SENATE APPROVES

All-After Squabble in Washington Upper House Passes Measure, 24 to 16.

"DRYS" AND "WETS" FIGHT

Ruth Plends Against It, Citing His Need of Liquor Under Doctors' Orders-Administration Men Firm-House May Kill It.

OLYMPIA. Wash., Feb. 20.-(Special.)-After a heated debate on the county unit bill which consumed the entire afternoon, the Senate passed the measure without amendment. Senator Ruth, of Thurston, fought the bill on the ground that it was too sweeping. Although Senators Nichols and Collins, of King, Jensen of Pierce and Shafer of Spokane offered amendments, the administration lineup remained firm throughout the discussion and the bill was carried by Senator Metcalf, one of the leaders of Senator Metcalf, one of the leaders of the "drya" moved the previous question immediately at the close of the reading of the bill for the purpose of cutting off debate, but Senator Collins was on the flow at the same time and President Paulhamus permitted him to offer an amendment exempting the second and third-class cities from the county-unit plan. Following this incident, Senator Buth exclaimed: Plan. Following Ruth exclaimed:

"I serve notice right now that if they are going to spring this gag rule right at the start. I'll move for reconsideration at the proper time. We won't stand for that sort of thing."

Outside Control Feared.

"I am in favor of regulating saloons in the right way," said Collins, "but if you allow this bill to pass in the way you have, you will permit the people in outlying territory to control the towns. You will be forcing on the towns which I have included in my amendment something they do not want. You can't get respect for law or proper enforcement of law in this manner. I simply want these towns to be allowed to decide this cuestion for themselves.

The Collins amendment was lost by 14 to 26. Senator Nichols moved to amend by making second, th'rd and fourth-class cities separate units. His amendment was lost, 23 to 17.

of Bellingham and Everett to vote again on the question. In fact, that whole provision was inserted by the authors of this bill for the sole and deliberate purpose of keeping these cities from doing what they now want to do.

"Those cities have gone 'dry' and they are heartly tired of it. I say right here now that the entire object is to keep those people from a chance to vote."

Everett Is Satisfied.

The people of Everett don't care whether the gentleman throws a brainstorm or not," shouted Falconer, whose home is at Everett. They voted 'dry' and they knew what they wanted."
"Yes, and the gentleman from Thurston came down there and made a speech and he did not change them, inter-jected Senator Brown, of Whatcom.
"The provision these people have in-jected in their bill," snapped Senator Nichols, is in keeping with the general plan they offer, "heads I win, tails you lose."

The amendment was lost by 26 to 14,

The amendment was lost by 25 to 14, a relicall having been demanded from all parts of the House, each side wanting to put the other on record.

Senator Shaefer, of Spokane, offered an amendment to strike from the bill the clause preventing an appeal from a Superior Court ruling on the validity of signatures attached to a petition for local option election, but the motion lost.

Beverages in Danger.

"I move to strike out the clause which would prevent the sale of any substitute for an intoxicating liquor." said Senator Rosenhaupt, of Spokane. "I don't know what the purpose was for putting that in. That would prevent the sale of many delightful beverages, soft drinks and many kinds of near beer, none of which comes within the view of this act, at least in the estimation of the Government Pure Food Bureau. We have a number of thriving factories in this state manufacturing factories in this state manufacturing those beverages that are in no way

"I am surprised at the gentleman from Spokane," said Falconer, who evi-dently referred to the fact that Rosen-haupt was a signer of the bill. "Near-beer and such things are what we want to get at."

"Oh wells if that is the way the gen-tleman feels about it, I will withdraw the amendment." replied Rosenhaupt, smiling in the direction of his co-author, Senator Jensen moved to amend by striking out the clause excepting the sale of "preparations compounded by registered pharmacists, the sale of which would not subject them to the payment of a special Federal liquor H-cense."

Druggists' View Told.

"Some of the gentlemen may be surprised at my making this amendment," said Senator Jensen, who is an officer of the Washington State Association of Druggists. "Til tell you right now, the druggists don't want this liquor business. You fellows can hustle around and run these men out and then run them into the drugstores. No, sir, the druggists don't want this business."

and run these men out and then them into the drugstores. No, sir, the drugstores don't want this business."

Senator Ruth offered to amend by substituting "five gallons" for the words "one quart" in the paragraph specifying the amount of liquor allowed to be taken by one man for his own use from "wet" to "dry" territory.

