FIGHT FOR POPULAR ELECTIONS IS WON

Passing of Aldrich Element in Senate Changes Outlook for Amendment.

LORIMER NOT YET SAFE

Reopening of Case Will Lead to Retirement of Other Senators in 1913-Further Proof of Fraud Now Sought.

BY HARRY J. BROWN.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington March 5.—Control of the United States Senate by the "Old Guard" is at an end. Adjournment yesterday not only marked the passing of Aldrich and Hale, but a score of their faithful and subservient tools who, for years, have made bossism possible and successful. When the new Senate organizes it will be undernew leaders, and in lieu of the machine that has made the Senate infamous in the eyes of the public for many a year will spring up a working Republican majority that knows no boss.

With the exception of Senator Bevering, of Indiana, every Republican Senator whose term expired March 4 was a moldier in the Aldrich army. Every one save Beveridge acknowledged the leadership of Aldrich, took orders from Aldrich and, on every important occasion, permitted Aldrich to shape his vote. Twelve members of the Old Guard passed into private life on Saturiay, more than enough to give the opposing Republican faction control of the next caucus. Hence the passing of the Old Guard.

Popular Election in Sight. BY HARRY J. BROWN

Popular Election in Sight.

This change in the make-up of the Senate will result in a marked change in the character of legislation that will be passed by the next Congress. The elimination of Aidrich and 11 of his followers makes possible the passage through the next Senate of a resolution providing for a constitutional amendment looking to the popular election of Senators. It probably opens the way to further action on the case of Senator Lorimer, of Tillingly, and in many respects it makes Illinois; and in many respects it makes a possible for President Taft, if he can vin over the good will of the Democratic House of Representatives, to push through several Administration measures that heretofore have been throttled by

It was demonstrated last week that a vast majority of the Senate is today in favor of a popular elections amendment to the Constitution, but the Borah reso-lution proposing such an amendment failed because of the adverse votes of the Old Guard. Seven members of the Old Court who retired on Saturday voted igalist this resolution, more than enough to defeat it. These men will not have another chance to vote on this proposal, for it will pass the next Senate, and they will not be here to vote. Burrows, Depsw. Dick, Flint, Hale, Kean and Scutt have been succeeded by men who, almost without exception, will favor popular election of Senators.

Effort Will Be Renewed.

That a resolution similar to the Bornh resolution of the late Congress will be reported early to the next Senate can be taken for granted. There will be three vacancies on the juniciary committee to which this resolution is referred, and as would provide insufficient revenues the Senate probably would amend it at once. In the event of supremacy of the In the short sension was such a resolution ever reported to the Senate Coming at such a time, the chances were all against it. But the Senate will be barely Republican, with a portion of its majority comprised of fight led by Senator Borah has not been in vain. It has demonstrated what has long been a question of doubt, that a very large majority of the Senate, when forced to act, is favorable to the change. forced to act, is favorable to the change.

The vote for popular elections was 54 to 32, only four short of the necessary two-thirds. With such a record to build some conservative Democrats are alon. Senator Borah can easily count en success in the next Congress, especially as he will introduce his popular elections resolution promptly and press it to early consideration. The infusion of new blood into the Senate will supply the necessary votes to pass it, and within a year this proposal will be submitted to the various Legislatures for ratifica-

Lorimer Case Not Ended.

As to the Lorimer case, the end is not yet, if those behind the fight are to be believed. A commission is now at work in Illinois gathering new evidence of fraud. That evidence will be submitted to the new Senate, and a further inquiry will be ordered. Such investigation will have to be made by the committee on partitioges and elections, of which Mr. Heyburn, of Idaho, is likely to be chairman. While Mr. Heyburn is one of Lorimer's stannest supporters, he will not mer's stanchest supporters, he will not be able to withstand the demand for fur-ther inquiry into the Lorimer case, for if he refuses to act voluntarily, the Sen-ate will, by vote, direct him or some other chairman to proceed, and the new evidence will be introduced.

