General Says Army Will Only Act in Support of Civil Authorities.

MEXICANS TO BE DISARMED

if Men of Either Party Should Fly Acress Boundary, They Will Be Disarmed and Set Free if. Civil Powers Do Not Act.

SAN DIEGO, March 18.—General Blies, in command of the divisional brigade of the Army now occupying the field between the Colorado Bliver and the Facilic Ocean on the main border, defined tonight the status of the Army in relation to armed forces on either adds of the border as one simply in support of the civil authorities of the United States.

The quastion came up from Captain Bahoock, in command of the forces on patrol at Mexicali and Calculco Mexican customs officials crossed the international boundary line into the United States. While north of the line they returned the fire of insurrectos, who were on the Mexican aid: of the line, when the insurrectos fired upon them. Captain Bahoock asked for authority to arrhet the Mexican customs officials for violation of the neutrality laws. General Siles ordered him to take no action whatever.

"DOPE" SELLER IS CAUGHT

Policeman Buys Cocaine and Arrests Salesman.

A man giving the name of H. J. Murray, but who had a pocketful of correspondence addressed to Dr. J. T. Murphy, including a letter of introduction to Governor West signed by Joseph Kennedy, was caught selling co-caine in room 618, Dekum building, at 11 o'clook last night by Patrolines Nelson, Johnson and McCarthy. Nelson handed the man 10 cents for the drug and the latter was in the act of delivering it when the officer disclosed his identity and placed him under arrest. At police headquarters the man was held under $100 bail, which he did not give, and he was looked up.

For some time complaints have been received about the traffic in morphine, optum, sociatio and other drugs in the bekum beilding. The police have been trying for several weeks to find out who was selling the drugs. The janitor has been on vigilant watch every night and many persons have been denied entrance to the building. But in spite of his vigilance the traffic continued.

Room 61s, where Murray, or Murphy, slept, was finally located as the place where the drug was sold. Last nispt Patroliman Nelseon went to a local theater and was made us as a "dope fiend." He, Johnson and McCarthy went to the Dekum building and entered an office across the court from room $1s. Nelseon called Murray on the telephone and maked for cocaline. The man arrested advised him to wait until daylight, as he had been told the poline wers watching him and the janitor might catch him in the building. Nelseon said he could not do without the drug till morning and suggested that when the janitor went to the basement he would slip into the building. This was agreeable to Murray.

In a short time Nelson knocked at the door of room $1s. There was no light incide, but he was told to enter. In the dark the transaction was made. Then the officer flashed his light and the two officers from the adjoining room were summoned. Murray first said the drug he handed Nelson was sucar of lead and then pleaded that it was the first time he had sold the cocaline.

Drunk Is Charge Held Against Woman Arrested at Kramer Riding Academy.

RICH GOWN DOESN'T SAVE

Visitor Who Annoys Patrons Ejected Once, Sent Home Twice and Finally Jailed Despite Appeals and Threats.

A weman, believed to be prominent in Portland society, was arrested for mak-ing a disturbance at the Kramer Riding Academy, Sixteenth and Jefferson streets last night by Patrolman Kilngel, and locked up in the police station charged with being drunk. The woman went to the riding scademy early in the evening and annoyed patrons. She was taken to a house by a woman officer of the Orea house by a woman officer of the Oregon Humane Society and put to bed. She promised to remain in the house but in a short time appeared at the riding academy again and tried to kick the door in when she was denied admittance. Patrolman Klingel was sent to the place and told the woman to go home. She again spomised to behave horself. Klingel had no more than reached the police station when another complaint was received, and the accound time he went after the woman and brought her to the police station.

At the station she refused to give her name and trid the officers:

"It is none of your business."

She accused Klingel of being a newspaper reporter and wanting to "write up" something. She declared she would not tell her name, as she staggered about in the office. Then she tried to bribe her way out and offered to pay a goodly sum if the officers would release her. She cried and stormed but her appears attempts to bribe and threats were of no avail, as she had been given three chances during the night and she was thrown into a common cell in charge of the matron.

The woman finally gave the name of Alics Wallace, under which she was gon Humane Society and put to bed, She

The remantic and whimsical tals contrived by these five contributors toward entertainment, relates to a London restaurauteur and amateur aviator who falls from his acroplane into the peaceful Arcady. Heautiful maidens in Halome costumes, and men who look like Turkish bath "rubbers" ambie about on the green, singing "Pipes o'Pan." oblivious to the danger of catching cold. They have heard of London only as the home of people who prevaricate, and the sating-house gentleman is promptly ducked in the "Wall of Truth" when he tells fibs. Transformed by the enforced plunge into an Arcadian routh and dubbed "Simplicitas," he is sent with Sombra and Chryses, the two loveliest Arcady damesis, back to London to convert its people to the simple life.

The conversion begins at the Askwood race truck, and finaies at the Arcadian restaurant. No one seems to know what becomes of the rather ponges plot, after the second act. Seemingly no one cares.

Miss Thorpe, as Sombrs, has volce enough, big and sweet and wonderfully musical, for two prima donnas, and she acts with graceful sprightliness. Her numbers all received several recalis, and especially liked were her "Pipes of Pan." "Altendy is Ever Young." and a tremendous success was the solo number. "Light Is My Heart." Alte Russon, as an Irish lass, is dainty, sings and dancas excellently and has a touch of what may be called devillableness that capityates her audience.

a locket he had in a safety deposit box also belonged to the establishment. He said he had been discharged by Isidors Hulsman, proprietor of the store, once, and decided to even up things. He also declared he was not making enough money and took this means of nugmenting his salary.

"I don't know what my loss will be," said Mr. Holsman last night, "until I take an inventory of stock. It will probably be between $2000 and $4000. I have been missing meney and jewelry from the store for some time. I have hired peveral detectives to catch the thief but the culprit was not discovered until today. I sent a man into the store today to purchase jewelry. He bought $13.75 worth and Lesser put $1.25 on the books. I sent another man in and he bought a neck chain for $5 and a bracelet for $5. Lesser put the $5 in his pocket. My expenses are $70 a day and my receipts yesterday, exclusive of my own money paid in by my detectives, were not more than $2 or $2. Another item I know of its an alarm clock Lesser sold today for $1.50, for which he made no accounting.
