FIGHTER BURNED BY ACID. Man, Falling, Breaks Carboy of Powerful Corrosive. With his clothing burned away by sulphuric acid, which was beginning to eat upon his flesh, Ernest Smiley, a plasterer, was taken hastily from Front and Alder streets to the Police Station yesterday morning. His acid-soaked clothing was torn away and he was plunged into a bath tub, after which his burns were treated by Jailer Branch.

SMILEY WAS DRUNK AND HAD ENGAGED in a fight with a half-breed Indian, who knocked him down, in falling he struck and broke a carboy of the acid, which was absorbed by his clothing. By the time he reached the station the powerful corrosive had in the meantime eaten into his garments, and it was found that he had severe burns on all parts of his body.

ALL WASTE MADE FUEL. Marshfield Men Invent Process to Transform Mill and Mine Refuse. MARCHFIELD, Or., March 21.—(Special) Process for the utilization of all waste from sawmills, coal mines and forests has been completed by H. G. Diers of North Bend and Dr. E. Minrus of this city. The plan is to make fuel of the waste. The process is aimed to utilize waste at the mines, everything that is regarded worthless at the sawmills and even the stumps and waste left behind by the loggers.

The inventors say that the fuel can be made in any grade for use in stoves, furnaces, range or grate and also for steam purposes, smelting, blacksmith work and locomotive and naval uses. The fuel does not create any gases, is free from dust and makes but little ashes. It is said that it can be manufactured at a good profit and sold for less than any coal with equal fuel value.

In making the fuel, turpentine, tar, pitch, alcohol, oil, creosote, acid and gas are by-products. As every kind of wood, even stumps, may be made marketable, the inventors believe they have the solution of clearing logged off land profitably.

A site for a manufacturing plant is being sought and it is the intention to put up a factory which will turn out the fuel at the rate of 150 tons a day. Coos Bay is regarded as offering good opportunities for such a plant.

2 CANDIDATES AVOWED

RUSHLIGHT AND WERLEIN IN RACE FOR MAYORALTY. Lombard and Lightner Hesitate. Selling Fears Business Interests Will Keep Him Out.

The Mayorality situation as to Republican candidates did not change yesterday. There are only two avowed candidates in the field to date—City Treasurer Werlein and Councilman Rushlight. County Commissioner Lightner and Councilman Lombard said they were not ready definitely to announce their positions. Early yesterday morning Werlein inaugurated his campaign and closed the day by attending three meetings in different sections of the city. It is his intention to continue these activities daily throughout the campaign.

I will not say that I would not like to be Mayor," said Ben Selling yesterday, when questioned as to the possibility of his becoming a candidate, "because I would. It would be a great honor to be Mayor of a city like Portland. My business interests are an extensive, however, that I feel I cannot possibly neglect them to the extent that would be necessary properly to serve the people of Portland as their Mayor. This is the only reason that causes me to hesitate favorably to consider the urgent requests of my friends that I become a candidate for Mayor. It seems to me that the time has arrived when the Republican state like Oregon should cease electing Democrats to important offices. It is the danger of this very thing in our municipal affairs which I am concerned about the present situation."

Neither Lombard nor Lightner would say yesterday whether or not they would be in the contest. Lombard said he had not given the subject further consideration, but that if his friends wanted him to become a candidate he would do so. Lightner said he had not reached a decision and would not until he had been filled in the coming election. He had urged him to become a candidate. A movement is said to have been started yesterday to line up a strong political club to bring out Werlein as the County Commissioner would not intimate what that alignment would be.

TRADES UNIONS ARE DIVIDED. Organized Labor to Seek at Least Three Places in Council.

Organized labor, through its Central Labor Council, has not indicated what part it expects to take in the approaching municipal election. The council is divided on the subject. Some would place a complete ticket in the field, while others would confine their activities to the endorsement of candidates among the Republicans and Democrats as will pledge themselves to recognize the interests of labor.

The only action of a political nature thus far is that of the waterfront unions which expect to propose Werlein as a political club to bring out labor candidates for Councilman from the Seventh and Eighth Wards.

As in former municipal elections, however, the forces of organized labor will be divided again this year. Already the Socialists have nominated a complete ticket, covering all of the offices to be filled in the coming election. The Socialists, the great majority of whom are laboring men, will very generally support their candidates. This fact will materially influence the following candidates proposed by organized labor may expect.

O. P. MILLER WOULD BE TREASURER. Following the announcement of City Treasurer Werlein's candidacy for Mayor, O. P. Miller, a deputy in the City Treasurer's office, yesterday announced that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for City Treasurer. Mr. Miller is the first candidate to come out for the treasurership, no opposition to Mr. Werlein appearing while he is in line for re-election to that office.

and found a third charge added to the list. He was booked three times at the City Jail yesterday afternoon. Two citizens, unaware of each other, complained that they had been assaulted by Waldt. One of the offenses was placed on the East Side and the other at Waldt's place of employment. Patrolman Hirsch was sent to make the arrest, but Waldt refused to recognize the officer, who seized him by the coat and dragged him out of the office.

Irrigating Ditches Allowed. Federal Judge Wolverton decided yesterday morning that the Willow River Land & Irrigation Company may construct irrigating ditches and flumes across the land of the Eastern Oregon Land Company, but that it must pay the Eastern Oregon Land Company $2575 damages for the use of the land. The land is located in Malheur County, and is now covered with sagebrush. The Eastern Oregon Company contested the claims of the Willow River Company, saying it intended to construct an irrigating system of its own.
