ADMIRAL BARRY'S FLAG COMES DOWN

Under Cloud Sea Fighter Relinguishes Command of Pacific Fleet.

CEREMONY PAINFUL ONE

Officers Do Not Cheer, Ships Do Not Salute as Retired Commander Goes Unattended Over Side, in Farewell to Navy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16 .- (Special.) After to years of service in the United States Navy, Rear-Admiral Edward B. Barry today hauled dows his flag on the cruiser West Virginia and relinquished command of the Pacific fleet to Rear-Admiral Thomas. The attendant ceremony, a painful affair in the extreme, marked the formal re-tirement of the white-haired sea-fighter, who ends his official career wader a cloud.

All the officers on the ship were pervous and constrained and of all present, Admiral Barry alone seemed uninfluenced by the printed stories of a shameful vice of which he has been accused, and to which is ascribed his sudden request for retirement.

If the smirch on his good name robbed the ceremonies on the West Virginia today of the spontanelty and customs which invariably mark such occasions in the Navy, Admiral Barry pretended not to notice it. The usual salute to the retiring Admiral by the ships of the fleet was omitted and there were no ceremonies when the re-living commander silently went over the side of the cruiser to the motor launch which awaited him. His fel-low-officers did not cheer, but the en-tire crew of the West Virginia gath-ered on the deck.

Pennant Comes Down.

The West Virginia, Admiral Barry's flagship, returned from a 24-hour coal test run shortly after noon and an hour later his two-starred pennant came Ill at ease, officers and men gathered en the deck as Admiral Barry read the orders detaching him from the fleet. He expressed a warm feeling for the West Virginia and his regret at leav-

After this ceremony Admiral Barry did not immediately leave the ship, as is customary, but retired to his cabin, where he remained until nightfall. Then he boarded the launch and was landed at the Navy dock.

The Admiral received a whole body of San Francisco newspapermen in his cabin. He made the following state-

"I have retired partly from public reasons and partly from private rea-sons. I cannot understand these stories which say I am accused of unspeak-able vices. My whole religious train-ing has been contrary to such things. It is not an unprecedented thing for an Admiral to request immediate retire-ment. I did so under the regulation which permits it after 40 years of servfee and the Navy has granted my rebut my son is dead."

The Admiral objected to the statement, which he called cruel, that his officers had made no depial of charges officers had made no depial of charges against him and said that "to make such a denial about another, one must have known his every act from the time he was a new-born babe."

The Admiral then read a letter from a sailor of the West Virginia in which the writer expressed sympathy with the Admiral and belief that charges were false.

Barry Is Comforted.

That comforts me," said Barry, "that is very gratifying."
Again the Admiral repeated a denial that there was any truth in charges but his whole manner and his words were not suited to the occasion. He seemed not to fel the gravity of the offense charged against him. So painful was the impression that this white-haired man made upon the newspaper men that they all declared on their way to the city from the ship that they helleved he was of unsound mind and not responsible for his acts. They all expressed pity for a man who is retired in this way after a gallant career.

In assuming command of the Pacific fleet, with the California as its flagship, Admiral Thomas took over Admiral Barry's executive staff with the exception of his secretary and flag Heutenant. Lieutenant-Commander Victor Blue was made chief of staff, continuing in the position which he occupied under Ad-fact that it was received by wire instead of mail was by no means unprecedented. Secretary Meyer approved the application on the day following its receipt. The President promptly approved the request and the department telegraphed the fact to the Admiral on Saturday, detaching him at the same time from the Pacific fleet and ordering him to his home in accordance with the established custom. His retirement dates from January 13. By operation of law, Admiral Barry would have retired in October of the current year. His pay as a Rear-Admiral was $8000, while his retired compensation will be three-fourths of that amount, or $2000.

BOYS TO BUILD AIRSHIPS

Young Inventors' Skill.

Interest displayed in aviation in the past two years and the advancement made in that direction has prompted many local institutions of learning to allow their pupils to enter into a contest making model airships of all models and distinctions and the contest is to be inaugurated by the Meler & Frank Company beginning January IS. The local Y. M. C. A. under the direction of Mr. Churke of the boys' department of this institution, has already begin to interest the boys in the manual training decariment in the preparation training department in the preparation of the different types of air craft so that they can be properly displayed and entered for a prize in the coming con-

A similar successful effort was mad last year by the Meier & Frank Com-pany, at which time over 60 models were represented and prizes given for the beat exhibits in workmanship and the ability of each individual machine to make actual flight.

The conditions under which the con-tcet is being held are very simple and only require that each contestant make his own model and that no outside help be given in construction. The entries for this contest are supposed to arriva at the place of exhibition between January 23 and January 25. The contest will last for three weeks and special instructors in the art of aviation will instructors in the art of aviation will be judges and will give the necessary information and lectures in the art of flying. Several large working models are now being arranged for and will probably be on display at the Meier & Frank store during the contest. One of the interesting features of the contest will be the actual testing out of the machines where the contestant desires to enter his air craft in that class. The location for these flights has not been determined and will be left to a committee, to be selected by the Y. M. C. A. Portland Academy and the Portland Public Manual Training Department.

Aside from the individual interest to Aside from the individual interest to be manifested in the construction of these airships, several hundred dollars in prizes has been laid aside for the purpose. Professor Standley of the Manual Training School. Mr. Clarke of the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Ewing of the Portland Academy, will act as committee on arrangements.

Through the Blood. The sufferer from nervous trouble generally knows what caused it, overstudy, physical or mental overwork, irregular living, worry, or whatever it may be. The first thing to do in seeking a cure is to stop the cause, if possible. Then the nerves must be given a control of the cause, if possible is the proposition of special nourishment and the blood must be kept pure and rich. This is the mis-sion of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and this is why the pills have been used with such great success in nervous trouble that did not yield to ordinary methods of treatment.
