LIFE OF MOST PIONEER PAPERS IN OREGON COUNTRY WAS VERY BRIEF

Although The Oregonian Had Several Predecessors, They Soon Succumbed and Numerous Other Publications That Started Later Enjoyed but Short Existence.

By George R. Wilson, Assistant Secretary

MAN WHO HELPED INSTITUTE FIRST CIVIL GOVERNMENT IS STILL LIVING

Francis X. Mathieu Was One of Two to Cast Deciding Vote for United States in Historic Convention Held at Champaign on May 2, 1860.

By George R. Wilson, Assistant Secretary

TELLING STORIES of Francis X. Mathieu, whose country is the United States, are unique. In 1860, he was still living in Fort Benton, Montana, and visiting with friends. He was one of two to cast the deciding vote for the United States in the historic convention held at Champaign on May 2, 1860.

FIRST OREGON FLAG STILL WAVES

The old Oregon flag still waves proudly, a symbol of the state's rich history.

By George R. Wilson, Assistant Secretary

The old Oregon flag still waves proudly, a symbol of the state's rich history.