banquet started off serenly enough, having for its object the set-tlement of the difficulties between the sanitary experts and the producers or dairy interests.

dairy interests.

C. C. Chapman said the call was issued by the promotion committee for the purpose of seeing if some sort of a solution could be arrived at for the revival of the dairy industry in the state. He said the banquet was the forum to bring about mutnal understanding and co-operation among producer, consumer and retailer of milk. All were opposed to the dirty dairy and between the dairy and the health of the between the dairy and the health of the people the dairy would go in Oregon, said Mr. Chapman, for health was more vital than industry.

The toastmaster set the ball rolling by alluding to the deplorable condition of the dairy industry in Oregon. Statistics showed that in 1909 the value of the products of the dairy was $17,-808,800 and for 1919 $14,800,000, a shrinkage of $3,000,000.

"During the year," said the speaker,
"there were shipped out of the state 1300 carloads of cows and only one car came in. Fifty per cent of the butter used in Portland is shipped from out of the state." The first evidence of alarm came with the talk of Dr. Wheeler. On being called upon he pulled from beneath the called upon he pulled from beneath the banquet table a good-sized "test chest," used by health officers for the display of bottles of milk. He opened it on the table and spread out before the banqueters six or cight bottles of milk. In reading the label on bottle No. I he said it contained 20 per cent milk. of importations of butter and cheese amounted to $702,000 during the year for the city of Portland alone. "All this money was paid to people out of the state, and much of it went to lows, Nebraska and Dakota to pay for butter," he said.

for butter," he said.

Rev. Henry Russell Talbot referred to the fact that one speaker had told of the loss suffered by the dairy business in the state, and the immone sums of money paid in the East for supplies, but he wanted to present some figures. They told of the death of 49 bables to one month in Portland from drink-and Senator Nottingham called out

"How do you know?"

Smith Is Speaker.

Dr. Andrew C. Smith caused some excitement when he referred to the statement of the "reverend gentleman" as being absolutely true. "And the as being absolutely true. "And the gentleman over there (pointing to Sentor Nottingham) should not have hissed the gentleman of cloth, when he said that bad milk caused the death, of babies."

Senator Nottingham replied: "I did not hiss."

"I asked how he knew the milk killed the babies?"

"Well, you knew it did and you are an undesirable citizens when you give expression to such thoughts," was the releinder of the litate member of the State Board of Health.

Dr. Smith continued to dwell on the danger of bad milk to the infants of the city, county and stats. He referred to some of the existing conditions, which came under his personal observation and said it was a shame. However, he believed the solution lay in the improvement of the sanitary methods of the dairjes and the willingness of the dairjes and the willingness of the dairymen to produce pure and wholesome milk.

Fault Is Dairymen's.

to the failure of the dairymen to improve their herds by selection.

Dr. Calvin S. White referred to the tuberculin test and the work which had been performed along this line. He cutilined the work in connection with the testing of milk and the visits made at some of the dairies.

Senator Philpott, of Hillsboro, said he was only an ordinary cowman and that a banquet was as bad to face for him as a bunch of kicking cows. However, he believed that the solution was for the dairymen to organize and bar any milkman who sold bad milk. He was followed by Thomas Withycombe, of the Jersey Club, and Dr. J. P. Tamiesie, of Hillsboro.

It was Mrs. Lora C. Little, who caused something of a sensation, when responding to the call of the toastmaster she attacked the tuberculin tests advocated by Dr. Calvin S. White. She quoted largely the testimony of the Hilling's commission that investigated the proposition. She asserted that it was too delicate and too unreliable for common use. Tubercular germs in their primary stages, she said, were was too delicate and too unreliable for common use. Tubercular germs in their primary siages, she said, were harmless and the test on cows not affected by the germs was destructive of good milk and dangerous to health during the test. She demanded, in behalf of the Little Health Club, that the tuberculin test be eradicated as dangerous and inimical to the health of the people.

Grandstand Play Alleged.

Grandstand Play Alleged.

J. W. Balley. State Dairy and Food Commissioner, charged City Health Officer Wheeler with "carting down his dirty bottles of milk so as to make a "grand stand play for the people at the banquet."

"Why did he not bring some good milk," said Mr. Balley. "One would limagine there was no good milk in Portland, if you listened to Mr. Wheeler, I do not mean to charge that he said there was no good milk in the city, but he only brings the dirty bottles. It is time that we quit fiddling and begin sawing wood. I find that this banquet is a good-deal like a fiddle—you can play any kind of a tune you want. I do not believe the dairy industry is as bad as has been pictured. I do not believe it has gone behind. It is true that in Portland, and in a few of the adjoining countles, some have gone out of the business, but it is on the increase. In Tillamook, and in Coos Counties. One speaker has told of shipping in 17 cars of condensed milk. Why did not he tell you that we shipped 800 out of Washington County alone and it went all over the world."

W. W. Cotton closed in a ten minute address in which he told of his experience in being a "milkman." For ten years he said he had been keeping from 40 to 50 cows a year, and it was simply a question of not getting enough for the milk. He believed that when the land in the Williamette Valley was drained and irrigation used, then was it that the dairy industry would pay. For that reason he proposed the appointment of a committee to create a sort of milk, trust.

"Divide the town up among the milk dealers and get the right sort of economy in the delivery. The cost is hill in the delivery," he said. The motion to appoint such a committee carried.

Burns' victim is in a critical condition at a Walia Walia bospital and small hope is felt for his recovery as the bullet plerced his lung near the heart. Reader's family resides at 150 North Ninth street in Portland.

Joe Plover, special agent for the O.-W. R. & N. Co., believes Burns was responsible for several robberies throughout Oregon. He bus already gleaned much evidence, against the gun-wielder and has sent pictures of Burns broadcast asking police officials of Oregon particularly to inform him if they have any clews pointing to any one of his description.

