RAILROADS HELP CAUSE OF HARBOR

Tillamook to Make Renewed Effort to Obtain Government Appropriation.

Bay Forms Natural Harbor and Work Would Be Relatively Inexpensive-People Willing to Pay Liberal Share.

With the entrance of two new rallroads into the Tillamook Bay region the residents of that section are mak-ing renewed efforts to secure a Government appropriation for a channel to connect the local harbers with deep water and with that end in view the cilizens again are promising to provide $650,000 of the $1,700,000 requisite for Both the Hill and the Harriman sysms will have their Tillamook Bay nes completed within the present ines completed within the present year, although service over the Hill road may not be inaugurated until early in 1912. These rail connections will make it possible for Tillamook hay to serve the outside world with freight unloaded in the harbor. With an improved channel, the enterprising people of both Ear (its sa.) people of both Bay City and Tillamook City believe that they could compete with other points along the coast In both rail and water transportation. When the Government engineers met December 29 to consider the merits of the Tiliamook claims for a deeper chan-nel they heard evidence in favor of both Ray City and Tiliamook. While the Bay City channel seemed to re-ceive more consideration than the other, it evidently is the desire of the Tillamook people to secure improved facilities for both places.

Port Project Favored.

However, the Government failed to net favorably upon the request for an appropriation of approximately $1,000,ion and the harbor plans have not been

The Hill interests have arranged to complete their United Railway line to hay city at once, according to the smoouncement of John F. Stevens upon his return from the East a few days ity have not yet been completed.

At the same time two forces of men re working on the line of the Pacific allroad & Navigation Company to connect Hillsboro with Tillamook Harbor points. It is expected that trains will be running between Portland and the city of Tillamook before the middle of the Summer, the service to be operated over the Southern Pacific tracks be-tween this city and Hillsboro.

People Expect Results.

While Tillamook City will be the terminus of the Harriman line, Bay City will be one of the principal stations. The people of both places are depending upon the completion of this road to give the business of the companity added impetus and to assist in Unoccupied Building Destroyed by building up the district.

Although work soon will be started on the United Railway extension to the Coast it cannot be completed within six months after the Harriman line starts to run trains into the bay towns. When this line's service is added to that of the other the Tillamook region the fire last night. The origin is unwill have better transportation facili-ties than most places of the same rela-tive importance in the Northwest. The fact that the bay forms a natural har-ber has been pointed out and the com-parative cheapness in the cost of improving the channel has been made strong feature in the requests for Federal aid. The estimate of $1,700,000, it is said, will pay for making the bar at the mouth of the harbor 20 feet deep, as well as provide the means of deepening the channel.

While neither railroad is taking an active part in the campaign both are laying their plans with the view of serving the shipping interests of an improved harbor. Although the United will operate electric trains, the offi-cials of that road declare that they will compete actively with the Harriman line for all classes of freight traffic.

Close Questions Considered.

Several fine points of law were con-sidered by the Court in making the rul-ing. But the decision centered largely about the issue of corroborative evi-dence. Mrs. Nettle Hall, mother of dence. Mrs. Nettie Hall, mother of Rosenberg's victim, told a story on the witness stand of finding her daughter's body in Rosenberg's private office. body in Rosenberg's private office.
Judge Morrow found that the mother's pitiable tale lacked the legally required

potion of corroboration.
"The rule is," said the Court, "that an Inference cannot be based upon an in-ference. As the testimony has been presented, we have to infer first that the defendant knew the girl was enceinte, and secondly that he intended an abortion. There is no testimony that the doctor ever knew her condition. That can be deduced only by infer-

The testimony does not reasonably tend to show," Judge Morrow added, "that any lawful act was committed without due caution or circumspection, or tend to prove the commission of any unlawful act whatever."

The motion for a directed verdict was presented Thursday afternoon by Rosenberg's lawyers on the grounds that the State had falled completely by testimony to show the commission of a crime and particularly the crime of murder as charged in the grand jury's indictment. Involved arguments folindictment. Involved arguments fol-lowed in which voluminous authorities were presented.

Prosecution Is Vigorous.

In replying, Deputy District Attor-neys Fitzgerald and Collier, who made an able and spirited fight for convic-tion, took their stand under Section 1750, of the Oregon Code, which says: "Every other killing of a human being by the act, procurement of culpable negligence of another, when such killing is not murder in the first or second degree or is not justifiable or excus-able as provided in this chapter, shall be deemed manslaughter."

