Engene Ely Goes Nearly to San Francisco, but Does Not Discover Position of "Enemy." General Bliss Is Pleased.

AVIATION FIELD, San Francisco Wan, 16 .- The value of the aeroplane for scouting purposes was tested by officers today in connection with San Francisco's aviation week, Troops sent out from the Presidio, over 12 north of Selfridge Field, covered half that distance to the aviation ground, but despite the efforts of the birdmen to find them, their position was not discovered.

Three machines were planned to be used in the reconnoissance experiment, but owing to imperfect wind conditions and to motor troubles, only Walter Brookins, of the Wright team, could be prevailed upon to take part. He carried up Lieutenant George E. M. Kelly, of the Thirteenth Infantry, who at an elevation of about 1800 feet took half a dozen photographs and made a

The biplane did not venture far enough from the grounds, however, for the officer to discover the Fresidio force. Later Eugene Ely, of the Curtiss camp, made a flight, but though he flew almost as far as the Presidio itself, he failed to catch sight of the soldiers.

General Tasker H. Bliss, Presidio Commander, who acted as umpire of the experiment, expressed himself as well pleased over Lieutenant Kelly's report and said that he was convinced the aeropiane was highly valuable for outing purposes. Interesting exhibition flights marked the afternoon programme, but noth-ing of a sensational nature was at-

MYSTERY MADE BY BROWN

Missing Garage Man Left $15,000 in Notes-Accused of Fraud.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 .- M. A. Brown, manager of the Electric Garage, whose mysterious disappearance last Thurs-day caused a sensation, is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses by issuing a check for $100 on a bank when he had no funds in the bank. A warrant has been issued for his arrest.

The police have found signed notes for $15,000, which he made the day he disappeared. It is now the belief of officers that Brown's hat, which was found with an ugly-looking cut in I was left purposely by Brown himself.

The reason he advanced for the Circuit Court holding that the conveyance was illegal was that it believed it had to follow the decision of the Supreme Court in the Northern Securities case. But the Standard Oil case, he argued, differed from the Northern Securities suit. In the latter, the railroads, owing a duty to compete and engage in active and actual competition, were concerned. In the former case, there were concerned trade companies, owing no duty to compete and not in competition with one another because of their common owner-

A second point that Mr. Watson argued was that the decree practically confis-cated property because it did not allow the subsidiary companies to pay divi-dends to the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and that the stock of the company became practically worthless. Trust Completes Conspiracy.

"It is gratifying to believe," said Mr. Wickersham, following Mr. Watson, "that the defendants will, at least, find some difficulty in evading the decree of the lower court if it is affirmed."

He took up the defense of the decree, saying that the court below had held that a conspiracy to restrain trade had been found and that the conveyance of 1809 was made in pursuance of that con-

Anti-Lobby Rule Passed.

The House adopted a strong anti-lobby rule when it voted in favor of the recommendation of the rules committee that all persons be kept off the floor of the House from 3 o'clock in the morning until is o'clock at night. The Senate confirmed the names of three girl stenographers along with the names of four men, without a ripple of excitement. In fact no mention was made of it. The Senate passed three bills, the making legsl in Washington of wills and decrees declared valid in other states, the measure allowing counties to issue bonds for waterway improvements, known as the waterway improvements, known as the Lake Washington Canal bill, and the bill providing for the nomination of caldidates at a recall election upon the certinot invest where the laws are so framed as to imperil investments; and labor cannot find employment where business and property are not safe under the law. Instead of peace and contentment, there will be hunger and misery, where the laws are uncertain and unfair.

Oregon has been enjoying a most prosperous era. It has had the good fortune to attract capital in vast sums to aid its development. Whether this shall continue is for the people to decide. For under the present system of law-making there is great danger that the tendency toward enactment of foolish and ill-considered laws, proposed by visionaries and irresponsible agitators, will effectually drive capital out of the state by making its investment here unprofitable.

The interests of labor and capital are identical in this matter, and there is no surer way to restore the soup-kitchen and the receiver than to make it unprofitable to carry on business

Stability has been secured in the states of the Union by written constitutions, which, under the old method, yield slowly to change by amendment. The proud record of growth and development in our country is due in no small degree to the sense of security under the constitution that has made it possible to go forward with great commercial enterprises guaranteed and safeguarded against confiscation. But now in Oregon our constitution may be amended by a minority of the voters at any election, and indeed has been repeatedly so amended since the new system has been in use. These changes are vital and radically alter the fundamental law, so that security becomes danger, and confidence yields to fear.

Who prepares these amendments to the constitution and laws? Does anyone know what they are until they have been actually filed and made ready to be printed upon the ballot? Is there any public meeting at which the measures are carefully considered, dispassionately discussed and anxiously scrutinized word by word and sentence by sentence and there need deter-

No, the voter is not consulted beforehand. Interested and oftentimes irresponsible men turn out these radical proposals in final form and the voter is expected to accept or reject the whole complex and confusing pronouncement and to vote yes or no upon it, without opportunity for amendment. Nay, most voters must vote upon it without familiarity with its contents, being guided by the title alone, as it appears on the ballot.

The very title is often misleading, and many a man votes for or against a principle which he fancies is expressed by the title without knowing that he is voting directly contrary to his convictions. At the last election the voters east their votes upon 32 different measures printed by short title upon the election ballot. Many of these measures were proposed amendments to the constitution.

If Oregon is to maintain its dignity and prosperity it must take steps to secure more deliberation in its popular exercise of the law-making power. Unless the citizens awake to the dangers of wholesale and hasty legislation, and curtail and limit the laws thus voted upon, it takes no prophet to foretell the inevitable disaster that is at hand. Earnest men, patriotic men, must come forward quickly and take counsel how to remedy the evil that menaces the state.

A few men, some of them impractical visionaries, some egotistical and all-wise bone-heads, some scheming demagogues, are turning out laws like a Hindu grinds out prayers with his prayer wheel. They must be shorn of this power before it is too late, for it is easier to ruin the prosperity of the state than to force capital to invest where the laws are unstable and unjust.