Burns shot Conductor Reader on being discovered robbing a dining-car side-tracked at Lewiston. Shortly after his arrest he escaped from the jail here by digging through the wall with a knife and can-opener. A posse trailed him for $\mathbb{S}$ miles in this county. He was cap-tured by Deputy Sheriffs Cole and Carter near Palouse. Now he is locked in a steel cage. Burns says his father and mother live on a ranch in Marshall County, Indiana. He is 23 years old.

"CLIPPER JACK'S" RICH FATHER AIDS

Franklin, Pa., Lumberman Is Said to Be Working to Free Son Here.

DOCTORS EXAMINE HIM

Young Man Possessing Mania to Slash Braids and Curls Off Girls' Heads Will Be Tried Today.

It is understood that George Hulin, wealthy retired lumberman of Franklin. Pa., father of Stuart Morris Hulin. "Jack the Cilpper," has come to his son's aid and that no stone is being left unturned to extricate young Hulin from the difficulty in which he has found himself through his mania for cutting braids of hair and curls from young girls heads in Portland.

Insanity will be Hulin's defense in the Municipal Court this morning. He will be put on trial on charges of assault and larceny for cutting a braid off the head of Miss Ritter, a Lincoln High School girl, while she was shopping in a downtown department store.

Mania Not Permanent.

While the doctors who examined Hulin have not made a report it is understood that all agree that Hulin is not a subject for an insane asylum, as his fleeting mania only dispossesses him of his senses for short periods, and on all other subjects he is sane. The doctors may that similar cases are on medical record, although Hulin's differs in some particulars.

Hulin's father was telegraphed last Saturday night or Sunday morning, but it is not known if he will be on hand at the trial today. Young Hulin has a homestead in Lincoln County, which he commuted, and it is intimated that should his father refuse to come to his financial assistance the property will be placed at the hards of his stores peace and content.

"I shall prosecute this case to the best of my shility," said Deputy District Attorney Hennessey last night. "The report the state's physician makes on Hulin is revolting. Any effort to have him declared insane and send him to a private sanitarium or parole him into the custody of someone and remove him from the state without punishment will be resisted. Hulin's case is one that demands prosecution and is one that demands prosecution and I shall see that he gets all that is com-ing to him unless barred from doing so by insanity pleas."

COTTON MILL IS HEROD

M'KELWAY SAYS IT SLAYS INNO-CENTS AS RUTHLESSLY.

Child Labor on Increase, Particularly in South-Industries' Infants Need Protection.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 9 .- Cotton manufacturers, by means of lobbles in legislative halls, have obstructed child labor legislation, in the opinion of A. J. McKelway, secretary for the Southern States of the National Child Labor Committee, who addressed the seventh an-nual conference of the organization here

Referring to the plea of the cotton manufacturers at the tariff hearing in 1998 that cotton manufacture was an infant industry, Mr. McKelway said:

"If an infant industry is one that em-ploys infants, this is emphatically an infant industry. The cotton mill is the Herod among industries, and its slaugh-ter of the innocents continues in the 20th century. When next the cotton manufacturers come before the representatives of the American people, those representatives may well insist that pro-tection to infant industries must be prereded by some measure of protection for

He accused the manufacturers' lobbies which oppose child labor legislation of not only condemning children to the curse of child labor, but of holding back the states from the adoption of a stand-ard uniform child labor law. He said: "If the cotton mills cannot exist without the child labor system, with a wage scale too low to survive on American soil, the American people will contemplate with serenity the putting out of the factory fires.

"The census of 1900 shows that to a greater extent than any other manufac-turing or mechanical industry the cotton mill furnishes employment to children and that in the North about one cotton mill operative out of every 10 was from 10 to 15 years of age, while in the South the corresponding figures were about three of every ten."

That Feeling of Fullness

Disappears In Five Minutes After Taking a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

A Trial Package Sent Free On Request All of the unpleasant sensations attendant upon eating too heartily are instantly relieved by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. Like sticking a pin into a rubber balloon. The reason is simple and easy to understand.

When you take food into a stomach that is tired and over-taxed the gastric juices do not form fast enough to digest it properly. So the food becomes sour and at once begins to throw off gases. and at once begins to throw off gases. Your stomach becomes infiated just as surely as if you attached a toy balloon to a gas jet. Then the gases and foul odors issue forth and pollute your breath, making you an object of nausea to your friends. Your tongue quickly becomes coated and you can taste the foulness that is within you.

Now all this condition is changed almost instantly by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. This little digester gets busy at once—supplies all the digestive juices that were lacking—digests ive juices that were lacking—digests the food in a jiffy and opens up the clogged stomach and bowels. It also sweetens and refreshes the mucous lin-ing of the stomach and bowels and re-stores peace and content.

Athena Lawyer Gets Dismissal of Client's Case Against Him.

PENDLETON, Or., March 5.—(Special.)

—The unusual procedure of an attorney appearing in court as attorney for the plaintiff to ask dismissal of a case of which he was the defendant was witnessed here yesterday afternoon. The attorney was Homer I. Watts, of Athena, former University of Oregon athlete and graduate.

Several months ago Attorney Watts was employed by the heirs of Desire St. Dennis to sue their stepmother for pos-session of their father's estate. A few weeks ago the heirs came to Pendleton and through local attorneys began a suit against Attorney Watts, alleging that he had failed to give a proper accounting of money and notes left in Recently the Athena lawyer and his clients settled their difficulties. Armed with the proper power of attorney from them today Attorney Watts obtained dis-missal of the case against him. He threatens to bring sult for damages against the Pendleton lawyers who filed suit against him.
