

WASHINGTON GOES TO ALASKA'S AID

Senate Adopts Memorial Urging Legislative Power for Far North.

ZONE NOT READY, SAY TWO

Both Houses Adjourn Until Monday After Short Session - Senator Piper Opposes Early Rest After Preaching Economy.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 20.—(Special.)—During the session the Senate was in session this morning before adjourning until Monday, members took part in a spirited discussion of the House memorial Alaska and congress to pass a bill creating a territorial legislative body in Alaska.

Senator Espey of Pacific, and Senator Eastham of Oregon, who favored conditions were not ripe in Alaska for a legislative body as yet, and that to give legislative powers to the territory would result in placing Alaska more completely in the hands of the "special interests."

Senator Bryan of Kansas, Hutchinson of Spokane, and that of Hurston, supported the memorial. Ruth said that legislative powers granted to Alaska would aid in its industrial development. He referred to the conservation policy as seriously affecting Alaska and that he would be glad to vote for another resolution condemning Pinchot, but to vote, Espey and Eastham were the only members who voted against the memorial.

Senator Piper of King, and Senator Rosenhaupt of Spokane, opposed adjourning until Monday. Eighteen bills were introduced, one by Beyer of Columbia, granting females exemption from jury duty, and one by Kniss of King, striking out the contributory negligence section of the present liability law.

Realty Record Bill Passes.

STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Or., Jan. 20.

(Special.)—Malarkey's bill eliminating the five days allowed in which to place on record conveyances of real property met with decisive opposition in the Senate this morning, but was finally passed by 17 to 5, five being absent. The bill was opposed by Abraham, Nottingham and Joseph, the entire question revolving around whether more fraud is possible under the present system than under the plan proposed.

SCHOOL FACES MUTINY

PORTLAND BOY AT SEATTLE CHAMPIONS ARMY TACTICS.

Arthur E. Lindborg Holds Students to Military Drilling Though Science Is Unpopular.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, Jan. 20.—(Special.)—In the face of bitter opposition upon the part of the student body, especially the taking of military drill at the university, Arthur Emanuel Lindborg, living at 1170 Patton avenue, Portland, who is a student of the University of Washington, is facing a condition not heretofore imposed upon a student officer in the military department of the university.

Mr. Lindborg is a graduate of the Portland High School in 1908, holding the position of senior adjutant of the regiment. He has had previous military training while living at Portland, in Company F, Third Regiment of the National Guard. Lindborg came into favor with Capt. William T. Patton at the head of the department of military science. He has taken a decided standing on the matter of military drill, although he is not the head student officer of the regiment, he has been for the past several months the most active student member in the military corps to come to the front to defend the military tactics.

Military drill has never been so unpopular among the large majority of the students as this year. But Mr. Lindborg intends to defend it as long as it remains an officer. The faculty strongly indorses the stand of the Portland officer.

"It is my belief that military drill has come to the University of Washington to stay," said Mr. Lindborg today, and in respect to defend it as long as I remain in college. I have been the object of no little criticism here in this matter by the students, but I believe it to be for the best. Comparing the American and Japanese students, regarding their attitude, I will be emphatic in saying that the little yellow race of the Pacific have a greater, militant spirit than our own boys. They are the first to purchase their suits and register for the course, and when told that they must be excused are highly indignant and regret that they cannot stand in line with the stalwart American.

"The American boy milks when he puts on his suit, begrudges that he must take the science which would be for the best aid to his country in event of war; but the talk that the war with Japan is probable seems not in the least to worry them. The little Japs see great benefit in the opportunity of obtaining the rudiments of military tactics, while our American students seem not to care."

PRESENT LAW IS FAVORED

Oregon Dairymen Want No Change in Oleomargarine Law.

HUBBARD, Or., Jan. 20.—(Special.)—At the recent convention of the Oregon Dairyman's Association at Eugene a resolution was adopted favoring the present oleomargarine law and urging Senators and Representatives in Congress to allow no tampering with the law.

The present law compels the manufacturer to pay a tax of 10 cents a pound if the product is colored in imitation of butter and 4-cent per pound if uncolored. The manufacturers of oleomargarine are striving hard to get the tax reduced to 2 cents per pound regardless of color. This would bring it in almost direct competition with butter—a thing that the Dairyman's Association realizes would ruin their industry.

FLOOD BURSTS DAM

RELIEF PARTY RESCUES

Crushed House Part of Widespread Devastation From Great Storm Near Corvallis Slides Cause Large Damage.

CORVALLIS, Or., Jan. 20.—(Special.)—A tragedy was narrowly averted on Woods Creek early Thursday morning, as a result of the heavy rains and high water. Woods Creek went on a rampage and tore out the dam of the Noon sawmill, precipitating the pent up waters of the millpond into the valley below. The flood, dangerous in itself, was made doubly so by the large amount of drift and sawlogs carried on its crest.

The home of William Kerby lay directly in the path of the flood and was soon enveloped in the raging waters. A heavy sawlog, coming end on with the swift current, struck the house with the force of a projectile and literally plowed its way through the building, reducing it to a shapeless pile of wreckage. The rising water being crushed by the falling roof by the bedstead that proved strong enough to carry the load until relief came early in the morning.

