NEW BETTING RING MENACES BASEBALI

Kentucky Syndicate Is Making Books on Results in Big Leagues.

CLUB MAGNATES UNEASY

Gambiers Offer Many Combinations to Sportive Followers of Game. Ball Chiefs Will Take Steps to Check Move.

NEW YORK. Feb. 27.—There were received here today by express from Kentucky circulars of a betting syndicate which offers to accept bets on the outcome of the approaching pennant races in the National and American baseball leagues and the American Association and also on clubs against series.

The circular caused some uneasiness among haseball men here who were quick to denounce the scheme and it is understood that immediate steps will be taken by officials of the leagues to check, if possible, what they consider a menace to the National game.

Gambling has long been taboosed in professional baseball and the feeling seems general that if it is brought into the game, it will be to the detriment of a sport that is now clean and healthy.

Bookmakers Are Blamed.

Bookmakers Are Blamed.

Some persons attribute the new scheme to bookmakers whose revenue has been cut off by the passage of anti-racetrack betting laws. The syndicate announces in its circular that it is willing to accept bets of its or over, which shall be sent by express, telegraph or telephone.

According to the book it has planned, eight to fire is offered that New York will not finish first in the National League race. That the team will not finish second, I to 5 is offered, and for third place, I to 4 is quoted.

In the American League, Philadelphia is the favorite at 6 to 5 to win, I to 2 for second place, and I to 5 for third place.

Many Combinations Offered.

In addition to bets on the pennant races, the offer is made to lay edds on the standing of the clubs in midseason. In fact, every sort of imaginable combination for wagering is offered enthusiasts. Five years ago baseball came near breaking up because of open gambling. The layers of odds followed the teams about the circuits and openly made books in the spectators stands. The players fell in with the gamblers and games were thrown.

This brought the situation to a climax, and seeing the ruination of the game facing them, the club owners formulated stringent rules against betting in their parks. They even went so far as to refuse admittance to known gamblers. In addition to bets on the pennant turned to normal, and since then base-ball has flourished and is now known the world over as one of the cleanest of professional sports.

FACULTY TO FAVOR PLANS

President Foster, of New College, Declares Intercollegiate Athletics Will Not Be Allowed for First Three Years.

Dr. William T. Foster, president of Reed College, yesterday made public an efficial statement of the athletic policy of the institution in which he says athletics of many kinds will be fostered and encouraged. Intercollegiate athletics, however, will not be permitted for the first three years, and will later be left to the discretion of the faculty.

By the edict of Mr. Foster it is not meant that there will be an intercollegiate ban, nor is there any desire to discourage athletics of this kind. The policy to be instituted will be the en-miscourage athletics of this kind. The policy to be instituted will be the encouragement of outdoor sports for men and women alike.

Reed College will have the finest athletic fields in the State of Oregon if not in the Northwest; in fact, it will be one of the few colleges in the United States which have athletic fields for both men and women. Speaking of the athletic plans President Foster said:

Two Athletic Fields Planned.

"In general, the policy of Reed Colhealth of all its students, men and women aliks, by encouraging participation in outdoor sports of many kinds. The present plans for grounds and buildings include a gymnasium and an athletic field for women, as well as a gymnasium and an athletic field for men. The faculty will be for the most part men who enjoy vigorous outdoor sports and regularly take part in them and can enter sympathetically into the sports of the students.

"For the first three years, however,

"For the first three years, however, there will be no intercollegiate athletics. This will be necessary, if for no other reason, because the college expects to admit no upperclass men and to make its standards of admission such that the first classes probably will be small. Interclass contests will be encouraged Interclass contests will be encouraged from the beginning and the policy of the institution, as far as athletics is concerned, will be well satisfied if sufficient encouragement is given to prompt every student to participate every day in outdoor sports in the right spirit.

The later policy will be left to the discretion of the faculty, with this provise, that if there is ever any conflict between the moral and intellectual interests of the college and the interests of athletics, there is no question which will be obliged to suffer.

Opinions Are Varied.

Capron was able to cover a great deal of ground and few fly balls got away from him. His base running, too, was good and he hit abeut the 250 mark.

Last year when the shakeup of the Seattle team was made. Capron was traded to Vancouver and during the first part of the season hit and fielded finely and covered himself with glory. Later in the season an injury kept him out of the game, his hitting fell off and he finished the season batting only 207. His fielding, too, slumped somewhat, and his grand average was 319. He only played in 25 games during the season. "Whether intercollegiate games should not too much to declare that the frantic use of the lungs under the incentive of organized cheering is but an imperfect substitute for all-round exercise.

The excesses of athletics are now notorious. Surely, it is not the remedy, but the will and the courage to apply it which are lacking. Individuals are loath to brook the scorn of a public which is ready at any time to become almost frantic over intercollegiate sports. Faculties declare that they wish to cut down the advertising value of the games is so great, and competition for students is so is seen. To this there is one reply: no means of attracting students can be justified which is inconsistent with the best care of the students who are attracted.

"This truth will one day prevail. Then the prospective student will not loom so large in faculty councils, and the notion that more numbers is any criterion of the worth of an institution will have found its historical place in the sorry company of educational absurdities. Then, too, we shall be nearer the ideal aspremnacy of intellectual and moral institutions of education."