The State's attorneys contended that the evidence had clearly shown these facts. That # girl 20 years of age had been taken to Dr. Rosenberg's office: that Dr. Rosenberg put her under chlor-oform and killed her; that while no one was present, the circumstances and facts clearly established Rosenberg's culpability; that even if there were no proof of negligence or unlawful. proof of negligence or unlawful pur-pose, the facts indicated the chloroform was given for no good purpose. The plea of the State's attorneys was that the jury be permitted to pass on the case. The 12 men of the jury were visibly affected by Mrs. Hall's compelling story of finding her girl's dead body in Dr. Rosenberg's office.

Prosecuting Witness Pails.

Had not one of the state's witnesse gone back on his first story, the ruling made by Judge Morrow would not have been necessary or possible. Elmer Erickson, the youth responsible for Vera Hail's condition and who took her to Rosenberg's office, first told that he took her there for an operation. On the witness there for an operation. On the witness stand he insisted that she led been sufland people registered at Chicago hotels today as follows: At the Palmer House, S. providing that conversations bearing on the case and not held in the presence of the accused person cannot be repeated as testimony. But for that rule the mother could have shown young Erickson's knowledge of the girl's condition, a knowledge which he decided completely on the witness stand. Just what inspired the girl's betrayer to change his story and protect Rosenberg is a matter of speculation.

while declining to state for publication his innermost beliefs as to Rosenberg's guilt or innocence, Judge Morrow said the rules of law that made necessary the directed verdict in this case might possibly fall short of common justice in this particular instance, but that in thousands of other cases the same rules would be absolutely required.

Defense Otherwise Unrevealed.

No festimony was presented in Rosen-berg's behalf nor was a plan of defense except in technicalities, indicated at any time during the trial. Rosenberg's law yers represented in argument that the girl might have been suffering from all-ments which the practitioner found impossible to diagnose without use of an anesthetic.

Alleging that the press had sought to prejudice the public mind against Rosenberg and had printed biased and unfair accounts bearing on his arrest, indictment and trial, the acquitted man's lawyers asked the court to cite representatives of the various newspapers in Port-land to show cause why they should not be found in contempt of court. R. E. Moody, one of the attorneys, thought it high time to muzzle the press and sug-gested that unless the courts acted along these lines it would be necessary for ome of the lawyers to get together and attempt a tooth-pulling feat on the de mon of publicity. Numerous copies of newspapers were handed to Judge Mor-row, who said he would read the accounts of the Rosenberg trial and decide later about the advisability of citing newspa-per writers and editors for contempt.

NEW PLAN TRGED TO BRING VESSELS TO PORTLAND.

Revenue Would Be Increased and City Advertised Afar, Say Advocates of Measure.

To make the Port of Portland the most satisfactory in the world and par-ticularly the most satisfactory upon the Pacific Coast, the promotion committee of the Commercial Club has under consideration the preparation of a law which will change the entire method of $5000 in escrow in a Portland of $5000 in escrow in a Portla boats upon a tonnage basis and not upon the value of the property. Under the present law the Assessor can assess the vessels in the harbor upon the same basis that he would assess a house or lot. It is contended by the committee and by F. R. Hill, for-merly of Duluth, but now a resident of Portland, that as an advertising plan and as a producer of revenue it would far exceed any other plan which could be devised. Boat owners in every harbor on the Coast would seek to regts ter their boats in this port. Mr. Hill said that Duluth tried the plan of assessing each boat 3 cents for each ton of capacity and that when the law was passed, seven years ago, only 20 boats on the Great Lakes were registered from Duluth. In that seven years the number of boats had grown from 30 to 450.

Two things had been accomplished, said Mr. Hill. One was that all over the lakes the boats carried upon their bow end the words "From Duluth, Minn." The other was that the tax revenues had been trebled from that source alone. He expressed the belief that if Portland would adopt the plan it would have five times the receipts from taxation and the name of Portland would be seen in all ports of the Coast.

Salmon and California shad cost 15 cents; black cod, tem-cod and silver smelt, 12½ cents; rock-cod, fresh herring and flounder, 10 cents a pound. Mussels, hard clams and New York clams are all to be had, but I saw no razor clams. Mussels are higher than usual at 10 cents a pound, and New York clams cost 10 cents a dozen. A few lob-sters are shown at 40 cents a pound, and fine terrapin at $1 each.

Poultry prices, also, are inclined to be higher than last week. Chickens are selling at 25 to 30 cents a pound, and geese are about the same price. Turkeys cost 35 cents and ducks 30 cents a pound. Suipe are dainty morsels at 50 to 75 cents a pair, and jack-rabbits, at 50 cents each, supply savory ples, fricassees or roasts to the skillful cook.

