selfish motive in supporting Bowerman is on a par with a charge once made against myself, that I did certain things in a political way so that I could furnish the United States Government with cement, when everyone knows that these goods are always purchased by competitive bids.

Some people are so selfish themselves that they can have no conception of a man doing things from pure motives or for the general good.
