San Franciscan Would Introduce Hellenic Methods to Gain End

Raymond Duncan, a San Franciscan, who transformed himself into a Greek of the ancient school by study and almost ronstant association with Hellenic art and culture, delivered a lecture to the Greeks of Portland in Arion Hall last night on Greek physical culture and cal-isthenics. His purpose is to establish a school in this city, forming one of the links of an educational system he has utlined from one ocean to the other.

Duncan first came into the limelight of publicity when he and his family were photographed in ancient Grecian costumes and he announced that modern rivilization should go back to the time of glorious Athens for proper dress and physical and mental culture. Then he came to the United States with his sister, Miss Penelope Duncan, who caused furore in New York with her barefoot

He was dressed in his ancient Greelan costume, which allowed freedom of action of all muscles of the body. He has introduced the system in several schools in this country and England, and will visit the Fortland school officials before leaving the city, to interest them in the method of exercise, which he says teaches youths to work and enjoy it.

KLAMATH IS PROSPEROUS

Free Money Market and Confidence in City Institutions Are Given as Causes of Lack of Support of Government Depository.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Jan. 15 - (Special.)-Considerable disappointment being felt in this city over the result of the opening here on January 12 of the first postal savings bank in Oregon.

To date but nine names have been en rolled as depositors and the total deposits to not exceed $200. The largest deposit made was $61 and the next largest $90.

Most of the others are for $1 each, while but a few are for $5 and $10 each, while but a few are for $5 and $10 each, it was expected that the opening of a Government depository here would be halled with delight and that the local banking institutions would feel the effects of the new convention. The confects of the new competitor. The contrary has been the result. Local bankers state they have not lost a dollar.

Much of the hoarded money and amall savings of the people of the country would, it was thought, be brought out by the possial system. It was supposed to replace the "stocking" as a safety dereplace the "stocking" as a specied to posit for savings. It would appear that in every other place except Klamath Falls this has been the case. Cities where these banks have been opened by the Government report that the savings banks have been hit hard by the in-novation.

Klamath Folk Prosperous.

As a reason for the small interest manifemed in the postal bank here and the light and scattering deposits it is cited by those in touch with the financial pulse of Klamath Falls that the town and country in general have been particular-ly free from the effects of any stringency n the money market. There are four banks in this city that have been doing business here for several years. These are the First National, Klamath County, First Trust and Savings and American Bank and Trust Company banks. Each of these is heavily capi-talized. Although there have been flur-ries in the money markets of the world which have caused banks in other places to close nothing of the kind has ever oc-curred here. Two years ago when banking holidays were declared over all the country as a measure to block runs there was no closeness of money here and not a bank in the city took advantage of the declared holidays.

As a result of these conditions the citizens of the country have come to have strong faith in the banking institutions here. They have never felt any symptoms of a panic, such as has ravaged the reasts of the people of other parts of "This," said a Klamath Falls banker, "Itis," said a Klamath Falls banker.

"Is, in my opinion, the reason why the people here have not rushed with their hoards to the postal savings bank. They have as much faith in the banking institutions of Klamath Falls as they have in the one started by the Federal Government. None of the banks here will feel the effect of the postal savings bank on their business. There will be no falling off of business, I believe, in any of the private banks and I am conany of the private banks and I am con-fident that our business will continue to increase and show just as big a gain at the end of the year 1911, or bigger, for that matter, than ever before.

Trust Proposed in Banks.

"Our local banks all have ample financial backing to make them perfectly safe and while I do not care to compare them with the backing the Government has for its postal bank the people in general here have reason to feel that their money is have reason to feel that their money is sufe with us and have no tendency to withdraw any funds from us and put it in the postal bank. "Until Klamath County has reason to

"Until Klamath County has reason to feel a money strengency none of the local banks will, in my opinion, be affected by Klamath Falls having been selected as the only city in Oregon for the establish-ing of the postal savings. Postmaster R. A. Emmitt, who re-turned on January 9 from Washington, D. C., where he had gone to confer with Postmaster-General Hitchcock regarding the methods to be used in handling the Posimister-teneral Interest the methods to be used in handling the deposits said that he had been somewhat puzzled as to why Klamath Folls had been selected in preference to the various other offices of the state.

He put the query to the postal men in Washington and was told that in selecting the banks for these savings depositaries care was used in trying to put them where the record of the Postmaster and office showed the greatest ability from a clerical standpoint and made out the best reports to the Government. Klamath Falls Complimented.

Another compliment was paid Klamath Palls by the postal authorities in se-lecting a Klamath Palls bank as the depositary for the savings which are put in the postal bank here.