Lorimer was successful on the recent vote because the Old Guard stood by him. Many of the men who voted for Lorimer voted against popular elections, as did Lorimer himself. Many of these same men retired on March 4, never to return to So close was the vote on Lorimer that it is generally believed that if the case is reopened, a majority will be found against the Illinois boss, and in the end he will be removed, be-cause of the proved fraud that was prac-ticed by members of the Illinois Legis-lature that elected him.

Reckoning to Come Later.

In the syss of the country Lorimer's opponents unquestionably won a victory, though they lost in the Senate. That this is true will be proved later when some of the Senators who voted for Lorimer go before their people and ask for re-election. The Lorimer case will cause the retirement of more than one Senator who voted for the Illinois man, and particularly will this be true among Senators whose terms expire March 4, 1911.

The passing of the Oid Guard marks the close of a most important epoch in the history of the United States Senate; an epoch that will never be equaled in many respects. What the new era will bring forth no one is prepared to say. What sort of an organization will be perfected is a matter of speculation as yet. But certain it is that the licutenants and the privates who served loyally the domineering Aldrich w'll find themselves in the rear of the procession when the new Senate gets into action, and never will they have it in their the corresponding month a year ago.

IDAHO LEGISLATURE

CRY OF "ROBBER" INCITES

enstors Day and Page Clash and Hall Is Thrown Into Wild Uproar Until Combatants Are Led Out of Room.

BOISE, Idaho, March 5 .- (Special.)-Although the 11th Legislature of this state will go down into history as adjourning sine die at midnight last night, both houses dragged their work into today, when they tailed to agree upon the appropriations bill and punctuated their proceedings with a fistic encounter, in which Senators Jerome J. Day, of Moscow, and O. P. Page, of Bonner County, were the participants. Blood was drawn. Page's face was lacerated and Senator Day has a discolored optic.

The personal clash took place in the Senate chamber during a recess, just before 2 o'clock this morning. It was caused from a disagreement over the appropriation provision for the state educational institutions, and had been brewing for some time. Page said the approhouses dragged their work into today, ing for some time. Page said the appropriation bill carried a "joker." This angered Day, who replied that Page had angered Day, who replied that Page had it in for the university.

"The University of Idaho is nothing but a pack of robbers anyway, and you are the worst one of the gang," replied Page, in deadly earnest, addressing his remark directly to Day.

In a moment Day and Page had clashed, the former lunging forward and striking Page in the mouth. The two Senators brushed aside the deaks, chairs and pages' stools. Page landed a blow on Day's eye. They were parted, but again they broke from the grasp of friends, and this time struggled fiercely for several minutes. Day was knocked to the foor and Page fell over him. When they were parted Page had Day by the throat and the two were bleeding. They are considered the two largest men in the Senate.

Senate.

Page was led struggling into the president's room and Day was taken from the chamber by his friends. The Senate was in an uproar.

After wrangling over the appropriation bills during this morning and the appointment of many conference committees, the House and Senate smally agreed to make substantial appropriations to the schools regardless of the mill tax. All bills are to be enrolled and by agreement quorums are to remain until tomorrow morning to correct the journal.

Before Dr. Aked left this city on his return to New York, he said that he believed that the Fifth-Avenue Church might be discontinued because "it is enly accessible to people who come in enly accessible to people who come in automobiles.

"At the present time," he continued, "the trustees of the New York church are looking for a church site to which people may ride in streetcars, and where the congregation will not all be in the automobile class.

"All the billions in the world," he said, "could not compensate a prencher who thought that his message was not going into the hearts of his congregation. But I have had no differences with my congregation although the difficulties have been legion."

"Did the wealthy members of the congregation ever try to dictate to you any questions of church policy or topic for your sermons?" he was asked.

"No, they have never tried to inquence me in any way," he replied.
"Our relations have always been of the happiest nature. I feel honored to have such members—you know to whom I might refer—in my congregation. be attempted.
