Vagrant Is Wrong Man.

Late in the afternoon, on information supplied by Mrs. Bertie Perkins, a negrees, living at 33 Ninth street North. Detectives Coleman and Show arrested C. F. Warden, a man 57 years old, at Park and Davis streets. He answered the general description of the man described by Mrs. Nelson, but again the landlady of the loaging-house shook her head. He was, however, booked on a charge of vagrancy.

Mrs. Perkins took the officers to the parents of several young girls, who admitted that last Summer Wasten used to loiter about the North Park blocks and Induce girls to accompany him to his room on Twenty-sixth street. His custom, Mrs. Perkins said, was to entire the girls by presents of money, candy and tickets to moving-picture theaters. On his way to St. Helans, where he satisfied himself that neither of two men under suspicion there was the one wanted, Detective Joe Day found time yesterday afternoon to castigate a man wanted, Detective Joe Day found time yesterday afternoon to castigate a man be saw annoying a little girl in a se-cinded place near the Union Depot.

Johnson declares that a man answering the description of the renter of room 10 at 107 Russell street caught the girl and held her. The mother overtook the child and demanded an explanation, Johnson says, whereupon the man hurried away.

Peter-Krkyes was sent to the rockpile for 65 days Thursday for annoying women and children in the vicinity of East Pins and East Sixth streets.

"We have heard of more cases of this kind since this murder occurred than in a year before," said Captain Moore last night. "Most of the cases date back several weeks and I find that very few of them had been reported to the police before."

The verdict of the Coroner's Jusy was:

"We, the jury, find that the decessed was a child I years of are named Barbars, Holzman, Hying with her parents in Portland, Multinemah County, Oregon; that she was abducied and taken to room 10 at 107 Russell street and there outraged and her body mutilated in an unspeakable manner, and that the child died from shock and suffocation at said time, to will, some time between the hours of 10 A. M. and 4 P. M. on March 14, 1911. The jury further finds that the atroclous crime perpetrated on said child was committed by an uni-dentified man."

Anderson opened the first round by landing a stiff left awing on the chin. The blow seemed to daze Morrissey, who stailed and then rushed wildly. He was met by a straight left which opened a gash above his right eye and sent the blood streaming. Anderson continued his hammering and finally sent Morrissey to the mat. Bud Smith, referee, counted nine before Morrissey staggered to his feet, only to be met with another kneckdown blow, which came just as Timekeeper Jack Grant sounded the gong closing the round. The second round was short lived. Anderson rushing Morrissey, sending in a succession of rights and lefts and sending the man to the mat Once more Morrissey rose, only to go down and stay down before a stinging left swing planted fairly upon the jaw.

Many of the speciators were Portland persons, more than 100 automobiles having brought fans over to the fight. ASTORIA, Or., March 17.—(Special.)
—Sam Radovich, an employe at the Pacine Logging Company's camp on Deep River, was drowned this morning by falling from a log, which he was riding while assisting in making up a raft. The deceased was a native of Montonegro, 15 years of age and unmarried. The body was recovered, after being in the water about 15' minutes.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 17.—Frank Gotch tonight added another to his string of victories when he defeated Charles Cutler, of Chicago, in straight falls, the first in 32 minutes and the second in 10 seconds. Cutler wrenched his ankle in the first bout and made a poor showing in the second.

people exercised by Ireland's first missionary. He compared the present condition of Ireland with that of a century ago and said that he believed the country was entering upon a new era of prospecity, and with its new land laws had every reason to be encouraged over the outlook.

In concluding the speaker told of the growth of religious tolerance in Ireland. In many of the communities, where 90 per cent of the population were Catholics, he said, Protestants were elected to the city councils and a man's religion was not necessarily a har to office-holding. He believed that the Catholic Church was growing broader and wider in its influence and that with the spirit which marks the footsteps of the new era in Ireland it would bring the country to a high state of civilization. Thus the mother country would ngain assume the position of leadership that was rightly hers.

D. J. McLoughlin presided and introduced the speaker. Portland's A Capella chorus of 58 voices under the direction of Frederick W. the moment that Judge John H. Stevenson, sire of the Jinks, assended the rostrum.

Judge Stevenson brought the roomful of celebrants of the natal day of Ireland's patron saint to order with considerable difficulty, and then announced that he would hold court over different victims that Deputy Sheriff Monroe Goldstein should capture.

The deputy sheriff gathered in George L. Baker, of the Baker Theater, who was compelled to answer several questions, including: "How long will it take Ralph Duniway to build the Broadway bridge?" Baker answered all questions except this, and finally owned that he would have to pass that up to Judge M. G. Munly, Broadway bridge expert from the North East Side. In turn, Joseph C. Costello, John Lynn Travis, of the Journal; Deputy Sheriff Goldstein and M. A. Addrich, of the Telegram, were haled before the court and assessed a funny story each. Assistant Secretary Treasurer Severin S. Glass, of the club, was compelled to cat a greased apple suspended from a wire. He failed to eat the apple, but put out the electric lights and for this feat was excused from further punishment.