"Til tell you why I want that to be five gallens," shouted Ruth. "Say this county goes 'dry' and I need some liquor. If I want a quart I go to Tacoma once a week. I have to make as many trips as I want quarts, and I want to say that there are a great many men who consider they have a right to have liquor in their own homes. This will force me to break the law or go to Tacoma more than once a week. go to Tacoma more than once a week. I drink more than a quart every week because physicians tell me that I should do it and there are many others in the same fix I'm in, and not one of you men of fix I'm in, and not one of you men over say that you have seen me

Own Liquor Wanted.

This bill would make some of the best men in Washington break the law. I'll tell you right now I'll break the law and I'll do something to the man who attempts to go in my private house and stop me. I hold that I have a right to bring into my private house whatever liquor I may want solely for myself and that no man has a right to prevent me. If that is the kind of stuff you are going to try to put over us, let's see you do it."

Stevenson moved to substitute one gallon for five gallons, and Ruth accepted the substitute motion.

Senator Ruth's speech outlining the necessity he is under to use liquor for medicinal purposes was perhaps the necessity he is under to use ilquor for medicinal purposes was perhaps the most dramatic incident of the session. Ruth has been in ill health for several weeks, and it is well known that he is under the constant direction of his physician, and many of his friends have been fearful that he would overtax his strength in debate. Probably due to the Senators' personal knowledge of Ruth's case, the vote to permit a man to carry Senators' personal knowledge of Ruth's case, the vote to permit a man to carry one gallon of liquor into dry territory made the first perious inroad on the co-authors' combination. However, the amendment lost by a vote of 20 to 18, and the bill passed without change.

Ruth referred to the failure of the local option law in several states, in-

Last Legislative Days Promise to Be Strenuous.

60-DAY SESSION CLOSING

General Scramble to Secure Pas sage of Bills and Save Other Bills From "Junkheap" Will Be Seen in Boise Now.

BOISE. Idaho, Feb., 20.—(Special.)—With the eve of the eleventh Legislature close at hand, and many of the most important bills not as yet disposed of, the few remaining days of the session may well be considered strenuous ones wherein a great deal of legislation will be enacted.

In the rush to bring the session to a close within the 60-day limit, which runs into March, there will be a general scramble to secure the passage of bills and to save other measures from the legislative junk heap.

Senator Jerome J. Day spoke for the Clearwater County division bill when it came up in the committee of the whole the latter part of last week. He stated that the section of Nez Perce County located tributary to Orofino, which wished to be segregated from the old county, is entitled to recognization at the hands of the Senate and should pass. He received the support of the majority of the Senate although Senator Whitaker, of Lemhi County, voted against and attempted to kill the measure.

if the Lewis County measure is sent to the Governor this week.

Because he was bound by a party plank to sign a bill strengthening the local option law, Governor Hawley affixed his signature to the "search and seigure" bill introduced in the Senate by 12 Republican Senators and passed in the House early last week. Governor Hawley, however, did not take the step until after he had burned midnight oil endeavoring to find some section of it that was unconstitutional, for he is firmly of the belief that the bill is a vicious measure and that it will virtually mean absolute prohibition in those counties that are "dry" under the local option law.

It permits officers to use as prima facte evidence against a defendant the liquor found on his person or premises, and allows the raiding and searching of all questionable business houses as well as the seizure and absolute confiscation of any and all liquors.

Pressure was brought to bear upon Governor Hawley to sign the bill. He had actually prepared a veto message and intended sending this to the Senate. However Democratic party leaders learned of his attitude and immediately brought every possible pressure to bear upon Governor Hawley to result to bear upon Governor Hawley to passible pressure to bear upon Governor Hawley to have Fish Hatchery Question Now Only Needs Government's Sanction.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Feb. 26.—(Special.)—Now that the bill has passed both houses of the Oregon Legislature and there is a very good reason to believe that it will receive the official sanction of Governor West appropriating $200 for a fish hatchery for Spring Creek, on the Klamath Indian reservation, the people of this city have again renewed their efforts to get the Federal Government set aside sufficient water and grounds at the head of this stream for this hatchery. The Klamath Chamber of Commerce took this matter up with Congressman Hawley more than a year ago and urged him to have Congress set aside a place for a trout hatchery on the Indian reservation on the famous front waters of Spring Creek, but to date no action has come of this request. Upon the word reaching here that the Oregon Senate had appropriated funds for this hatchery the Klamath Chamber of Commerce immediate the effort for getting KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Feb. 20 .- (Spe Klamath Chamber of Commerce immediately renewed the effort for getting this site set aside and have forwarded a telegram to Congressman Hawley asking that he take action along that line.