The rescuing party had to cut a way into the imprisoned victims of the disaster. Mr. and Mrs. Kerby were but slightly injured.

The flood demolished the Noon Railway up Woods Creek and the wagon bridges along the valley. The Marys River is reported to have been higher at Philomath than at any time since 1890, a period of 20 years.

The heavy rains of the present week have wrought wide-spread havoc with the hill roads in various parts of the county. Landslides at home have been quite generally put out of commission and reports are coming in slow, but the list of washouts and landslides continues to grow and indicates that the roads are being demoralized and damage done that will require much time, labor and expense to repair.

Mr. J. W. Vineyard reports an extraordinary number of landslides in the Mountain View district. Five can be seen from the Vineyard home. One of these was over two acres in extent and larger ones are being reported. A large slide on the James Fraser place threatened to demolish the barn. Another on the Perry Patten farm completely filled the canyon and blocked the county road. This slide happened Wednesday afternoon. The avalanche of earth swept down the hill carrying away 100 yards of fence and threatened to engulf a valuable prune orchard, but stopped before serious damage was done.

High water also caused much inconvenience and did quite a little damage in the Mountain View neighborhood. Horace Locke's new house, recently completed, was flooded, and it is reported that the basement was nearly filled with mud by the torrents.

The Sulphur Springs road is completely blocked by land slides.

YAQUINA RIVER ON RAMPAGE

Streams Around Newport Carry Out Bridges and Cause Havoc.

NEWPORT, Or., Jan. 20.—This section of country was visited by one of the heaviest wind and rain storms in many years on Wednesday night and all day Thursday, while tides reached the highest point known for many years past. Telephone lines were completely cut off. Tenins on the Corvallis Eastern were unable to get past Bissett. No mail has been received here since Tuesday evening.

At Elk City much damage was done by floods in the Big Elk and Yaquina rivers. A bridge sawmill with the mills above Elk City, washed out. One span of a bridge across the Yaquina went down and William Enos and a lad named Hoffman, who were standing on the bridge when it broke away, were carried down with the wreck, narrowly escaping with their lives.

Another bridge at Elk City, connecting Hopkins & Enos' sawmill with the Corvallis Eastern, was carried out by the water and many buildings were damaged. C. I. Morrison's store was inundated and the goods much damaged. E. E. Wilson's bathhouse and pleasure launch were swept away. The launch was picked up at Yaquina. Much damage was done to diked tide lands, dikes breaking and being washed out. The flood in the Yaquina and Big Elk rivers is the highest since 1907. The Yaquina River is reported at the highest stage ever known.

FLOOD VICTIM'S BODY FOUND

Remains of Joshua H. Smith Recovered in Mill Creek.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 20.—(Special.)—The body of Joshua H. Smith, who lost his life in Mill Creek at the Winter-street bridge when he attempted to ford the creek at the height of the storm Wednesday night, was found today by H. I. Ellis, one of a searching party which began the search early Thursday morning.

A piece of rope was tied about the man's body. This rope had been made fast to him in an attempt to rescue him from the water Wednesday night. The body was found close to shore in a back eddy of the creek, and was covered by bushes and debris.

Mr. Smith was a member of Chemeketa Lodge of Oddfellows and of the local G. A. R. post.

Chinook Reaches Baker.

BAKER, Or., Jan. 20.—(Special.)—The unusually warm weather which has prevailed here for the last few days has caused the snow in the mountains to melt very rapidly and all streams are swollen. A warm wind from the southwest hit this section last night, which melted the snow very fast. Last night a light snow began falling but changed to rain, which caused the streams to rise to their full capacity.

Flood in Rogue River Recedes.

which has hovered over the Valley for a week ceased for a time today, but a snow storm commenced early this evening and promises to continue throughout the night.

Little Snow Melted by Rain.

ALBANY, Or., Jan. 20.—(Special.)—Very little of the heavy snow in the mountains of this part of the state melted during the recent heavy rains. This fact, which was learned here today from reports from various mountain districts, accounts for the condition that the Willamette River and other streams did not rise as high as was expected. The unprecedented heavy rains left very much more water standing on lowlands over the country than in any flood in years and this condition led to the belief that a record-breaking flood might be expected.

3 BRIDGE BILLS PASSED

IDAHO SENATE FAVORS SPAN OVER SNAKE RIVER. Republicans and Democrats Unite on Measures Carrying $50,000 Fund—Junkets Favored.

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 20.—(Special.)—Through a combination formed between Democrats and Republicans in the State Senate today, three state bridge bills were passed carrying heavy appropriations.

The principal bridge is to be built at a cost of $25,000 across the Snake River between Canyon County, Idaho, and Malheur County, Oregon, within a half-mile of Payette. The others are a $10,000 bridge across the Salmon River in Custer County and a $15,000 bridge across the Snake River near Glenn's Ferry.

To pass the Idaho-Oregon bridge bill introduced by Senator Shawhan, it was necessary to issue a call of the Senate. The Senate was locked and the Sergeant-at-Arms was ordered to bring in the missing Senators. There was not a dissenting vote against the measure on the final roll call.

The Senate changed its mind today regarding "junketing trips" to state institutions, and voted to support the House resolution. A week ago the Senate voted a protest against junkets and refused to support the resolution.

The junketing committees are required to make an investigation of the institutions and report in detail to the Legislature.