There is little change in the vegetable market at present, though a coming searcity of California products is prophesied by some market men. In the mean-time, there seems to be plenty of fresh green things, including excellent water-cress, chickory, lettuce and field-salad. French articholes cost 8 to 12% cents each, and Jerusalem artichokes 10 cents a pound. Good celery is still to be had, though it is getting scarcer, and the same is true of cauliflower. There are green peas at 20 cents a pound; green corn at $1 a dozen; hot-house tomato's at 40 cents, and mushrooms at 75 cents a pound. SILETZ SALE MADE

Timber Deal Means $10,000 Each for Settlers.

75 CLAIMS ARE INVOLVED

Pool Formed by Holders in Lincoln County About to Realize $1 a Thousand for Stumpage Held Few Months.

Some 75 persons who went down in the Siletz country a year and a half ago and took up timber claims are about to receive in the neighborhood of $10,000 each for their holdings. A majority of the entrymen are Portland people and the land is held in one piece. It comprises about 10,000 acres and is situated in Township 7 south, Range 9 west, Willamette meridian, and is in Lincoln County. Estimates based on cruises place the amount of timber on the land at 700,000,000 feet, and the sale is on a basis of $1 a thousand feet, so the amount of money involved in the deal is $700,000. The identity of the purchasers is not revealed.

The township was unsurveyed when the entrymen event there to locate, so they squatted, camping out in the woods until the survey was made and the land was opened by the Government. They all made their filings in the Portland Land Office in March, 1910.

Pooling Agreement Made.

After they had obtained patent a meeting was held by the entrymen, which all attended, and a booling agreement was formed. They piedged themselves to act together and not to sell until a supurated or the state of the price agreed on has now been offered. It was further agreed that any number of the pool who might find a purchaser should receive $35,000 as commission. Five per cent of $700,000 is $35,000, and to earn this fat fee there has been a pretty thorough canvass of possible large purchasers of timber by members of the pool.

J. Hyland and B. W. Jones were finally successful, and under the style of the Hyland-Jones Company they have had printed a contract of sale which is being generally signed by the entrymen.

The contract provides for the placing of $5000 in escrow in a Portland bank

Payment Due July 1.

It is further provided that if the conditions are satisfactory 30 per cent of the entire purchase price is to be paid by July 1, when the land will be taken over. The cruises are to be on the basis of those already made by Cusick & Cox, cruisers employed by the entrymen.

Most of the entrymen hold 160 acres while several have 120 acres and a fev only 80 acres. The timber is fir, spruce cedar and larch. The following are among the entrymen and members of the pool: Robert L. Fuller, George B. Tucker, George E. Frost, Jr., Job Mc-Leod, George A. Deuerling, Charles C. Cogill, Samuel E. Corvallis Students Get Material for Animal Husbandry Course.

AGRICULTURAL OREGON LEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 20.—(Special.)— The animal husbandry department of Oregon Agricultural College yesterday received the first shipment of fancy livestock that is to be brought to Corvallis for the use of the students in the short Winter courses. The shipment yesterday was from the Craiglea farm of Frank Brown, of Carlton, Or., and consisted of five Southdown ewes, a ram and four shorthorn cattle.

The Southdown breed of sheep is considered nearly ideal in its mutton form, and as Mr. Brown's sheep are choice representatives of the breed choice representatives of the breed they will give the short course students a splendid idea of the type of mutton sheep which the best breeders are trying to produce. Among the shorthorns is a white bull, "Wapato," which created such a favorable impression at the short course last year. By sending to the Executive Board for valuations the ordinance granting the Mount Hood Railway & Power Company a franchise to sell electricity within the city, the street committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon placed its approval on the ordinance. After the Executive Board acts on the franchise, it will go to the Council for final adoption. No action was taken on the proposed franchise for the same company for a street railroad. Several new clauses for the protection of the city were placed in the ordinance yesterday, upon recommendation of City Attorney Grant. The more important of these is the provision preventing the Mount Hood Company from merging or entering into any agreement with any civiliar expects to limit competition. similar concern to limit competition. City Attorney Grant also had included in the franchise a provision, required by the charter, that the Council should have the right at any time to fix the rates to be charged for electricity. At torney Fulton, representing the com-pany, made objection to having that clause included in the franchise, arguing that even if it were in the charter it should not be included in the fran-chise, but his objections were overruled. Then he wanted it changed so as to add the words 'just and reason-able," to qualify the sentence requiring the fixing of rates and this was allowed by the committee over the objections of the City Attorney.

It was recommended by Mr. Grant that the ordinance be so arranged as to require the company to furnish a cer-tain number of lights to the city free and to limit the amount to be charged for street lights, but the committee failed to authorize this provision.
